REBELS MARCH ON BRAZIL CITY; BATTLE NEAR

Federal Troops Take Palmyra.

BY HAROLD TATAM.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]
(Picture on back page.)

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina, Oct. 9.—Brazilian revolutionary reports today indicate that a battle for the possession of Sao Paulo, the largest city in Brazil, is imminent. The Rio Grande do Sul rebels in addition to consolidating their positions claimed to have entered the state of Sao Paulo and only to be waiting for reinforcements in order to engage against the federal troops. It is believed that the first action will take place somewhere in the vicinity of Castro, 240 miles from the rebel objective.

There were indications, however, that these reinforcements might not arrive. Federal troops have apparently made their first counter offensive in the state of Minas Geraes and are reported to have recaptured the town of Palmyra and to be making their way to the state capital of Bello Horizonte, where a besieged federal regiment continues to hold its own with the aid of a few pieces of mountain artillery.

Stop Fusion of Rebels.

The Minas Geraes rebels had planned to unite with those of Rio Grande do Sul in a concerted attack on Sao Paulo. This move appears to be temporarily checked.

While contradictory and unreliable rumors keep on filtering through from the town of Rivera, on the border of Rio Grande do Sul and Uruguay, there has come partial confirmation of the claim, made earlier in the day, that the Minas Geraes rebels had succeeded in capturing the railroad junction at Lorena, midway between Rio de Janeiro and Sao Paulo.

Should this be true, the rebels have achieved a serious blow at the federal government, as the capture of this strategic point may prevent the entrance of federal forces in the two states and will prevent the sending of reinforcements to the defenders of Sao Paulo.

March on Florianopolis.

It was also reliably reported that the rebels are rapidly approaching Florianopolis, the only city left in federal hands in the state of Santa Catharina. Col. Francisco da Cunha, revolutionary leader in the city of Rio Grande do Sul, claimed that its fall was imminent, although Rio de Janeiro advices state that the city is strongly defended by six regiments of federal troops.

Col. da Cunha also reported that the port of Rio Grande do Sul has been effectively bottled up by the sinking of 25 boats in the mouth of the harbor in order to prevent entry of federal warships. A similar measure had been taken yesterday, when six barges were sunk, making the harbor inaccessible except at high tide.

The rebels report that Gen. Juarez Tavora, the Liberal leader in the north, is rapidly advancing against Bahia and is meeting with no resistance.

SAO PAULO, Oct. 9.—An attempt by Minas Geraes revolutionists enrolled in their territory to induce the opposing force of loyal Sao Paulo troops to desert almost ended disastrously for the Minas Geraes spokesman.

According to reports the commander of the revolutionists sent an officer under a truce flag who asked for conditions to be arranged between the commanders of the two forces, intimating it would be to the advantage of the Sao Paulo force to come over to the rebel Minas Geraes side.

The loyal commander gave the officer a few seconds to disappear before he started shooting, after saying that the only reply the overture merited was from the mouth of a gun.

A few minutes later the federal officer crossed the bridge to attack, but the revolutionists refused to give battle and retired.

Rebel Prisoners Arrive.

Allowed in, with all means of exit promptly blocked, the Minas Geraes contingent, which is headed by the former president of the republic, Arthur Bernardes, appears to be ill fated. The first contingent of rebel prisoners, consisting of Minas Geraes politicians, were escorted to the army headquarters in Rio de Janeiro, where reports state they were received well. There are no disorders in any part

THREE CONFESS ROBBING HOME OF W. V. KELLEY

Through the efforts of Police Chief Lester Tiffany of Lake Forest, the three robbers who on Sept. 29 invaded the Lake Bluff residence of William V. Kelley in search of the $60,000 family jewels, terrorized the household and escaped with $234, were arrested yesterday. All three confessed the robbery.

On directions from Chief Tiffany the Chicago police arrested two of the robbers, Martin Erle, 35 years old, 1822 North Wells street, and Chris Staropoulis, 35 years old, 2461 North Clark street, at the Germania garage, 1510 North Clark street, where both are employed. They named as instigator of the robbery plot Isidore H. Curtis, 45 years old, 1106 Dobson avenue, Evanston, former owner of the Germania garage.

Curtis, who was once employed by Mr. Kelley as chauffeur, when confronted with the signed confessions of Ertle and Staropoulis, said he had planned the robbery and enlisted his confederates.

Kerens to Get $1,900,000 by His Behavior

St. Louis, Mo., Oct. 9.—[Special.]—Vincent Kerens, 54, Chicago and Dallas broker, will receive at once his $1,900,000 share of the estate of his father, Richard C. Kerens, former ambassador to Austria-Hungary, as a result of a decision handed down by Federal Judge Faris here today.

A trust company was instructed by Judge Faris to proceed at once to close the trust fund established in the elder Kerens' will, filed after he died in 1916. The will required that Vincent should live a life of "sobriety and good behavior" for five consecutive years. The court held that evidence submitted in a trial of the case several months ago showed that Kerens had complied with the terms of the will.

Object to Divorce.

Objections to Kerens' receiving the money were made by his two sisters, Mrs. Madeline Kenna of New York and London and Mrs. Gladys Colket of Philadelphia, on the ground that their brother had failed to live up to the good behavior clause by divorcing his first wife and marrying a second time, violating the tenets of the Catholic church. Richard Kerens was a devout Catholic. Replying to this objection, Judge Faris said:

"Good behavior does not connote or imply any command, request or direction of Vincent Kerens to work or labor or engage in any gainful occupation. It does not connote any requirement that Vincent shall adhere to the faith or tenets of any particular religion.

"Nor did the terms forbid him from resorting to a court, in common with other citizens, to dissolve the bonds of matrimony for good cause to be shown to the court. The terms command him to be a law abiding citizen, and to adhere to human standards of decent morality in living and actions."

Kerens Lives in Chicago.

Since the trial of the case Kerens and his wife, with their two adopted children, have been living in Chicago. Discussing the decision over long distance telephone, Kerens said:

"I haven't dared to make any plans until I knew something final. Naturally I am pleased with this news."

150 FOOT BREACH IN BELGIAN DIKE; SEND OUT S O S

BRUSSELS, Oct. 9.—(AP)—A breach 150 feet wide in one of the dikes along the river Nethe today caused a dangerous flood and inundated houses in several townships around Lierre, near Antwerp.

People began moving furniture and cattle to higher levels. Several factories are in a precarious position at Duffel, the waters there having reached the top of the dike, which is being slowly undermined.

Local authorities have appealed to the government for help. The highest tide of the year is due late in the night. Recent persistent rains, following a gale yesterday, have joined with the high tides to swell the waters of the river.

9 YEAR OLD BOY KILLS MOTHER TO 'AVENGE HONOR'

[Copyright: 1930: By the New York Times.]

TIRANA, Albania, Oct. 9.—The traditional stern regard of Albanians for family honor was exemplified today near here. A 9 year old peasant boy deliberately killed his mother to protect his family's name.

Having heard gossip about his mother, the boy secured a revolver and followed her to the house of a man neighbor. When she left the house he shot her dead, pocketed the revolver and solemnly walked to gendarmerie headquarters, where he surrendered himself, saying:

"Please arrest me; I've just shot my mother outside her lover's house to restore the honor of my family."

RUM KILLS FOUR AT LEGION MEET; 358 MADE ILL

Boston, Mass., Oct. 9.—(AP)—Paul E. Leary, Little Falls, N. Y., Legionnaire, who set up a bootlegging establishment in a room in the Copley Plaza hotel, was fined $250 by Judge James A. Lowell in federal court today on a charge of possessing liquor.

A checkup on hospitals revealed that 358 persons had been treated during the week of the Legion convention for alcoholism and that there were four deaths and scores of temporary blindings and paralysis.

BIG BROKERAGE FIRM SUSPENDS AS PRICES FALL

Sales for Day Total 5,050,600 Shares.

BY FRED HARVEY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Oct. 9.—[Special.]—A brief little bulletin announcing the suspension of the brokerage house of Prince & Whitely—the second in two weeks—was read from the rostrum of the New York stock exchange shortly before noon today and the shock of it upon an already nerve-racked trading community was sufficient to loose a flood of selling orders that before it subsided had swept share values generally to the lowest levels of the year.

Sales of stocks on the exchange today totaled 5,050,600 shares, and sales of curb stocks 1,100,100.

United States Steel, the recognized leader of the market, fell crashing through its so-called resistance levels of 150 on a sale of 25,000 shares—a $3,750,000 transaction it was—and then went tumbling on to a minimum of 146, where it was off more than $5 a share on the day. Radio, General Electric, New York Central, Standard Gas, Westinghouse Manufacturing, and a host of other group pivotals followed suit, giving up anywhere from 3 to 16 points before finding new bottoms to rest upon. Losses among the more nimble footed volatiles mounted as high as $26.50 a share.

Worst Day Since Spring.

It was the most disastrous day the market has gone through since last spring, and one of the two or three worst since the historic crackup of last autumn. Paper losses to the victims will run high into the millions.

Here is how a group of representative stocks fared on the day's operations and how they compared at the end with the lows they bumped in the big crash last fall:

| | 1929 low. | Today's close. | Today's net loss. |
|---|---|---|---|
| American Can | 86 | 114⅝ | — 4½ |
| Am. For. Power | 101½ | 101 | — 1½ |
| Atchison | 195½ | 202½ | — 1¾ |
| Bethlehem Steel | 78¼ | 71½ | — 4¾ |
| Cons. Gas | 80½ | 95½ | — 4⅝ |
| General Electric | 55¼ | 55 | — 3⅝ |
| General Motors | 33½ | 36⅜ | — 1 |
| Johns Manville | 90 | 66½ | — 5¾ |
| Illinois Central | 116 | 105 | — 1½ |
| International Tel. | 53 | 25½ | — 2½ |
| Loews Inc. | 32 | 61⅝ | — 3½ |
| Montgomery Ward | 42¾ | 22¼ | — 2¼ |
| New York Central | 160 | 141½ | — 5½ |
| Radio | 26 | 22¼ | — 1¼ |
| Sears-Roebuck | 80 | 55½ | — 1½ |
| Standard Oil of N. J | 48 | 56¼ | — 2½ |
| United Aircraft & Tr. | 31 | 33½ | — 3½ |
| U. S. Steel | 150 | 146⅜ | — 4⅝ |

Measured by THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE'S averages the break was the sharpest of the current decline. The twenty-five representative industrials figuring in the computation showed an average net loss of $11.13 on the day, the 25 railroads of the list dropped $1.91 and the average on fifty stocks of various classification slumped $6.02.

Branch in Chicago.

The suspended firm, Prince & Whitely, was one of the oldest banking and brokerage houses in the country with branches in Chicago, Cleveland, Detroit, Akron, Indianapolis, Philadelphia, and Reading. Its assets were estimated as high as $50,000,000. A few hours after announcement of its suspension was made from the floor of the exchange an involuntary petition in bankruptcy was filed

Liner Sights Old Columbia 400 Miles Out

New York, Oct. 9.—[Special.]—Somewhere out over the north Atlantic the veteran Bellanca monoplane Columbia, conqueror of the ocean three years ago, winged its way through the night bound for Croydon, England, from Harbor Grace, Newfoundland. At the controls was Capt. J. Errol Boyd, war flyer in the Canadian royal flying corps, and by his side in the tiny cabin sat Lieut. Harry P. Connor, U. S. naval reserve, as navigator.

For the first part of the trip at least the old Bellanca fought a head wind, according to the weather reports.

Liner Sights Monoplane.

At 5:40 p. m. eastern standard time, or 4:40 p. m. central standard time, the silver gray plane was sighted by the liner Lancastria. The position given by the Lancastria would put the plane 400 miles due east of Harbor Grace. At that time the flyers were 6 hours and 20 minutes on their way, indicating that the plane was maintaining an average speed of less than 100 miles an hour and bearing out the weather reports of Dr. James H. Kimball that for the first part of the voyage the flyers would be facing head winds.

One hour and thirty-five minutes after the takeoff the plane was sighted by the Quaker City about 100 miles east-northeast of Cape Grace. The plane was flying easily and well. Its course then was due east and its altitude about 200 feet.

Weather reports indicated the flyers would be fighting rain and poor visibility for nearly three-fourths of the way across.

Must Fight Rain.

Success, then, in this attempt—not the less daring because it had been made over the same course and from the same starting point three times before—must depend on the coolness and skill and endurance of Boyd in a night black with rain and clouds, and the navigating ability of Connor. The plane carries no radio.

Then there is the plane and engine that must not fail. The same combination did not fail three years ago when Clarence D. Chamberlin, with Charles A. Levine beside him in the cockpit, flew this whirlwind powered Bellanca to a new world's distance record from Roosevelt field to Eisleten, Germany.

At the start from Harbor Grace the Columbia got off the ground with a load of 5,500 pounds. The flyers got away after surmounting many difficulties, including legal troubles.

Court Grounds Plane.

They borrowed the machine from Levine during the summer and had hoped to be on their way months ago. However, while preparing in Canada, Roger Q. Williams, trans-Atlantic airman, brought a court action which held the Columbia on the ground for a few days. This delay was followed by a period of bad weather and it was not until last month that the old plane rose at Montreal and pointed east. Bad weather forced it down at Chariottestown, P. E. I., and there was another two weeks' delay.

They arrived at Harbor Grace Sept. 23 and since then have watched the weather reports hoping for the break that they believed was theirs yesterday morning. If all goes well the Columbia should arrive within sight of Ireland soon after daylight and, riding a west wind with fair weather, should reach London by 7 a. m. eastern standard time.

Hops for Australia.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Oct. 9.—Wing Commander Charles Kingsford-Smith, the trans-Atlantic flyer who left Heston, Middlesex, today to attempt a record flight to Australia, landed at Rome this evening, reports reaching here said. He was piloting a light plane which had been christened Southern Cross Junior. The first hop to Rome covered 1,200 miles.

RALPH CAPONE SPENDS DAY IN POLICE CUSTODY

Gangster Quizzed on Lyle's Orders.

Ralph Capone, ranking as gangster No. 2 in the list of Chicago's "public enemies," was given a "pushing around" by the police under orders of Judge John H. Lyle yesterday. The dark, sleepy eyed Ralph, regarded as second only to his brother, Alphonse, in the organizing of crime, was put through the bureau of identification, photographed, finger printed and questioned by the same officials who had detained him only ten minutes the day before when Ralph surrendered and posted $10,000 in currency as bail.

Capone was finally set at liberty at 6 o'clock in the evening after Judge Lyle had approved his bond. The judge commented upon the "unfortunate lack of enthusiasm in prosecuting criminals shown by certain executives of the police department."

Capone Faces Judge Lyle.

Capone, now awaiting an appeal from a three years' prison sentence imposed in the federal court for income tax evasion, stepped before the bench in the morning with his attorney, Miles J. Devine. The petition for a change of venue, alleging that Judge Lyle was prejudiced, was presented.

"How does this man happen to be at liberty?" asked the judge.

"I was informed that he merely laid down ten nice new $1,000 bills at the detective bureau and was allowed to walk away although the bond was not approved by a judge," put in Assistant State's Attorney Harry Ditchburne. "He wasn't even questioned."

Judge Orders His Arrest.

"Take him into custody," said Judge Lyle. "Even a cash bond must be deposited in a legal way. It will have to be approved by a judge. I see that this picture of him in the bureau of identification is five years old. His criminal record should be brought up to date. All this should have been done yesterday."

"My client is no vagrant," protested Attorney Devine. "He has nine horses at the Hawthorne race track."

"The unusual manner of his being freed yesterday illustrates again some of the peculiar methods of the police department," commented the judge. "Petty violators are thrown into jail on Saturday night and forced to remain there until Monday morning. But a Capone seems to get unusual consideration."

Attorney Wants a Bailiff.

"If he's going to be taken into custody, I ask that he be put in the hands of a bailiff so that he will not be kicked and cuffed about," said the lawyer.

"What!" demanded the judge. "Courtesy to a Capone? To a man who with his brother is the head of a gang of criminals the like of which the world has never known? He'll be taken into custody like any common criminal.

"I understand that Chief of Detectives Norton was too busy to interrogate this man yesterday. I now order that he be taken to Commissioner Alcock for questioning. As ex-officio bailiff of the Municipal court, the chief of police is subject to orders from this court and I order him to question this prisoner."

The hearing was continued until 5 o'clock in the evening while Capone was taken to the city hall. There, the policemen holding the prisoner were told that Commissioner Alcock was busily engaged in superintending the celebration for W. R. Hearst and would not have time to question Capone.

He's Questioned by Norton.

The gangster was then taken to the detective bureau and put through the bureau of identification. Chief of Detectives Norton questioned him.

"What do you know about the records stolen from the detective bureau and found in the hands of one of your bondsmen?" Capone was asked.

"I'll answer no questions," replied the gangster.

"Where's your brother, Al?"

"Cut out this bunk. You'll get nothing from me and you know it."

Refuses to Increase Bail.

Informed of the day's happenings at the evening hearing, Judge Lyle approved the bond, permitting Capone to go free. He refused a motion by Prosecutor Ditchburne to raise the bond higher, saying:

"I know, of course, that I am breaking a precedent in setting a bond as high as $10,000 on a vagrancy charge. But, as I have repeatedly said, the nature of the defendants and Seeing Col. Henry Barrett Chamberlin in the court, the judge remarked:

"In view of the present demoralized state of the executive end of the police department, I don't know what the city would do if it were not for the splendid work done by the Chicago crime commission. It's too bad that we can't get some interested coöperation from the police."

Willie Niemoth Gets 10 Years.

Willie Niemoth, one of the "public enemies," was sentenced to serve ten years in the penitentiary by a Baltimore judge yesterday. For three years Niemoth fought extradition from Chicago but was taken to Baltimore last June and convicted. Niemoth and two others held up and robbed four clerks of a Baltimore concern of $47,000 pay roll in October, 1926.

"Tough Tony" Capezio, a Capone gangster, was held to the grand jury in $10,000 bonds by Justice of the Peace William Ward at Morton Grove yesterday. Capezio was arrested in a roadhouse last week and was seen to throw a .45 caliber revolver beneath his table. He was charged with carrying concealed weapons.

DR. J. L. LAUGHLIN TO BE HONORED BY BUSINESS MEN

Dr. James Laurence Laughlin, 82 year old scholar and banking authority, who organized the department of political economy at the University of Chicago in 1892, will be honored by a group of Chicago business men at a luncheon today at the Union League club. The event celebrates the impending publication by the University of Chicago press of Dr. Laughlin's life work, "Money, Credit, and Prices."

Dr. Laughlin, who has lived in the east since his retirement from the university in 1916, will arrive from Drums, Pa., this morning. Chicagoans who contributed to publication of his work are Martin A. Ryerson, Julius Rosenwald, George Reynolds, Harold Swift, Harry Wheeler, Bernard E. Sunny, Thomas E. Donnelley, Cyrus H. McCormick, John V. Farwell, George Woodruff, Mrs. Joseph Schaffner, and Mrs. Edmund D. Hulbert.

Dr. Laughlin came to the university in the year of its founding. He is the author of fourteen works in English and one in German, and since 1892 has been editor of the Journal of Political Economy.

STANTON FEARS HIS REPUTATION IS AGAINST HIM

One thing Danny Stanton doesn't want at the present time is to be sent to Wisconsin, his attorney, Thomas D. Nash, admitted yesterday. Stanton believes his status as a public enemy, hoodlum and Capone beer gangster would be enough to cause his conviction of the murder of Jack Zuta near Delafield, Wis., last July, even without eye witness proof. The matter of Stanton's extradition to Wisconsin is to be decided today by Gov. Emmerson or a designated agent of the governor.

"We expect to have one witness who will testify Stanton was in Chicago at the time of the murder of Zuta in Wisconsin," Attorney Nash declared. "We could bring more but they might be subjected to embarrassment later by police. We are satisfied no proof can be offered by the other side that Stanton was in Wisconsin."

Attorney Nash suggested he would seek to offset the testimony of Col. Calvin H. Goddard, ballistic expert, that Stanton's gun was used in the murder of Zuta.

SEIZE RECORDS OF EMPLOYERS IN RACKET QUIZ

Sheet Metal Association Under Scrutiny.

Records and documents seized in a raid yesterday on the offices of the Sheet Metal Employers' association, 350 North Clark street, were under examination last night by assistant state's attorneys assigned to the campaign against racketeers. The evidence obtained will be presented to the grand jury today or Monday with a request for indictments, according to Prosecutors Charles J. Mueller and Charles E. Lounsbury.

Specific complaints against the organizers of the association are that they were in collusion with union labor officials and had strikes called when employers of sheet metal workers refused to join. The association exacted 5 per cent of the yearly business of its members, the prosecutors said, and those refusing to join complained they could not afford that payment.

Strike in Lincoln Park.

A strike was called on the new field house building of Lincoln park, which was to have been dedicated Oct. 15, but which is left without a roof on it. The contractor employed union help, but refused to join the organization.

Mr. Lounsbury said that Joe Allen, business agent of Local 17, slate, tile, and asbestos roofers' union, and James Close, business agent of Local 73 of the sheet metal workers' union, were apparently in collusion with the association officials.

The officers of the association under investigation and named by Mr. Lounsbury are George Kretchkopf, president; Richard E. Mansfield, vice president; Fred Ripdon, secretary; T. A. Stirton and Peter Bigler, executive committee members, and Fred Puschow, business manager.

Prosecutors Face Eviction.

The prosecutors had a little difficulty of their own yesterday, being faced with eviction from the suite of offices in the Home Insurance building, 137 South La Salle street, into which they moved Wednesday. Frank W. Whiston, manager of the building, served a ten day notice to move on Assistant State's Attorney Edwin Dufficy. He mentioned a few reasons—the prosecutors would probably be working nights; their automobiles were parked so as to block access to coal holes, and Cook county's credit was none too good for the rental of $225 per month.

Assistant State's Attorney Mueller, in charge, said he didn't propose to be kicked out and he would maintain his offices there until the sheriff put the furniture on the street. He suspected that possibly the janitors' union was back of the ouster order. Dufficy meanwhile served a forthwith grand jury subpoena on Manager Whiston and took him to the Criminal Court building, where he was to be asked to tell the real reason back of the ten day notice. He told Whiston he suspected that some racketeering agency had intimidated the building management.

Prosecutors to Remain.

Whiston protested this was not so. The building is owned by the Marshall Field estate and does not employ union janitors, window washers, or firemen, he said. At the door of the grand jury room he changed his mind and said the anti-racketeering staff might remain in its new headquarters and he was not required to go before the grand jury.

$55,725 IN REWARDS.

Rewards totaling $55,725 are offered for information leading to the arrest and conviction of the slayer of Alfred Lingle. Of the $25,000 reward offered by The Tribune, $10,000 will be paid to any person who will give confidential information identifying the slayer of Lingle. All information should be sent to the headquarters established by State's Attorney Swanson in room 503 Temple building, 77 West Washington street. Telephone State 3729.

100 SURVIVORS OF CHICAGO FIRE OBSERVE DATE

A hundred or more survivors of the Chicago fire gathered at the Chicago Historical society yesterday afternoon to see again the photographic slides portraying the disaster of 59 years ago and to exchange first hand experiences.

In the illustrated talk Wallace Rice told how 17,450 buildings were burned at the rate of eight a minute, and related how 100,000 of the 320,000 residents of Chicago were made homeless. The fire burned more than three square miles, at the rate of an acre a minute, he said, and the property loss was estimated at $192,000,000.

Veterans of the fire were guests of honor yesterday at a luncheon of the Kiwanis club in the Hotel Sherman. The luncheon was held in commemoration of the fire and to celebrate fire prevention day. Wallace Rogers of the fire prevention department of the Western Actuary bureau spoke on the value of fire prevention. Members of the fire department and fire insurance patrol also were guests of the club.

EX-BANK CASHIER HELD ON CHARGE OF $34,000 THEFT

John H. Maywald, former cashier of the Jackson Park National bank, surrendered to Deputy United States Marshal William Thompson yesterday on a charge of embezzling $34,000 from the bank. Maywald had been sought, according to federal authorities, since a suppressed indictment was returned against him on Oct. 2. He was held in lieu of $10,000 bond, which was fixed by the grand jury.

Maywald's activities in the stock market following the crash of last fall led him to misappropriate funds of the bank, Assistant United States Attorney James C. Leaton said. The shortage was said to have been discovered on June 20 by the bank examiners, who reported the incident to the United State's attorney's office.

Maywald was discharged from the bank after making restitution of about $15,000 in stock which he still held. The remaining $19,000 loss to the bank was covered by the insurance company. Maywald claims he mortgaged his home at 9705 Prospect avenue to pay the surety company, Leaton said.

Maywald is named on six counts in the true bill. He is 30 years old, married, and the father of two small children.

SEIZE YOUTH FOR EMBEZZLEMENT.

James Selman, 20 years old, 5118 Dorchester avenue, was arrested by Canalport police yesterday on a warrant charging him with embezzlement of $1,200 from his employers, the Goldenrod Ice Cream company, 817 West 51st street.

MAYOR GREETS W. R. HEARST IN SOLDIERS' FIELD

Parades and Addresses Mark Reception.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.

W. R. Hearst was the official guest of Chicago yesterday in a program of parades, wreath laying, music, and speeches and banquets.

It was Chicago day, and also an occasion for Mayor Thompson, who had worn himself to hoarseness in working during the last 18 days for the success of this demonstration.

Soldiers' field was the center of it all, at 2:40 o'clock in the afternoon, when the mayor and the California publisher arrived there behind a gay line of floats depicting historical scenes, and bombs, cheers, and music made the stadium ring.

Prosperity and Welcome.

Perhaps there was some disappointment in it for close observers of the mayor's political fortunes, for the crowd at no time exceeded 50,000, and by the time the speaking began it had dwindled to 15,000 or 20,000. Chicago day memories, the mayor's new slogan of "prosperity," and the welcome to Hearst on his return from Europe and his expulsion by the French government, seemed to be all mixed up.

The mayor had determined to put on the greatest show of his life. He had sensed the public psychology at present as a mood of fear, and he wanted to give them something with noise and color and cheer to make them forget their fears. The Hearst reception furnished the opportunity. City officials, regardless of party, were ready to join this, and the state and county lent substantial aid to it.

Singers and Bands There.

The Chicago Police band was there, with its fine octette. Present also were the German Choral society of several hundred voices, the United Swedish Singers, with hundreds more, the crack Black Horse troop of the Illinois National Guard, 5,000 schoolboy members of the R. O. T. C., with their bands, and a massed band of hundreds of pieces under the direction of James C. Petrillo, president of the Chicago Federation of Musicians.

William Saltiel, city attorney, was master of ceremonies on the stage, which had been built in the center of Soldiers' field. City employés acted as ticket takers and ushers. Fourteen hundred policemen were assigned to the parades and the other features of the day.

Samuel Ettelson, corporation counsel, was toastmaster, announcing the various events and presenting the speakers. Mayor Thompson and the official guest were supplemented by Lieut. Gov. Fred Sterling, who voiced welcome on behalf of Illinois, and A. J. Cermak, president of the county board.

Former Gov. Len Small came in just before these ceremonies and sat down beside the mayor and his guest. The platform was crowded with judges, officeholders, and candidates.

Among the most interested and honored spectators were twenty members of the George Thomas post, G. A. R., who had front seats on the stage, facing a sea of young faces, the uniformed high school cadets, who had been arranged on the grass in front of the speakers.

At the time that the mayor in his sport car rolled around the field, waving his cowboy hat, while Hearst, in frock coat and black hat, bowed at his side, there were about 50,000 persons in the stadium, according to George T. Donoghue, superintendent of the south parks.

As they stepped from the car the aerial bombs were set off and a cascade of small American flags floated high in the air, while the massed bands played "America."

Party Moves to Platform.

The mayor and his guest went through the crowd to the platform, where amplifiers had been arranged for the service of the far away seats. The high school boys were dismissed about this time and people began to melt away.

Olga Menn sang to the Senn band accompaniment, then Lieut. Gov. Sterling read his speech of welcome. The guest of the day sat by former Gov. Small and the mayor. His hair is gray, his eyes clear, and his color has the tone of health.

The police octette sang the old Thompson campaign song, "America First," and then Mr. Ettelson introduced the show master as "the greatest mayor Chicago ever had."

The mayor said he was hoarse from his efforts to get the people's support for this welcome. He thanked E. J. Kelly of the south park board and Mr. Cermak for their help in getting out the multitude. He reminded his audience that this was Chicago day, and said that "thanks to this great organization of Republicans and Democrats, we will go forward to another Chicago day and make jobs and prosperity for the people."

He referred to his guest as "the greatest living American," and spoke of his power in being able to instill patriotism into the hearts of 20,000,000 people every day.

Hearst spoke of the treaty, the publication of which caused the action of the French government. This was not obtained by dishonorable means, he said, but by a practical application of Chicago's motto "I Will." He became emphatic and smacked the stand in front of the microphone as he said that for the interests of this country he would do the same thing again "even if I were expelled from every country in Europe for doing it."

Hearst Speaks of Prosperity.

He touched on the subject of prosperity in an interview later, saying:

"Business is good in California, New York, and Chicago. This country of ours is a prosperous country right now. It may not be as prosperous as it was last year, or as prosperous as it will be next year, but the majority of the people today have money and have business; and if they will attend to their business and keep out of the hands of get rich quick speculators, and have confidence in their country and in themselves they will soon bring back a greater prosperity than we have ever had before.

"Don't get cold feet; don't contract; don't cut wages; don't discharge men.

"Keep up your business; be satisfied with a little less profit; make things as good as possible, and sell them as cheap as possible, and sell and manufacture as much as possible.

"If you have a good product or a good stock, tell the public about it. They have the money to buy anything that they really want.

"This is still the most prosperous nation in the world, and business is getting better every day."

'PROSPERITY DAY' BANQUETS DRAW MAYOR'S FRIENDS

2,100 School Employes at One of Two Dinners.

The Chicago Day-Prosperity celebration concluded last night with two dinners, under the auspices of Mayor Thompson and his organization.

It had been originally intended to stage twenty banquets over the city as a part of the reception for W. R. Hearst, the California publisher, but Mr. Hearst found it expedient to lay his plans to leave for his home last night and the number of dinners was cut from twenty to five.

One of these was to have been given by the Greater South Side Chamber of Commerce. Frank J. O'Brien, its president, said that he had been approached by a representative of the mayor, who painted a glowing picture of the south side body combining, in effort, with a similar group on the north side and one on the west side to beat the drum for prosperity under the wing of the Thompson group.

Rejects Banquet Suggestion.

But Mr. O'Brien told the mayor's representative: "I'm not interested," and no banquet was held on the south side.

Whatever efforts were made to promote a north side banquet were also unsuccessful.

On the west side, H. J. Ruggles, manager of the West Town chamber of commerce, planned a banquet several days ago, believing, he said, that it was solely for the promotion of prosperity. He said he was astounded to read in the Hearst newspapers that the entire day was to be signalized by the presence of Mr. Hearst under the guidance of the mayor.

Banquet Off; Money Refunded.

Yesterday afternoon, Mr. Ruggles and his aides called every person they could reach by telephone among the 250 who had bought tickets, and told them the affair was canceled and that the $3 each person had paid for his dinner would be refunded. Those who went to the Mid-West Athletic club to attend the scheduled dinner, ignorant of its cancellation, were confronted by a huge red sign carrying the announcement, and received a refund of their money at the door. The rest of the fund collected will be mailed to the donors.

This dinner was to have been addressed by Senator Smith Wildman Brookhart of Iowa, but Mr. Ruggles said that a number of the business men "couldn't stomach Brookhart," and the senator was not a speaker at any of the other banquets of the evening.

Dr. Kegel, commissioner of health, had been given the job of organizing a dinner of doctors and dentists at the Congress hotel, but Kegel, it was reported, did not enter into the spirit of the plans and did not assign stenographers and office help to assist the mayor in his preparations inasmuch as Kegel's own office work was two weeks behind. Thus, there was no dinner at the Congress.

At the Sherman hotel, however, President Lewis E. Myers and the board of education sponsored a dinner for which about 2,100 school teachers and others paid $5 per plate. This affair had as speakers Franklyn Hobbs, vice president of the Central Trust company; Bernard J. Mullaney, vice president of the Peoples Gas, Light and Coke company, an Insull property; Lieut. Gov. Sterling, and Speaker David E. Shanahan of the Illinois house of representatives. Each stuck to prosperity in his remarks.

Mayor Attacks Tribune.

The mayor had his own dinner at the Palmer House, where he addressed himself chiefly to THE TRIBUNE.

"This tumor has become a stench," roared the mayor. "If you want to operate on it tomorrow, quit buying it and it will dry up in dry rot. It presumes to tell decent people who to vote for. I'll tell you whom the decent people ought to vote for! Everybody THE TRIBUNE is against. It is drunk with money, drunk with power, yes, and drunk with liquor and narcotics. Your mayor never reads it."

Former Senator James A. Reed of Missouri followed the mayor and spoke on foreign relations, prohibition, and the glory of America.

Car Lines Escape Tieup in Hearst Fete Parade

The automobile parade led by Mayor Thompson and his guest, W. R. Hearst, circled the boulevard system yesterday without the serious blockade of traffic that had been expected by the surface lines. There were not the 4,865 automobiles that Mayor Thompson had said would be in the parade.

Street car company employés watched the progress of the procession so that schedules could be adjusted to minimize the number of cars that would be stalled. At Chicago and Michigan avenues a watcher reported there were 858 automobiles that took twenty-three minutes to pass.

Service on the elevated lines, which are controlled by Samuel Insull, was not delayed by the parade. The superintendent of transportation estimated the celebration brought about 8,000 additional patrons to the elevated.

LYLE SHOULD NOT BE RE-ELECTED, BAR REPORT SAYS

Committee Opposes Four Other City Judges.

BY PARKE BROWN.

Five municipal judges were condemned yesterday by representatives of the Chicago Bar association. One of them is Judge John H. Lyle, who has been a leader in the vagrancy war against public enemies. The other four are Judges George A. Curran, Herbert G. Immenhausen, Max Luster, and Joseph L. McCarthy.

All are candidates for reelection on Nov. 4. They were hit in the report of the Bar association's committee on candidates, consisting of sixteen former presidents of the organization. The report was issued as one of the customary preliminaries to the Bar association primary, a copy being mailed to each member of the association with the ballot he is to return by next Wednesday.

Election of Five Opposed.

The finding in reference to each of the five judges named closed with the words, "should not be elected." Of the other sitting municipal judges seeking reelection, Judges Edgar A. Jonas and Charles F. McKinley were pronounced "exceptionally well qualified." The remaining two, Judges Harry F. Hamlin and John J. Lupe, were declared "well qualified."

Of the new candidates for the city bench only two were found "well qualified," and only four more were said to be "qualified." Five others were described as "fairly well qualified," the next notch down in the association's regular form or rating. Therefore there are only fifteen out of twenty-eight nominees who are given a passing mark.

Of the twelve nominees for six vacancies in the Superior and Circuit courts only three were pronounced "qualified." Four were found "fairly well qualified," and five were declared "not qualified."

Both County Judge Edmund K. Jarecki and Probate Judge Henry Horner, who are up for reelection, were praised with the highest award of the committee—that of "exceptionally well qualified."

Report on the Candidates.

COUNTY COURT.

Edmund K. Jarecki, Dem.—In administering this highly important office for eight years has shown ability, courage, honesty, and good judgment; exceptionally well qualified.

William E. Helander, Rep.—Municipal court service for eight years creditable; fairly well qualified.

PROBATE COURT.

Henry Horner, Dem.—Sixteen years of service has the deserved approval of the bar; exceptionally well qualified.

David M. Bell, Rep.—Good reputation for integrity; has not had experience to qualify him.

SUPERIOR COURT.

Comerford Vacancy.

Howard W. Hayes, Rep.—His work as Municipal court judge has repeatedly received approval of the bar; qualified.

John Prystalski, Dem.—Active trial experience and considerable work as master in chancery; fairly well qualified.

Hopkins Vacancy.

James Joseph Kelly, Dem.—Long, active, varied experience as lawyer and master in chancery; qualified.

John A. Sbarbaro, Rep.—Diligent, patient, courteous, but lacks adequate experience; not qualified.

Gemmill Vacancy.

La Roy Milliner, Rep.—His experience in general practice has been inadequate to fit him for judicial office; not qualified.

Walter T. Stanton, Dem.—Lacks poise and judicial temperament; not qualified.

In a preface to the report the committee condemned reported efforts to put the appointment of receivers on a political basis. It received complaints that the Republican organization demanded of its candidates the right to be consulted about such appointments.

NEW JURY WAIVER SYSTEM SPEEDS UP WORK OF COURTS

The new procedure in the Criminal court which allows a defendant in a felony case to waive a jury trial and submit his fate to the judge has speeded up the work of the court. This was disclosed yesterday in the first monthly report issued by John H. Passmore, clerk of the court, since the new system has been in vogue. Despite this fact, however, the judges have been unable to keep up with the grand jury, which returned more indictments than were disposed of.

Chief Justice John P. McGoorty said the reason for the lost ground was due to the fact that the September grand jury returned more indictments than any other jury.

The report for September shows that 117 cases were disposed of by jury waiver. During the same period in 1929 only 13 jury waiver cases were recorded.

At the start of the October term the Criminal court had pending 1,154 indictments. This was an increase of 584 indictments pending over the number at the start of the previous term. The court, however, is in better shape than one year ago when the indictments numbered 1,244. The grand jury in September returned 519 indictments, while the judges disposed of 398.

Judge Joseph B. David easily topped the list of judges by disposing of 105 indictments himself. Judge Fisher was second with 51 disposed of.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Oct. 9.—The news reaches here that Turkey and Persia have agreed on the appointment of a joint commission to keep peace on the frontier, where much disturbance has been caused by the activities of the raiding Kurds. A Persian and a Turk will alternate every six months in the chairmanship of the commission.

McGoorty Warns Hospital Head in Hearing on Writ

Chief Justice John P. McGoorty of the Criminal court yesterday told Dr. M. L. Busch, superintendent of the Edgewater hospital, that he will cause the hospital's charter to be revoked if a patient is held prisoner there in the future for failure to pay his full bill before leaving. The judge made his statement in a hearing on a writ of habeas corpus to free Mrs. Marie Furling, 9040 Houston avenue, who was a patient at the hospital.

Dr. Busch said that some mistake must have been made because he did not remember getting any telephone calls from Mrs. Furling's husband asking for the release of his wife. He said that Mrs. Furling was released at 4 o'clock Wednesday afternoon, but the husband told the judge that she was not released until 8 p. m.

MAYOR MAKES PUBLIC LETTER TO A REPORTER

Events Leading to Note Are Explained.

Mayor Thompson yesterday was having distributed in the city hall and among politicians several thousand reports state that the exact number is 1,000) mimeographed copies of a letter in which he attacks THE TRIBUNE. The letter was handed to the city hall reporter for THE TRIBUNE, to whom it was addressed, early Tuesday evening in answer to the reporter's request for an interview with the mayor.

The incidents that led to the writing and delivery of the letter are as follows:

A TRIBUNE reporter last Friday sought an interview with the mayor to ask about the Chicago day celebration and also whether the mayor intended to use the demonstration as a basis for his return to the city's chief office. The mayor gave consent to the printing of his answers to the reporter's questions. These answers appeared in Wednesday's issue, pursuant to instructions given by the editor before the mayor's letter was written.

Reporter Calls to See Mayor.

Late Tuesday afternoon the city hall reporter requested an appointment to see the mayor. Mrs. Thompson, the mayor's wife, had been held up by bandits the previous evening and robbed of jewelry valued at $15,-000. A conference was held by Mayor Thompson and Acting Police Commissioner Alcock and the reporter sought to get the news of the conference from the mayor, the police commissioner having refused to tell much about it.

"I have an assignment to see the mayor," the reporter said to John Kelly, the mayor's secretary. "It is about the robbery." Nothing was said concerning Mrs. Thompson.

Letter Handed to Reporter.

Word of the reporter's request was taken to the mayor by Mr. Kelly. The secretary reappeared and asked the reporter if he could return later. On the return of the reporter he again was asked to wait. Approximately one hour after the request had been made for the interview the letter was handed to the reporter.

A few minutes after the appointment was sought President Lewis E. Myers of the school board; Carter Blatchford, school board member and friend of the mayor, and Capt. Michael Hughes, former commissioner of police, entered the mayor's inner office. Shortly before Mr. Blatchford and Capt. Hughes emerged from the mayor's office the letter was handed to the reporter.

BIG OWNER OF CIGAR STORE.

FROM MAYOR TO REPORTER

WM. HALE THOMPSON
MAYOR

OFFICE OF THE MAYOR
CITY OF CHICAGO

October 7, 1930

Mr. Stanley Armstrong,
Chicago Tribune,
Chicago, Illinois.

Dear Sir:

For the first time in seven years I permitted a representative of The Chicago Tribune who stated his name was Fitzmaurice to come into the Mayor's Office. His first statement to me was "my boss says he would like me to ask you two questions and you can answer them or not, as you like, and if you say print them they will be printed, and if you say not to print them they will not be printed." I said "fair enough, go ahead." He asked the first question, I answered, and he said "print it or not," and I said "print it." He asked the second question, I answered, and he said "print it or not," and I said "print it."

He went out of here and they have never printed a word, indicating that the representatives of The Chicago Tribune are the same cheap, crooked, lying specimens of humanity today as they have been in the past.

Now comes Mr. Armstrong desiring to interview the Mayor about his wife and her condition since the unfortunate holdup of last night. If the owners of The Chicago Tribune had a spark of decency in their souls they would let my wife alone. She has suffered enough through their falsehoods and misrepresentations of the Mayor. Their attitude toward a woman -- even the wife of the Mayor -- is about as fair as their opposition to the bond issues for the coming election, which provide for further public improvements that will make it possible for the Mayor to continue the employment of 150,000 men who have been working on street widening improvements during the Summer instead of having this vast army of men walking the streets and being added to the great number of already unemployed.

I don't care to see you, Mr. Armstrong, or any other representative of the Chicago Tribune whose reputation has sunk sufficiently from its normal low level to put a stench in the nostrils of the decent people of the world.

Yours truly,
William Hale Thompson
Mayor.

INDORSEMENTS OF CANDIDATES DENIED BY CLUB

On behalf of the Woman's City club, Mrs. Murry Nelson, president, announced yesterday that, although the name of the organization was used in connection with the political indorsements of the "Voters' Clearing house" recently, it took no part in those recommendations to the voters.

"The Woman's City club," she said, "is sympathetic with the purposes of the 'Voters' Clearing house' as announced by Dean Shailer Mathews. A representation of the club participated in the initial conference some months ago. Following this conference, the committee to select candidates was named. In this action the club did not participate, as it does not indorse candidates."

Joseph L. Gill, Democratic nominee for clerk of the Municipal court, was the guest of honor at a luncheon in the Morrison hotel arranged by a number of social service workers.

CAPTIVE TO FACE TRIAL IN HOLDUP OF MAYOR'S WIFE

Alcock Orders Booking to Balk Writ.

With positive identification or without it Sam Battaglia, minor hoodlum of the 42 Gang of the west side, is to be prosecuted today as one of the robbers who on Monday night took jewelry valued at $15,500 from Mrs. William Hale Thompson, wife of the mayor, and who took the star and gun from her policeman-chauffeur, Peter J. O'Malley. Acting Police Commissioner Alcock so ordered yesterday when an application was made for a writ of habeas corpus for Battaglia and William Carr, who was arrested with him.

In addition Battaglia may face charges of the robbery of Mrs. Lottie Brenner, former wife of the fake "Count" Von Buelow, who lost $50,-000 in gems some months ago. Mrs. Brenner called at the detective bureau yesterday, after having seen Battaglia's picture in a newspaper, and she wanted her robbery charge to take precedence over Mrs. Thompson's because the loss was larger.

Will File Formal Charge.

"I intend to subpoena Mrs. Thompson," said Attorney Julius Resnick when he filed the petition for a writ. "I expect to show the court that Mrs. Thompson cannot identify Battaglia."

The writ was issued, returnable at 10 o'clock this morning before Chief Justice John P. McGoorty in the Criminal court. By that time, police said, a formal charge will be pending in the Municipal court against the prisoner. Chief of Detectives John Norton said he was relying on the positive identification of Battaglia by Policeman O'Malley, who at first told reporters he could not say positively Battaglia was one of the robbers and who later said that if Commissioner Alcock said the identification was positive, why then it was positive, as he wouldn't contradict his commander.

Six More Arrested.

Sergt. Frank Casey, who arrested Battaglia and Carr on information they had been seen loitering about the Barry apartments at 3100 Sheridan road, where the mayor and Mrs. Thompson reside, arrested six other prisoners. These are John (Red) Carr, brother of the man arrested with Battaglia; Maurice O'Connor, 2123 West Erie street; Richard O'Connor, 655 North Curtis street; Samuel Messi, 1138 West Grand avenue; Joseph Catrina, 1115 South Marshfield avenue, and David Micoletti, 821 North May street.

Lawyer, Facing Judgment, Files Pauper's Petition

Frank A. McDonnell, an attorney having offices at 155 North Clark street, yesterday filed a pauper's petition in the County court. McDonnell was arrested on Wednesday on an attachment in connection with a $300 judgment awarded last March to P. E. Frankos, a commission merchant, who was struck by McDonnell's automobile. A hearing on the lawyer's petition was set for Oct. 24 by County Judge I. L. Weaver.

DIES OF BLOW; ASSAILANT HELD.

James Brooks, 2650 Warren avenue, a Negro who was struck with a piece of wood by Albert Bell, 208 North Artesian avenue, another Negro, on Oct. 7, died yesterday in the County hospital. Bell is being held.

POLICE MAGAZINE SOLICITOR FACES CHARGES TODAY

Walter Wright, editor of the official police magazine, Police 1313," is to appear in the Felony court today to aid prosecution of Joseph Hirsch, 26 years old, 2303 North Long avenue, a solicitor for the publication, who is charged with obtaining money under false pretenses. The arrest was made after an inquiry conducted by the Policemen's Benevolent association. Hirsch is accused of having posed as a policeman in getting advertisements. Wright said he would assist prosecution of Hirsch.

TEST VALIDITY OF DRY AMENDMENT IN U. S. COURT

Lawyers Call Ratification Unconstitutional.

Trenton, N. J., Oct. 9.—[Special.]—The fate of prohibition in the United States is at stake as a result of a hearing today in which a brilliant array of counsel argued in federal court that the eighteenth amendment never properly was ratified, and, therefore, is not a part of the constitution.

Specifically, the arguments were on a motion to quash an indictment accusing William H. Sprague, a former Essex county clerk and now a farmer, of possession and transportation of beer.

Pearse Leads Attack.

Regardless of how Judge William Clark rules on this question during the week of Nov. 24, the assault on the validity of the ratification will be carried to the United States Supreme court, which never has passed on this question.

Frederic M. P. Pearse of Newark led the fight on the amendment. Associated with him were former Supreme Court Justice Daniel F. Cohalan and Selden Bacon, representing the New York County Lawyers' association; Julius Henry Cohen of the association of the bar of New York City, and Prof. Leslie J. Tompkins, head of the New York University School of Law.

The attack on the amendment is based upon the contention that it was ratified by the state legislatures rather than by constitutional conventions of the several states.

Powers Reserved to State.

Pearse said that the tenth amendment clearly expressed a distinction between the powers reserved to the state as such and the powers reserved to the people themselves.

"Rights and powers reserved to the states may be surrendered by the states themselves, through their legislatures," Mr. Pearse declared. "Powers or rights reserved to the people can be surrendered only by the people, and they act in such cases only in their constitutional conventions."

Mr. Pearse asserted that legislatures may, under the fifth article and the tenth amendment, ratify only those amendments that surrender or yield powers belonging to the states.

Judge Clarke will give his decision the week of Nov. 24.

Liquor Cases Clog Courts at Ever Increasing Pace

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Oct. 9.—[Special.]—Steady and continued growth in the stream of prohibition law offenders pouring through the federal courts was demonstrated in an official report issued today by the department of justice. The report covered activities of the prohibition legal division during the fiscal year ended last June 30.

The report recorded the following facts in connection with the federal court dry law cases for the period:

A total of 52,347 cases were terminated and where there were jury trials 73 per cent resulted in convictions and 27 per cent in acquittals.

The number of new cases instituted increased by 206 over the previous year and there were 105 more jury trials.

Jail and prison sentences were imposed in 27,709 cases, being 5,107 more than in the previous year, an increase of more than 23 per cent.

There were 4,286 more cases pending at the close of the year than there were at the close of the previous year.

"One feature of the prohibition enforcement record is the number of state and municipal officers who were charged with participation in violations of the federal prohibition law," the report stated. "In addition to the number of indictments pending against such officers at the close of the fiscal year, to the number of 10, there were 74 cases involving conspiracy to violate the liquor laws and in one case bribery was involved.

"There were 95 such officers convicted, and of the convictions secured 27 were under the national prohibition act, 64 for conspiracy, 2 for bribery of federal officers where liquor was involved, and one for conspiracy under the internal revenue law."

Senator La Follette and His Bride Pause in Chicago

With only eyes for his bride and "nothing at all to say" for the press, Robert La Follette, United States senator from Wisconsin, stepped off the Arrowhead limited at the North Western station yesterday. The La Follettes were on their way from Madison to South Bend, where they will spend the week-end and attend the Navy-Notre Dame football game tomorrow.

HOOVER'S CRIME BOARD BATTLES OVER DRY LAW

Kenyon Insists There Be "No Pussyfooting."

Washington, D. C., Oct. 9.—(AP)—President Hoover's law enforcement commission got down to business today in secret session on the task of formulating its prohibition report, but Chairman Wickersham carefully guarded the nature of the first discussions on this controversial subject.

The demand of some members that prohibition be made the immediate order of business of the commission was acceded to.

This same group, including Federal Judge William S. Kenyon of Iowa and Kenneth Mackintosh, former Washington jurist, is insisting that there be "no pussyfooting" on the wet and dry report and that the commission go to the bottom of the problem.

Ready for Congress in December.

Mackintosh said today he did not expect the commission's statement on enforcement would be ready "tomorrow or the next day," but added he was backing Chairman Wickersham's statement of yesterday that the report could be expected for congress "early in December."

This would mean swift action by the commission in coming weeks, since the statement first must go to the White House for the President's approval.

It became certain today that the commission will devote not only the remainder of the present week but perhaps all of next week to its task.

It was indicated authoritatively tonight, however, the commission now has behind it sufficient investigation to complete its prohibition report unless some point needing further amplification should arise during the discussions.

600 EXPECTED AT WHOLESALE DRUG MEETING

Approximately 600 delegates, representing more than 90 per cent of the wholesale drug industry in the United States, are expected to attend the 56th annual convention of the National Wholesale Druggists' association which opens Sunday at the Edgewater Beach hotel.

Among the speakers will be Harry A. Wheeler, banker, and Lee M. Hutchins of Grand Rapids, president of the association.

Francis Stanley North Estate Set at $350,000

An estate of $350,000 is revealed in estate papers for Francis Stanley North of Lake Forest, which were filed in the Lake county Probate court at Waukegan yesterday. Mr. North, who was a manufacturer, died in Boston on Sept. 9. The bulk of his estate goes to his widow, Mrs. Julia North, and two sons, William and Francis Stanley Jr. Bequests ranging from $1,000 to $5,000 are made to three brothers and a sister.

CANNON DENIES CHARGES FILED BY FOUR MINISTERS

Washington, D. C., Oct. 9.—(AP)—Bishop James Cannon Jr. announced tonight he would deny and refute the charges filed against him by four ministers of the Methodist Episcopal church, south, when a committee is appointed to investigate the accusations.

In a formal statement the bishop said he had been informed of the charges and requested the public to suspend judgment until the complaints had been "properly adjudicated in accordance with the procedure prescribed by the church."

The charges have not been made public, but are understood to include the bishop's political and stock market activities as well as other accusations. Bishop W. N. Ainsworth, with whom the charges were filed, is expected to appoint a committee of 12 ministers to investigate the complaints.

W. C. T. U. Backs Cannon.

Bristol, Va., Oct. 9.—(AP)—A demonstration "for the honor and purity" of Bishop James Cannon Jr. was made by members of the Bristol Women's Christian Temperance union at today's session of the Holston conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South.

As delegates were leaving conference headquarters, members of the W. C. T. U. arrived in automobiles carrying banners calling for support of Bishop Cannon, against whom charges have been filed by four traveling elders of the church.

RALPH O'NEIL OF KANSAS ELECTED CHIEF OF LEGION

Defeats 'Bonus' Proposal, Shuns Prohibition.

Boston, Mass., Oct. 9.—(AP)—Ralph T. (Dike) O'Neil of Topeka, Kas., was elected national commander of the American Legion in the closing session of the convention here today over Col. J. Munroe Johnson of Madison, S. C. National vice commanders chosen were Harry B. Henderson Jr., Cheyenne, Wyo.; Bert S. Hyland, Rutland, Vt.; Neal Williams, Excelsior Springs, Mo.; Roland B. Howell, Thibodeaux, La., and James A. Duff, Marlinburg, W. Va. The Rev. Joseph Barnett of Oshkosh, Wis., was named chaplain.

The Legion again defeated what many delegates charged was an attempt to drag it into politics by rejecting a proposal for the immediate payment of 80 per cent of the face value of adjusted compensation certificates. Proponents of the measure held it would be a great aid in relieving the hardships of veterans who are unemployed, but the opponents saw in it a slap at the Republican administration which sponsored the present program of compensation.

Prohibition Ruled Out.

A move to bring the prohibition question before the assembly also met with defeat when Commander O. L. Bodenhamer ruled it was out of order.

Several preparedness resolutions were adopted. These included indorsement of a standing army of 12,000 officers and 126,000 men and a National Guard of 210,000 men.

The drill team of the Peoples Gas post, 336, of Chicago, which won second place in the 1929 drill contests, won first place in the contests held in connection with present convention. Mrs. Wilma M. Hoyal of Douglas, Ariz., chairman of the child welfare committee of the American Legion auxiliary and an active worker in the organization, was elected president at the closing session of the auxiliary's tenth annual convention.

Laura Ingalls and Young Flyer to Race Across U. S.

Los Angeles, Cal., Oct. 9.—(AP)—A cross country air race between Laura Ingalls, diminutive St. Louis woman flyer, and Robert Buck, 16 year old continent hopper, is in prospect for tomorrow. Each made plans today to leave from different airports at 5:30 a. m. tomorrow in pursuit of new west-east transcontinental records.

INSULL MAKES STATEMENT ON TRANSIT MERGER

Reports Good Progress; Warns Against Haste.

In reply to inquiries Samuel Insull gave out a statement yesterday on the progress toward a consolidated transportation system for Chicago. He said:

"I think excellent progress has been made. The machinery is in motion all along the line to give Chicago a complete transportation system. The legal, financial, and engineering steps necessary call for patience in an undertaking of such magnitude. While all reasonable speed is being made to bring results that will be satisfactory to the people of Chicago, it might be well to sound a warning that too great haste may impede rather than make progress in a situation which calls for the best judgment in each step of a great financial, legal, and engineering undertaking."

Tells of Consolidation Troubles.

The statement summarized the physical improvements under way, each of which has been detailed heretofore in THE TRIBUNE. Mr. Insull recounted the difficulties of a consolidation, saying that the plan must be acceptable to more than 50,000 security holders and also be such that the federal court will approve it and one upon which $200,000,000 in new money can be raised.

He also said that plans were well along for the engineering and operating improvements which must be made in consolidating the surface and elevated lines.

The third major job, subway construction, is the task of the city. Regarding this subject, Mr. Insull's statement said in part:

"It is one (task) which must make the same progress as the others or else all will fail. To build a subway would be a tremendous task for an existing organization, backed by experience and accomplishments. It has to be built by an organization that had neither money, plans, engineers, or anything else on July 1 last.

"Inevitably there have been differences of opinion among all concerned as to finances, personnel and plans. But most of these troubles have been ironed out, an organization is working and plans are progressing, and the differences of opinion have caused the sort of serious thinking which tends to prevent mistakes that are natural to slap-dash procedure."

Asks Ruling on Claim.

Attorney Henry S. Robbins, representing holders of participation certificates of the north and west side surface lines, sought a ruling from Federal Judge Wilkerson yesterday on a claim of his clients for an added $3,000,000 in the reorganization plan. It is said that the plan gives the holders of series one certificates—30,800 in number—about $3,500,000 in new securities. These certificate holders want accumulated dividends on their certificates, which they place at $3,080,000. The hearing will be resumed this morning.

WOMAN HURT WHEN "L" TRAIN RUNS INTO BUS

One woman was injured yesterday when a loop bound elevated train crashed into a motor bus at the Ridgeland avenue station in Oak Park. Mrs. Mae Miller, 37 years old, 2141 Gunderson avenue, Berwyn, received injuries to both shoulders. Oak Park police said the bus crashed through the lowered barriers when the brakes failed to work.

Three deaths yesterday increased the Cook county motor toll for 1930 to 796. The victims:

Thomas McNicholas, 8 years old, 3533 Ogden avenue. Died in St. Anthony's hospital of injuries received Monday when struck by a Checker taxi cab driven by Frederick Hillman, 1809 South Central Park avenue, at 22d street and Central Park avenue.

Daniel Morris, 63 years old, colored, 2411 West Lake street. Killed when struck by the auto of Ira Kohler, 26 years old, 2993 Lyman street, at Campbell and Warren avenues. Kohler was held.

Walter Metz, 45 years old, 1033 Melrose street. Died in the county hospital of injuries incurred on Sept. 21 when he was struck by the car of Ralph Jennder, 4826 Barry avenue.

Earle H. Reynolds, president of the People's Trust and Savings bank, was arrested on a charge of speeding 35 miles an hour in Hinman avenue, Evanston. He will be arraigned this morning before Police Magistrate Harry H. Porter. Mr. Reynolds lives in Lake Bluff.

Boy Falls as He Watches Fire; Skull Is Fractured

Damage of $25,000 was caused by a fire which broke out last night in the warehouse of the Dearborn Glass company, 2512 West 21st street. The fire resulted in an indirect casualty when James Kocefes, 11 years old, 3055 West 22d street, fell 15 feet from his perch on the railroad viaduct where he was one of 300 boys watching the fire, fractured his skull. His condition was described as critical at St. Anthony's hospital.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MONTREAL, Que., Oct. 9.—Following the example of former Ambassador James W. Gerard in naming 56 men as the real rulers of the United States, the Montreal Herald, generally understood to be owned by Lord Atholstan, the Dominion's most powerful newspaper publisher, today named 22 men as the rulers of Canada.

Like Mr. Gerard's list, the group does not include the head of the federal government, Premier Bennett.

The list includes Sir Henry Thornton, president of the Canadian National railway; Sir Charles Gordon, president of the Bank of Montreal; Sir Herbert Holt, president of the Royal bank; E. W. Beatty, president of the Canadian Pacific railway; and Sir John Aird, president of the Canadian Bank of Commerce. The others are mostly bankers, insurance, steel, and power men. Eleven live in Montreal, nine in Toronto, one in Winnipeg, and one in Calgary.

ARREST FORMER ASSEMBLYMAN ON CONGAME CHARGE

Theodore D. Smith, 6333 Kimbark avenue, former state representative of the 13th district, was arrested yesterday by Sergts. William Delahanty and John Bahr on a warrant charging confidence game. Smith was about to enter a dining room of the Palmer house in company with Miss Florence Lunt, 7424 Phillips avenue, when arrested.

Smith is accused of obtaining $3,000 by Eli Kleinman, a loan dealer at 10 North Clark street, on promises of obtaining a lucrative job for him from Gov. Emmerson. The job never materialized, according to Kleinman, although Smith escorted him to the very doors of the governor's office. The warrant was issued last July.

Smith declared Kleinman's charge is an error. The matter is a civil one, he asserted. He said he owed Kleinman $2,800 but that the loan dealer was trying to collect $3,000, which he wouldn't pay.

LEWIS CHARGES HOOVER DESERTS WEST FOR EAST

Warns He Makes Bid for Renomination.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Decatur, Ill., Oct. 9.—[Special.]—James Hamilton Lewis, Democratic nominee for senator, declared to his audiences today that President Hoover in his recent speeches has betokened that he stands at the "cross roads of politics," and has chosen to travel with eastern conservatives against the "liberal west."

The Democratic pilgrims traveled through the 20th congressional district, dry and Democratic, where Mr. Lewis addressed meetings largely composed of farmers at Jerseyville and Carrollton.

Tonight, in the 19th district, dry and Republican, the candidate speaking at Decatur, criticized the President for, as Mr. Lewis termed it, "Opening his campaign for renomination at this time of stress."

Sees No Hope for Relief.

"Our nation," said Mr. Lewis, "must give up any hope of relief from President Hoover from its present commercial embarrassment and distress. It is now apparent that President Hoover has decided that he is at the political cross roads, where he must go with what he calls the ultra radical element in the Republican party or with the ultra conservatives.

"His speeches in the last three days show that he has cast his lot with the Atlantic coast states as a representative of extreme conservatism and reactionary forces. These are the financial interests which oppose the west and demand special privileges in business and finance against the west.

"President Hoover in using the phrase 'radical senators' and charging extreme liberals with being bureaucrats of confiscation deliberately divorces himself from the support for renomination of all the agricultural states of the west and lodges his hope completely with the faction of his party aided by Moses of New Hampshire, who brands the western statesmen as 'Sons of the Wild Jackass.'

What Backers Tell Hoover.

"Mr. Hoover sees from his point of view that the Democratic states which gave him their vote will join the conservative forces of the Republicans of the east against the western Democrats and Republicans on the issue of opposing radicalism of reform in agricultural or financial measures. His advisers assure him that these will offset the western combination and secure him his renomination as Taft was renominated over Roosevelt under similar conditions.

"The renomination of Mr. Hoover under these conditions means revolt in the Republican party of the west, which, joining the Democrats, will give us three parties in the next presidential election, but the skirmish of the President and his friends to control the situation leaves the whole United States without hope of legislation which shall give any relief from present oppression."

MRS. M'CORMICK WON'T BE SEATED —MRS. O'NEILL

Vote for G. O. P. Foe Is Vote Wasted, She Says.

Urbana, Ill., Oct. 9.—[Special.]—Assailing Mrs. Ruth Hanna McCormick on her prohibition stand and primary campaign expenditures, Mrs. Lottie Holman O'Neill, independent candidate for the United States senate, predicted before 500 Champaign county citizens this afternoon her feminine opponent would not be seated in the United States senate if she is elected.

"A vote for the Republican nominee would unquestionably be a wasted vote," Mrs. O'Neill told her audience. "Already the investigation conducted by the senate committee has unearthed the fact that hundreds of thousands of dollars have been spent by Mrs. McCormick. This alone constitutes a grave danger to American principles."

Mrs. O'Neill declared prohibition has never before faced such a critical situation in this state and added the drys of Illinois have no one for whom to vote but the independent candidate.

W. W. ATTERBURY QUITS PARTY JOB TO BOLT PINCHOT

Harrisburg, Pa., Oct. 9.—(AP)—Gen. W. W. Atterbury, president of the Pennsylvania railroad and one of the most prominent figures in Pennsylvania politics, today resigned as Republican national committeeman for the state. Gen. Edward Martin, Republican state chairman, who announced the resignation, said Gen. Atterbury had relinquished his post because he was unable to support all the candidates on the state ticket.

Although the announcement mentioned no specific candidate, political observers found little trouble in agreeing that Gen. Atterbury referred to Gifford Pinchot, the Republican gubernatorial candidate. In the spring primary Gen. Atterbury was aligned against Pinchot, but had supported all the other nominees now on the state ticket.

Announcement of Gen. Atterbury's action climaxed a series of developments within the party concerning Pinchot's place on the ticket, which developments began at Philadelphia several days ago with the defection of Charles B. Hall, city councilman and a leader of the Philadelphia Republican organization.

chairman. It climaxed a series of developments within the party concerning Pinchot's place on the ticket, which developments began at Philadelphia several days ago with the defection of Charles B. Hall, city councilman and a leader of the Philadelphia Republican organization.

Atterbury Silent on Future.

A written statement given to newspaper men by Gen. Martin merely said Atterbury has resigned because "he cannot support all of the nominees on the Republican state ticket," and Gen. Atterbury through a secretary in New York said he preferred to let Martin's announcement "speak for itself."

There was no reference to Pinchot in the Martin statement, but it was taken for granted that Pinchot with his platform for reformed control of public utilities was the stumbling block to Gen. Atterbury's swearing allegiance to the ticket.

Former Gov. Pinchot recognized the Atterbury resignation as directed at him. He issued a statement accusing Atterbury of "treachery" and saying: "My demand that Atterbury as national Republican committeeman from Pennsylvania should either perform the duties of his office or resign has borne fruit. There was only one other man in Pensylvania, who by bolting the Republican party could have helped the state ticket as much as Charlie Hall has helped it and that man was Atterbury."

Pinchot charged Atterbury with "using the employes of the Pennsylvania railroad to do his political bidding" and said such a course "should be resented by stockholders of the road as well as the public."

Hemphill Backers Unite.

Pittsburgh, Pa., Oct. 9.—(AP)—Twenty-five Pittsburgh district business and industrial leaders tonight announced organization of a ways and means committee to support the Liberal party candidacy of John M. Hemphill, who also is the Democratic nominee for governor of Pennsylvania, opposing Gifford Pinchot, Republican.

The committee, in a statement, said it believed the best contribution that can be made at this time to the promotion of stabilization of employment and industry and to the safeguarding of the public welfare generally is to keep "Pinchotism" out of the state government.

Alfalfa Bill Murray Is Picked to Win.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Oklahoma City, Okla., Oct. 9.—[Special.]—I found Alfalfa Bill Murray, Democratic candidate for governor, at his personal headquarters in a bedroom of the Bristol hotel. I edged through groups of conferring politicians in the smoke filled room until I reached the throne, which was the bed, where the candidate was enthroned, resting on the small of his back with his hands clasped behind his shock of tousled yellow-gray hair and his feet reposing beside the water pitcher on a table.

A lanky figure garbed in coat and trousers long innocent of contact with the tailor's goose. No waistcoat, no belt, but suspenders which Bill would meditatively snap from time to time. A lean, seamed countenance, prominent nose and large mouth half concealed by a big bushy one-time blonde mustache of the size and shape affected by the sheriff in the melodrama. A pair of keen, steel-blue eyes.

His Satellites Mill Around.

Bill was listening to the advice, reports, questions, and importunings of lieutenants, county chairmen, and would-be appointees to public office who drew near singly or in groups for a few whispered words with the sage of Tishomingo. Bill would listen a moment and then, uncoupling a dead cigar stub from beneath his mustache, would deliver his decision, sometimes in a voice louder than his petitioners thought necessary.

"No," said Bill to one man who was endeavoring to show that he could do the candidate a lot of good in a certain locality if he could look forward to appointment to a job in the department of education when Bill should become governor. "No, I ain't making any promises. Why, do you know, not even the man who drives me around knows whether I'm going to appoint him to office. No, sir-e-e—ain't promised anybody anything."

The petitioner backed away from the throne, somewhat flustered, and gave way to others. Presently I was allowed to interview Bill, whom I had not seen since he came to congress nearly twenty years ago, one of those picturesque prairie radicals who have been coming to Washington ever since the days of sockless Jerry Simpson. In those days he was known as the "cocklebur statesman" and his followers proudly wore cocklebur in his meetings in token of their devotion to Bill's championship of the wrongs of the downtrodden farmer.

Starts Campaign Broke.

Bill was a farmer himself—an unsuccessful one, if you are to believe his opponents in this contest—but at any rate he was able to sell out for $200,000 net, 'tis said, in 1919. Soon afterward he undertook a land colonization project in Bolivia, where he dropped the $200,000.

He came back home broke a few months ago and started out to rehabilitate himself by the political process. He ran for the Democratic nomination for the governorship, for which he was twice defeated years ago, and staged a spectacular comeback. Without money or formal organization he won a plurality in the first primary and the majority in the run-off primary."

"I won," said Bill, who had now assumed an erect position and was reflectively snapping his galluses. "I won because the people regard me as incorruptible, unimpeachable and unconquerable."

It seems that calculations as to impeachability figure conspicuously in the consideration of candidates for governor by the Oklahoma electorate. Oklahoma, although only 23 years a state, holds the impeachment record. Two Oklahoma governors have been removed by impeachment in the last seven years.

A Psychological Moment.

Bill came home busted at the psychological moment to effect a comeback with his old time stock in trade, which has always consisted of various schemes for taking it away from the rich and handing it to the poor. The country was in the grip of hard times. The farmers were complaining that they could not make both ends meet. Unemployment was rife in the cities. It was plain as a pikestaff to Bill that what was needed was a readjustment of the burdens of the cost of government to the backs of the rich and the poor.

"The first thing I'm going to do when I'm elected," said Bill in response to my inquiry concerning his proposed reforms, "will be to abolish the ad valorem tax on property and plug up the holes in the state income tax law. That will take the burden off the farmer and the little householder and put it on the big fellows.

"We need a lot of reforming. Our whole system of education has got to be overhauled. I'm going to see if we can't have our schools and colleges devote more time to education and less to baseball and football. Then our judiciary needs to be taken in hand. Our judges are not venal, by and large; they're merely incompetent. I did defeat one justice of the Supreme court in the primary who had accepted an automobile from a litigant—defeated him without ever mentioning his name.

"I merely told the story Blackstone tells us of Coke. The king, I said, sent an emissary to Lord Coke to tell him he wanted it decided that he ruled by divine right. Lord Coke sent back word to the king that he would decide according to the facts and the law. And I wound up by saying Lord Coke was the kind of a judge who wouldn't accept gifts from litigants. That did the business—the people knew who and what I meant."

Alfalfa Bill won his nomination with every important paper in the state against him, and not many are wholeheartedly for him now. But such is his popularity that the Republicans entertain little hope of beating him, although they have a strong candidate, Ira A. Hill, a Cherokee banker, author of the proposed constitutional amendment authorizing a $15,000,000 short term note issue to finance road building for relief of the unemployed the coming winter. Some of the Republican managers, who confess it's a poor year for Republicans in these parts, are afraid Bill will win by so large a margin that he will carry Thomas P. Gore, the Democratic candidate for senator, to victory.

LEGGE VISIONS MENACE TO U. S. IN SOVIET GRAIN

Predicts Russians Will Flood World Markets.

BY PAUL POTTER.

Predicting that in three years Russia would be flooding world markets with cereal grains, except corn, to the detriment of American farmers, Alexander Legge, chairman of the federal farm board, yesterday said the government's department of agriculture and his board intended to give grain growers full warning of what was coming. He spoke before the National Association of Farm Equipment Manufacturers at its annual meeting at the Congress hotel.

"There is no Santa Claus in Washington," Mr. Legge declared. "We are simply trying to aid the growers when they themselves volunteer to organize and readjust their methods to modern conditions. We have set up seven central marketing agencies and turned them over to farmers, and are helping other groups that need it. Our only interest thereafter is as creditor."

"Americans Better Off."

Cheap money rates for many months have not brought a "comeback" in business or agriculture, Mr. Legge asserted, but Americans are better off today than people in other countries. He expressed the hope that the bottom of business depression had been reached. New York bankers have assured him there can be no stabilization of securities until commodity prices start back upward, he said, expressing the opinion that big business was just beginning to realize the basic importance of agricultural well-being.

"Manufacturers in recent years have been obliged to discard old methods and rearrange their factory units," the farm board chairman declared. "Farmers, unorganized, have been unable to do this, and continue 'blind production.' We are trying to point out the need of taking inventory and plan our farm production accordingly. The two crops, wheat and cotton, are in most need of readjustment, and in each case our recommendations are different."

Stresses Need of Reduction.

Mr. Legge pointed out that lowered production costs and reduced acreage were necessary for grain growers, with possible changes in the size of farms to facilitate more economical handling.

"Faulty information last fall caused us to make some mistakes in handling the wheat situation," Mr. Legge said, "but high tariff walls and decreased wheat consumption were not foreseen by either the farm board or experienced men in the trade. We have better information sources now, and that kind of error is out of the picture."

Capper Sounds Warning.

Senator Arthur Capper [Rep., Kas.], speaking at the luncheon of the advertising council of the Chicago Association of Commerce in the Hotel La Salle yesterday, said:

"Manipulation of the New York Stock exchange by 'short selling' doesn't mean one-tenth to the west what the menacing control of your grain markets by the speculative element does." He added that Kansas and Chicago had many things in common, but the "heavy losses in grains due to price fluctuations in Chicago have caused total lack of confidence by Kansans in the grain markets here."

The senator asserted that unless the wrongful practices are righted the government will have to take a hand.

Remember when $30 bought a suit of clothes fit for a Beau Brummel? Well, those good old pre-war days are back with us again — at least as far as a good $30 suit is concerned — at Bonds! • • For a long time, we watched the finer fabrics go on an "aerial joy-ride" But we knew they'd have to come back to earth! And when these rich-textured thoroughbreds suddenly went into a "tail spin", we were the first on the spot. Bond 26-store buying power promptly took over the entire Fall output of two of the most highly regarded weavers — at a price which makes it possible, for the first time in fifteen years, to put them into $30 suits, with two trousers • • There are luxurious, smooth worsteds as fine as any you'll find . . . Sharkskins that take a sharp crease and hold it . . . Diamond weaves that have long been prime favorites in expensive stores... Triple-ply basket weaves that can take plenty of punishment, without showing a wrinkle of care • • Suits like these continue to command around $45 elsewhere. 750 of them are here for you, now — at exactly $30, with two pairs of trousers.

REBELS MARCH ON BRAZIL CITY; BATTLE NEAR

Federal Troops Recapture Town of Palmyra.

of Sao Paulo state being reported. Only a skeleton police force is left here, but there are fewer crimes than usual.

President's Son Enlists.

In addition to the first and second class reserves, which includes able males between the ages of 20 and 30 years, naval reserves of the same classes are being called to the colors. Among the first to respond to the reserve call was President Washington Luiz's son, Victor Porcira de Souza, who was immediately assigned to one of the private military units.

Among other measures adopted by the federal government was the taking over of four steamers of the government subsidized steamer company, the Lloyd Brasileiro. These coastwise steamers are being equipped and manned by a regular navy and marine personnel. One of these boats left Rio de Janeiro for points unknown.

Capture Two More States.

PORTO ALEGRE, Brazil, Oct. 9.—(AP)—Occupation of the northern states of Ceara and Maranhao by insurgent forces today was announced at revolutionary headquarters here.

Federalists Claim Successes.

RIO DE JANEIRO, Oct. 9.—(AP)—The Brazilian federal government, faced by revolt in nearly all directions from the neighboring cities of Rio de Janeiro and Sao Paulo, marshaled its forces today for a conflict with the oncoming rebels in the state of Parana.

Criticism was voiced in the local press today at the prices fixed by the federal government for food supplies and staples. It was charged that they were higher than those in the free markets of the city.

A federal deputy, Joao Suassuna, was shot and killed by an unknown assassin while walking in Riachuelo street. The assassin escaped. The police are investigating in the belief that the killing was in revenge for the assassination of Joao Pessoa, state president of Parahyba, last March. Senator Suassuna was a former president of Parahyba and had been active in opposing Gov. Pessoa.

Battle Rages at Para.

Far to the northeast the city of Para [or Belem] was reported to have been the scene of a battle, with warships and loyal police firing upon soldiers who had revolted.

The government hopes to fight part of this civil war in the air, and already has made inquiries in the United States regarding the purchase of the latest type of bombing planes.

Rebels Launch Drive

Brazilian rebel forces swept northwards today on their march against Sao Paulo. They expect to clash with federal troops at Castro, 240 miles from the city. The revolutionists claimed to have captured Lorena, an important railroad junction between Rio de Janeiro and Sao Paulo.

PRICE SPREADS ON MEAT TAKEN UP AT HEARING

Washington, D. C., Oct. 9.—(AP)—The gap between the price the farmer gets for his cattle and that paid by the consumer for his beef was dwelt upon for a brief period today in the packers' consent decree case.

Swift & Co. and Armour & Co. are attempting in the District of Columbia Supreme court to obtain a modification of the decree which limits them to meat packing and closely related lines.

One of the contentions of the packers is that the consent decree benefits the chain store. The American Wholesale Groccers' association and the National Wholesale Grocers' association have been allowed to intervene in opposition.

URGE PASSAGE OF 10, DEFEAT OF 4 BOND ISSUES

Civic Federation Reports on Loan Proposals.

BY OSCAR HEWITT.

Fourteen bond issues aggregating $42,560,000 will be submitted to the voters for approval or rejection at the election Nov. 4.

Of these the Civic federation yesterday recommended the defeat of four issues totaling $21,960,000. In a bulletin discussing all of the bond proposals the organization approves of ten issues for $20,560,000.

"In making its recommendations," reads the bulletin of the federation of which Clayton Mark is president and Douglas Sutherland is secretary, "the directors have particularly in mind existing unfavorable business and financial conditions, and the sharp increase—approximately 20 per cent—in tax rates which will be reflected in the next tax bills, which will be rendered next winter and be subject to penalty if unpaid after April 1 next."

See Need for Many Issues.

"In view of these circumstances the policy of recommending defeat for all bond issues at this time was seriously discussed; but the great need for many of these issues requested made it impossible to take that position.

"However, we feel compelled to advise that all bond issues which would increase taxes or which might result in an increase in taxes, should be defeated at this time unless emergency need for them can be shown.

"Also, we especially urge that the public officials who will spend such bond funds as hard-pressed citizens see fit to vote at this time, take cognizance of the unhappy plight of homeowners and taxpayers generally, and economize in every possible way. Surpluses in these bond funds resulting in abatement of tax levy for principal and interest, would be a welcome offset to the many deficits and 'passings of the hat' in the form of supplemental bond issues, which have been sad experiences of the past."

Commend Council for Action.

The bulletin commends the finance committee of the city council for reducing requested city bond issues from $63,000,000 to $28,000,000 and later to $20,670,000. It adds, however: "While we believe the voters can profitably cut the program still smaller, we realize that the aldermen resisted heavy local and political pressure in making the substantial reductions which they did accomplish."

The four bond issues which the federation opposes and its abbreviated recommendation on each are as follows:

The $14,000,000 state issue for fish and game preserves and state recreation spots. It is claimed that the fees for fishing and hunting will pay off these bonds. The federation says: "License fees should be increased before such bond proposals are submitted."

Oppose Ogden Avenue Issue.

The $5,460,000 issue for the Ogden avenue bridge and viaduct, the federation says: "Needed to complete Ogden avenue improvement, but not an emergent necessity as there is a usable though unsatisfactory detour now over Goose island. This is the largest single [city] item submitted."

Regarding $500,000 for traffic control lights, the bulletin says: "These can wait for better times."

On another item of $2,000,000 for extension of the street lighting system, the comment is: "We have consistently favored bonds for extension of street lighting, but in fairness to the taxpayers do not feel that these can be recommended at this time."

Approve Nurses' Home Proposal.

On the other hand the federation recommends a "Yes" vote for $20,640,000 in bonds. One of these is $2,350,000 to build a dormitory for county hospital nurses. The federation says the "present building is insanitary, unsafe and inadequate. Many nurses room blocks from the hospital. This makes nursing service difficult and costly."

On the $2,500,000 for improvements in the forest preserves, the federation finds the issue "necessary as a public health measure."

The $3,500,000 for a new State street bridge is urged because: "Subway, essential to consolidate traction system for which people voted last June, cannot be built until present bridge foundations are removed. New bridge foundations must go in as part of subway construction. Unavoidable."

The federation's argument for the new Halsted street bridge is: "Bridge unsafe, beyond effective repair, likely to be closed at any time leaving vital north and south artery blocked unless bonds are voted."

Urge Funds to Repair Brides.

Another "unavoidable" bond issue is $1,000,000 for reconstructing nine bridges which includes replacing and strengthening flooring and structural parts. The $400,000 for extension of Indianapolis avenue to One Hundredth street is referred to as a greatly needed improvement of local and general benefit. The $300,000 for the subway under the I. C. tracks is referred to as part of the lake front ordinance.

The $500,000 for playgrounds is justified in the opinion of the federation to provide wholesome recreation for underprivileged children and retard the growth of the criminal element. The $4,310,000 to pay public benefits on Western and Ashland avenues and La Salle street is to pay the city's outstanding obligations which bear 5 per cent interest, while the bonds will pay only 4 per cent.

The $3,000,000 for extension of Lincoln park north of Lawrence avenue brings this comment: "This is part of a consistent plan of development to which Lincoln park has been committed for many years. It will greatly enhance property values in the area which is taxed."

100 YANKS A DAY SEEK TO ENLIST IN BRAZIL'S army

[Copyright: 1930: By the New York Times.]

New York, Oct. 9.—At the rate of 50 a day, young Americans who were not old enough for the world war, are crowding the offices of the Brazilian government here asking for an opportunity to take part in the fighting. As many more apply daily by telephone and by mail. They make no mention of pay although some of them do say their services would be extremely valuable. Most of them when asked what interest they have in the revolution say simply that they are looking for excitement.

GREEN PLEDGES TO PURGE LABOR OF RACKETEERS

Calls on Federation to Aid Fight.

Boston, Mass., Oct. 9.—(AP)—William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, in a speech before the federation's annual convention today pledged himself to do all in his power to drive labor racketeers from his organization.

"If there is brought to my attention a racketeer moving under the garb of trades unionism, and I can place my hands upon him with convicting evidence, I will drive him from this movement if I can," he declared. "And I know the brave men and women associated with me who try to place this movement upon a plane of honesty will join with me."

Green's declaration came after the Rev. Father J. W. McGuire, president of St. Viator college, Illinois, had warned the convention that the work of "dishonest and grafting labor leaders was being used to discredit organized labor."

Concerned by Invasion.

Instances in which he had taken steps against racketeers in Chicago and New York were cited by Mr. Green who said:

"I have been conscious of these invasions of our sacred precincts. I know that men and women have exploited us, as they have others, but so far as we are able, we will drive from our midst every racketeer that we know of."

He defended the reputation of labor in his declaration that "in most of the cities of our land [in practically all of them with few exceptions] central bodies, and in our states, the state federations of labor, occupy as honorable a position in the life of the nation as do the churches themselves."

Davis Talks Optimistically.

James J. Davis, United States secretary of labor, in another address before the convention, expressed an optimistic view of the future for labor and industry. "I am one who believes," he said, "that we will soon emerge from this period of depression and enter upon a new and lasting era of prosperity, surpassing, perhaps, all former periods of prosperity in the history of our country."

As to displacement of human labor by machines, Mr. Davis said: "Most of this mechanization, I am sure, will be for the best. What isn't for the best will pass away. We will always demand to see the artist at work and to have those things which are a personal enjoyment to us. We need have no fear of the modern machine as long as the worker is compensated in full to enable him to buy the products of the machine."

Mayor Frank Murphy of Detroit spoke on the part played by government in unemployment. He criticized efforts of some public officials, who, he said, sought to conceal the true facts of the situation. He said no man in Detroit would be without food or shelter this winter nor would he have to accept charity if it was at all possible to provide work.

Ask Repeal of Dry Law.

A hearing before the resolutions committee on the federation's prohibition policy found proponents of repeal of the 18th amendment and the Volstead act and modification of the latter law. Representatives of the brewery employés' unions favored modification to permit the use of beer of 2.75 per cent alcoholic content, while the fight for repeal was led by James Maloney of Philadelphia, a representative of the glass workers' union.

The committee received a communication from the Massachusetts branch of the Women's Organization for National Prohibition Reform asking the federation's support in the repeal movement.

The resolutions committee also heard proponents of measures for solution of the unemployment problem. The arguments advanced supported various methods of solution, ranging from amendment of the patent laws to insurance and government aid.

BATTLE CREEK CEREAL PLANT TO OPERATE ON FIVE DAY WEEK BASIS

Battle Creek, Mich., Oct. 9.—(AP)—The Kellogg company, manufacturer of cereals, announced today that it will immediately place its employés on a five-day week basis, in order to give employment to about 300 additional men. The company has been operating its plants on a 24 hour basis with three 8 hour shifts and will continue this production. W. K. Kellogg, chairman of the company's board, said that the present working force of 2,500 is greater than that employed a year ago.

BALDWIN ADOPTS EMPIRE TARIFFS IN PARTY PLANK

Will Fight MacDonald at Next Election on Issue.

BY JOHN STEELE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Oct. 9.—Canadian Prime Minister Bennett's proposal for an all around addition of ten per cent on tariffs except on empire products so giving the dominions increased preferences, has produced an immediate reaction on the policy of the British Conservative party.

Stanley Baldwin, leader of the Conservatives, in a manifesto issued tonight, describes Wednesday's imperial conference speeches as "among the most momentous in the history of our imperial relations," and affirms his adherence to the principle embodied in Mr. Bennett's offer.

Will Fight on Tariff.

"Therefore I say now with a full sense of responsibility," said Mr. Baldwin, "that whatever the Socialist government may do, the Conservative party accepts the principle put forward with such weight and unanimity. Further, the Conservative party, guided by the views expressed at this conference, will formulate its own proposals for carrying that principle into effect, and will submit them to the people at the next election for their final and definite assent."

Imperial Debate Secret.

After a short burst of publicity the imperial conference went underground again today. Meetings of several committees were held, but the only report given out was that they were discussing various subjects and had arrived at no conclusions.

It was reported that the heads of the delegations met at 10 Downing street to discuss suggestions for the development of interimperial trade. This fact and the fact that Philip Snowden, chancellor of the exchequer and the firmest free trader in the cabinet, was present, indicates that a struggle has opened on the question of the principles of free trade and protection.

The sensation of the Labor party conference at Llandudno today was the defeat of J. H. Thomas, secretary for the dominions, in the election today for executives of the party and the election of Sir Oswald Mosley to a seat.

Mr. Thomas was at the bottom of a poll of 14 candidates for 12 seats. It is said he was being punished for his failure as minister of unemployment, and Sir Oswald was being rewarded for his efforts to get the party to adopt a positive unemployment policy.

There has also been much criticism of Mr. Thomas' management of the imperial conference.

"LOG LIFTING" MARKS START ON FOREST BUILDING

A "log lifting" ceremony in place of a corner stone laying was held yesterday at the location of the new winter sports shelter house in the forest preserve. The new building, which will be completed in time for the winter season, is at the foot of the ski slide in Palos Park. The exercises were attended by forest preserve officials and leaders in winter sports.

The fall planting of 150,000 trees along highways and in open spaces adjacent to the forest preserves will be started within a few days, Superintendent Charles Sauers announced. More than 150,000 young elms, maples and oak trees were planted in the spring. The spring planting was held up by the droughty summer except for a few, Mr. Sauers said.

BRITISH EMPIRE THEORIES.

The British imperial conference in London is rough hewing the empire into new forms which in theory, if the extreme dominion doctrines prevail, will leave a loose confederation of states with separate nationalities, with no common judicial authority, and with each state reserving the right to withdraw from the union at will.

The judicial harmony of the federation contemplates merely an imperial tribunal to determine questions arising between states, and even there Ireland demands the right to take such an issue to the league of nations or the international court just as it might do in a dispute with any other nation. Sentiment is against the privy council as a supreme court of appeal and for final judgment in the ocurts of each dominion. Several instances of privy council decisions have been resented in the dominions, particularly that giving Labrador territory to Newfoundland instead of Quebec. The French Canadians observed what they thought was a national bias in the council against them and in favor of the English Newfoundlanders, restricting the French territorial pretensions because they are French.

The disposition to insist that Australians, Canadians, etc., are citizens of Australia, Canada, etc., by distinctive nationality and are not British subjects would simplify the legal processes of immigration control as between, for instance, Australia and India, but its theory is one of disintegration. The final tendency toward disintegration would be in recognition of the right to separate from the union at will and without opposition. That has a serious reality in South Africa, where an independent government is remembered in a land which was once its own master.

There is a Scotch movement for greater national individuality which is not written down as inconsiderable. It would restore a greater national form to Scotland in the union, and altogether the prevailing theories of federation, union, and empire in the British commonwealths seem to leave little solidity to the future confederation. It has, however, still the bond which political theory has not weakened. That is self-interest, and although the doctrines are revolutionary, submission to them may change the form and not the substance.

THE PEST OF BILLBOARDS.

The ruin of the American landscape by billboards is a fact patent to any one after a half hour's motoring. Their use of public highways in itself establishes the people's right, it seems, to abolish or control the billboards by whatever methods seem the most effective. Billboards are an imposition on the public. They are parasites that deserve only extermination.

Of the three methods that have been suggested for the control of billboards—namely: police power to abate a nuisance, licensing, and taxation on the square foot basis—the first is probably the most direct and effective. Though billboards now are prohibited on the highways in some states, their presence just over the fence means that their dangers to traffic and their destruction of the scenic value of the landscape are not diminished. As dangers to traffic and as nuisances billboards should be prohibited by police power within a zone one thousand feet on each side of the roadway. Signs advertising property or business on the premises, of course, would be excepted.

The licensing of billboards would have the value of restricting outdoor advertising to the hands of licensees. It would restrict the use of snipe signs and small posters, but it probably would not abate the major evils. For the same reasons the taxation of billboards might have value, but on the whole would probably not be effective in eradicating billboards. Billboards are nuisances, unwanted by the public but forced on it. They should be abolished.

SOUTH AMERICA AND OUR UNIVERSITIES.

Pursuant to the agreement made between the University of San Marcos and the Sorbonne regarding academic interchange for the purpose of promoting the rapprochement of Peru and France, Dr. Henri Langier, a distinguished official of the Sorbonne and author of various scientific works, recently gave a series of lectures at the former university." The quotation is from the magazine Peru. Similar news notes could be reported of other South American and European countries.

Though the drift of interest towards the United States increases in South America there is little question that the better organized efforts of European countries capture much in South America that normally would come to the United States. Where Europe and South America have long maintained deliberately a cultural and educational exchange as well as a commercial interest the United States has done but little. The Guggenheim South American scholarships are a beginning, but measures should be taken to induce a much greater interchange both of faculties and students. If the larger American universities would make better provision for South American students, who come somewhat out of adjustment to the conventional entrance requirements of our colleges, America's young intellectual life and the contacts between the two continents would be greatly facilitated and improved.

Though European nations, according to trustworthy report, carry on extensive and well organized anti-North American propagandas in South America, in order to divert sympathy and trade their way, this sort of thing can hardly be undertaken by the United States. Academic and cultural interchange, however, should be promoted both by the government and the universities. An understanding and solidarity between the two continents will have huge value spiritually, practically, and humanly.

LET THEM HAVE IT.

Representative Britten has made a suggestion which we trust will be given early consideration by congress. He will introduce a bill authorizing the exportation of helium gas in time of peace, and Rear Admiral Moffett, chief of the naval bureau of aeronautics, expressed a feeling the American people will share when he said that helium ought to be put at the disposal "especially of the British and the Germans, who have had the vision and the courage to carry on with rigid airships, despite disasters and the handicap and danger of hydrogen."

Helium, an expensive by-product or component of natural gas, is noninflammable, said to be producible in commercial quantities only in the United States. A ban upon export would be proper and inevitable in case of war, but in time of peace we think it should be procurable by nations which can and will use it. We are interested in the development of all possibilities which science and invention can exploit for mastering the navigation of the air. It is our self-interest, to say nothing of considerations of international comity and good will, that we should make all possible contributions to aeronautic progress throughout the world. The British and the Germans especially, as Admiral Moffet reminds us, have been and are working persistently and intelligently, in face of serious disadvantages, perhaps the most serious of which is the lack of a noninflammable gas; and, since we can produce more than enough for our own use, let us hasten to put it at their disposal. It will save precious lives, now needlessly sacrificed, and it will hasten the conquest of the air, one of the great steps forward in the progress of mankind.

ROADSIDE TAVERNS.

The tavern by the road in stage coach days was a picturesque and friendly institution that gave character to traveling. With the decline of horse and buggy transportation the old inn fell on bad days, and the few remaining are dreary and inadequate to modern needs. The small roadhouse, bleak and ugly and plastered over with signs, usually replaces them. This and the private home that takes in tourists are a poor substitute for the ancient inn.

That the roadside inn, adjusted now to motor travel, may be returning is indicated, however, by the success of a few recently established; and a system of chain taverns is announced with construction immediately beginning. Contracts for fifty already have been let for locations within fifty miles of Chicago, and plans are being made for their extension nationally and into Canada. Each inn will have two stories, fourteen bedrooms, a restaurant and lunchroom, a garage, service and filling station. Architecturally they seem fairly good from pictures. They will be open day and night. The idea has merit. Its success will depend on the taste and efficiency with which it is worked out.

The site for such a tavern should be chosen not alone for the amount of traffic but for the pleasantness and interest of the surrounding region. A bleak, flat-sided house flush on the concrete road is one thing; an attractive, shady place where motorists will be enticed to stay an hour or day or week is quite another. The building, grounds and the surrounding lands should be pleasant and free of signs and billboards. Taste and cleanliness in the interior will do wonders in attracting tourists, and the promoters will do well to employ high grade architects in working out the plans. Motorists will welcome pleasant, quiet rooms at a moderate cost. Inns of this sort are much needed. They should be a great success.

Billboards and shacks and bleak and ugly buildings ruin today an American countryside that could be the equal in scenic and travel lure of any in the world. Intelligence and taste in roadside inns, quiet and efficient management and pleasantly simple rooms and prices will go far towards restoring America to its rightful place as a land for motor touring.

Editorial of the Day

FORD'S PART TIME FARMERS.

[Brooklyn Eagle.]

That with Ford all things are possible is a credo that is spreading from all America to all the world. The latest idea of the flivver magnate will attract universal attention. He hopes to have all his mechanical employes spend two months of every year working on farms. The part time agricultural occupation will be good for their health. That it will be sociologically educative cannot be denied. Indeed, carried into the industry of every country it would break down entirely the wall between the proletariat and the peasantry. New political combinations based on an era of good feeling would be inevitable.

Ford workers who want to keep their jobs will follow instructions. If he wants them to learn to milk cows, or stack hay, or dig potatoes, they will do their best. But that their immediate reaction to the scheme will be one of aversion is quite likely. To take everything that is unknown for something horrible is part of the average human disposition.

But when Lille and Essen and Brummagem, Clyde and Crewe are brought into the equation we can see difficulties. Farms are not so easily furnished for experiment in the older countries. And heredity fixes men closer to their accustomed activities. World remarking on these lines will be a slow process. That is only another reason why it ought to be begun as soon as possible if it is to be begun at all.

THE CAPITALIST.

"To what do you attribute your great age?" asked the city visitor of Grandpa Eben Hoskins.

"I can't say yit," answered grandpa, cautiously. "They's several o' them testimonial fellers a-dickerin' with me."—Border Cities Star.

A GOAL ATTAINED.

Null—I started out on the theory that the world has an opening for me.

Void—And you found it?

Null—Well, rather. I'm in the hole now.—Churchman.

HE THOUGHT OF THAT.

Indignant Man [who has leaned against a newly painted rail]—Why don't you put "Wet Paint" on that rail?

Painter—I just did.—U. of S. Cal. Wampus.

FOODS TO FIGHT SCURVY.

TOMATO juice, turnip greens, and a mixture of spinach, lettuce, and carrots are about on a par with orange juice as foods which prevent scurvy and keep the teeth and gums in good condition. Dalldorff and Zall have measured the antiscorbutic properties of these several foods by the latest and most approved methods. For this purpose they used rats.

Feeding rats for twenty days or longer on a base diet that was right except for vitamin C and to which was added 15 minims of orange juice, they found that the animals developed mild scurvy. If, however, they added 75 minims of orange juice instead of 15 the animals showed no evidence of scurvy.

When tomato juice was used as a source of vitamin C it was found that 30 grains daily was not enough to completely protect against scurvy. But 60 grains, or any amount over 60, gave ample protection. Turnip greens made a record that was on a par with tomato juice. One ounce of a mixture of spinach, lettuce, and carrots was also effective. The experiment did not include trial of smaller quantities of these three common vegetables.

The teeth of rats grow continuously and far more actively than do those of men. The test consists in noting the rate of growth of the rats' teeth and in sawing off the outer ends and examining them microscopically.

If the food does not supply enough vitamin C the teeth grow slowly and, the microscope shows, abnormally. Studies of the long bones show that in scurvy their growth is abnormal, after the pattern of that found in the rat's tooth. This method of testing the antiscorbutic properties of foods is coming into general use and appears to be destined to displace the Sherman method.

Of all the vitamins the only one that appears to keep poorly is C. Whenever a food ages or dries out, ferments, or is much exposed to the air its vitamin C content drops. Therefore, vegetables and fruit should be eaten when in prime condition. It is also the only vitamin which does not stand cooking very well. To get it the eating of raw foods may be necessary. However, canned tomato juice seems to be rich enough in it. Boiling milk for five minutes reduces its vitamin C content by only 20 per cent.

IT MAY BE SERIOUS.

E. M. writes:

1. Is chronic nephritis very serious?
2. How long can a person having this disease live?
3. Will it gradually affect any other organ of the body?
4. Would it have any effect on the children, if there are any?
5. Is exercise harmful to any one having the disease?

REPLY:

1. Sometimes it is. Oftentimes it is not.
2. Some with this disorder have lived twenty to fifty years and reached an age of eighty or beyond.
3. The heart is sometimes involved.
4. No.
5. As a rule it is not to the average person with chronic nephritis.

SOMETIMES THEY DO HARM.

A. M. T. writes: Is it ever necessary to wear arch supports, if your feet do not trouble you except an occasional corn? Recently I was told that I was flatfooted, and was to be pitied if I did not wear supports soon. Was this just salesmanship I was listening to, or is it true?

REPLY.

Just salesmanship, and of a vicious type. Some people need to wear arch supports. More are harmed by wearing them. Many feet are naturally flat and changing the arches does harm.

CANCER OF THE STOMACH.

A. M. writes:

1. What are the symptoms of cancer of the stomach?
2. Would a lump which has been present without pain at least several years be likely to be cancer of the stomach?

REPLY:

1. Nausea, vomiting, loss of weight, anemia, burning in the stomach, pain in stomach, hemorrhage [either profuse or oozing], tumor.
2. I don't think so.

BUILDING WILL BE WRECKED.

Chicago, Oct. 2.—[Friend of the People.]—A three story frame tenement building long vacant and now damaged through fire beyond repair continues to stand in the 5300 block of West Kinzie street despite continual petitioning of the building commissioner's office for its wrecking by various individuals of the neighborhood. In its present state it casts a blight on the neighborhood and provides an excellent transient home for idlers and roustabouts, a breeding place of potential criminals in the youth of the district, an excellent hideout for any contemplating a holdup, and the most dangerous of recreation centers for young children. F. G. B.

This building is a two story vacant frame residence, damaged by fire. Owner resides in Bellaire, O., and has been notified by this department to wreck same. The city cannot enter suit against a nonresident. We have been assured by letter from the owner that he will comply. If building becomes dangerous city wrecker will be ordered to wreck same.
CHRISTIAN P. PASCHEN,
Commissioner of Building.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

How to the Line, let the quips fall where they may.

MA AND THE TOURISTS' HOME.

Why don't you get out in the country more, people ask us, now that you've got an automobile and have learned to drive it—in a manner of speaking—and all these lovely autumn days are here right on top of you. Well, we'll give you a tell. We like to go out in the country these lovely autumn days as much as anybody. But, drat it all, when we get there we want to stay and there's no place to stay. Country hotels we can't abide. They won't take our dog. The haughty hotel clerk looks up coldly and says, "You can tie that hound out in the woodshed." And even if you argue him out of that point—and usually you don't—he slams his hand down on the bell and yells "Front!" so loud that you jump five feet and turn pale as guilt. And then the bellhop leads you down a narrow corridor and up three flights of stairs and into a dark little room looking out on two brick walls and a gas station. By that time our love for the country these lovely autumn days has just vanished like the snows of yesteryear.

Now down south it's different. Down there the towns may have one hotel or two or three, the rooms may be just as dark and front on just as many brick walls, and the hotel clerks may be just as haughty about well behaved small dogs—we don't know. And from the looks of things very few other people know, either. Down there you can find dozens of big white farmhouses and bigger old brick mansions in a day's journey, all marked "Tourists' Home." And night after night they're filled with tourists and traveling men and judges on the circuit and every one else. The hotel clerks may still be haughty, but we wouldn't be surprised if they're beginning to wonder.

A Tourists' Home starts very casually. Ma decides she's got a couple or more spare bedrooms that she might as well let out as leave them stand empty. Automobilists are pouring along the road every evening and Ma knows they've got to sleep somewhere and that there aren't any better beds than she's got, by jingo! So she has somebody paint her a sign, takes it out to the front gate, puts an electric light over it, and she's ready for business.

Then when the tourist rings the bell at the Tourists' Home, instead of a stern hotel clerk, he's met by a bright eyed schoolgirl, who says that Ma is out in the kitchen making hot biscuits for supper, but she'll call her right away. "Hot biscuits for supper!" The tourist decides right then and there to stay. Then Ma appears, with a dab of flour on her chin, and she smiles happily and says to come right in and of course she'll be glad to put you up and you can park your automobile in the back yard, and if you don't want to do it yourself Pa will be home from the tobacco field in a minute and he'll tend to it. And then she looks down at the Sealyham pup and she says, "My goodness, that's a right fine little dog, isn't it? My son's got a Scottie, and won't those two have a picnic playing together?"

And then the bright eyed schoolgirl takes you up to a big, shining, clean room, and after a bit you go down and eat those hot biscuits, with fried chicken and sweet potatoes with candy oozing out of 'em, and seven kinds of vegetables, and three kinds of dessert, and real, honest to goodness milk, and you're almost too contented to go out and see the lovely autumn country that's spread all about you.

DISAGREEMENT WITH ONE WOMAN.

She smiled, but as she smiled her eyes grew colder and green like arctic ice and she seemed older.

Her mouth so softly red and curved and tender grew tight and still more red and strangely slender.

She had no need for words—
the thought was plain.
Beyond our silence dripped
October rain.

JEANNE DELAMARTER.

THE REDS have a delightful way of recalling their loving comrades who are abroad serving their devoted country. Moscow recalled forty of its emissaries in Paris the other day by saying that if the boys came back willingly and immediately they would be given a bonus of three months' salary, but if they didn't come back they would be sentenced to death. If we were one of the boys called home we believe we would decide to hang around the Arc de Triomphe a while longer and kiss the three months' extra pay good night. That recall order seems to have a joker in it.

TO YOU ON OCT. 10.

The years that come and go, all take their toll,
They leave their mark on body and on soul,
And some are scars of hurt and pain and woe.
And some are paths that smiles leave, when they go.
But when your birthday comes again this year
I count each smile and scar, and both are dear.
I thought I loved you well when we were wed.
Life had not tried us then. The years have sped,
And by each token left on heart and brow,
I know I very truly love you now.

MARJORIE F. W.

LAGNIAPPE.

FROM THE TRIBUNE'S COLUMNS

16 YEARS AGO TODAY

OCTOBER 10, 1914.

LONDON.—It is reported that Antwerp, after a terrific 48 hour bombardment by the Germans, has fallen. King Albert is reported at the head of the Belgian field army which left the city on Oct. 8 and has withdrawn to the west. Dispatches tell of the terrible conditions existing in Antwerp, sections of which are in flames. On the night of Oct. 8 and all day yesterday shells from 200 German guns fell throughout the city. Many civilians were killed and wounded. From Antwerp to Ghent the roads are a mass of fleeing humanity. Henry Diederich, United States consul at Antwerp, escaped with his family by motor car.

PETROGRAD.—The Russian northern army has occupied Lyck, in East Prussia, according to an official statement.

CHICAGO.—City detectives face dishonorable discharge and the possibility of criminal prosecution as the result of yesterday's testimony before the city council commission on crime. The testimony of Ben Kendall, a reporter for THE TRIBUNE, loaned to the commission, brought out the details of the payment of approximately $40 to two detectives for protection for himself and two other investigators while they were posing as confidence men and pickpockets.

PHILADELPHIA.—[By I. E. Sanborn.]—Facing Bender as nonchalantly as if he were merely the second string hurler of a prairie outfit and swatting him about that way, Boston's superconfident Braves licked Philadelphia's overconfident Athletics by a score of 7 to 1 and won the first leg of the 1914 world's pennant race with conspicuous ease. Rudolph pitched for the Braves. A crowd of 20,562 saw the game.

30 YEARS AGO TODAY

OCTOBER 10, 1900.

CHICAGO.—The first registration day for the November election resulted in 236,456 names being placed on the poll books. T. N. Jamieson declared the heavy registration will help the Republican ticket, while Robert E. Burke held that the wage earners turned out in force and that it means a Democratic victory.

JOLIET.—William Jennings Bryan made his last speech of the day here at 11 o'clock tonight. He began at Quincy at 8 o'clock this morning and, made sixteen addresses during the day, or more than one speech for each hour of the day occupied.

CHICAGO.—Expansion is the platform of the American league. Byron Bancroft Johnson's organization, next year will consist of Baltimore, Washington, Cleveland, and Buffalo in the east, and Chicago, Detroit, Milwaukee, and either Indianapolis or St. Louis in the west.

CHICAGO.—Gen. John C. Black addressed between 3,000 and 4,000 employés of Armour & Co. at the noon hour, and warned them that the election of Bryan would end prosperity.

50 YEARS AGO TODAY

OCTOBER 10, 1880.

LAFAYETTE, Ind.—Senator Conkling delivered his last speech of the Indiana campaign here in the tabernacle, a large wooden structure erected on the spot where the chief of the Indians fell. The place is more commonly known as the Tippecanoe battleground. Fully 8,000 people sat under the great oak trees spellbound by the fervid eloquence of New York's greatest senator.

CHICAGO.—"If the Republicans carry Indiana next Tuesday," said Secretary Rea of the Democratic state central committee at the Palmer house, "it will be because they have bought more votes. The Democrats have got that state by a majority of 10,000 at least." The faith that was in this man is well shown by the tactics pursued by the Democrats to carry that state by the importation of voters from every state in the Union.

LONDON.—Reports are conflicting regarding the reception by the powers of the English proposals of starving Turkey into submission and seizing islands in the Aegean sea, but it is clear that the powers approve the principle involved. The sultan's note indicates such contempt for the powers and shows such a suicidal spirit that the Porte is gradually losing all its sympathizers.

USES FOR FAIR BUILDINGS.

Chicago, Oct. 7.—The World's Fair buildings would be ideally situated to serve as the nucleus of a university group, and it is my suggestion that they be turned over to the state for use as a Chicago branch of the University of Illinois. Such a branch would make available educational facilities for many who would find it impossible to attend university otherwise. It would give Chicago undisputed leadership in the field of education. It would offer facilities for research, libraries, etc., which would not be available outside of Chicago.

R. M. CARLSON.

EIGHT DOLLARS A WEEK.

Chicago, Oct. 1.—I was quite amused when I read an ad in this morning's help wanted section of THE TRIBUNE. This ad read: "Young girls for general office work. $8 to start. Apply after 9 a. m." It amused me at first and then burned me up to think that any firm would be so cheap. Eight dollars a week wouldn't keep a girl in lipstick! I am thankful I have a position that pays a halfway decent salary, but I shudder to think how the thousands of girls out of work felt when they read that ad. Eight dollars a week would just about cover the cost of carfare and lunch—or is a girl supposed to walk to work and be on a one meal a day diet? —to say nothing of hose and coats and slippers, dresses, etc. Inadequate wages is the principal cause for the "looseness" of the girls of today, but you can't blame the girls after reading an ad like that quoted above. Why not give the girls a break—let them have fair wages at least for slaving eight long hours a day?

JOAN CLARK,
Y. W. C. A., Chicago.

HOMELESS MEN.

Chicago, Sept. 22.—Coming back from a party early this morning we happened to drive underneath the Michigan avenue bridge, and my friends and myself were positively sick at the sight of hundreds and hundreds of homeless men sleeping on the sidewalk covered with newspapers. The sight was so depressing that until we reached our destination we could hardly talk. I think it is a shame that in a city like Chicago with its tremendous wealth a thing like this can exist.

PIERRE MOREL.

THE DEMOCRATS AND THE TARIFF

Oconomowoc, Wis., Oct. 7.—THE TRIBUNE and Mr. Watson seem to see inconsistency in the attitude of Democrats who voted for high tariff on articles produced in their districts. Their position is so evident that only a prejudiced protectionist can fail to see it. That position is this: If you insist on having your constituents rob my constituents I will do my best to put my constituents in position to rob yours. Of course this is a case where two wrongs don't make a right, but it is better than to let the wrong stand alone, and Democrats can't do away with the wrong.

H. H. PARKER.

ANOTHER ROBBERY.

Chicago, Oct. 9.—Why make such a fuss about Mrs. Mayor Thompson's jewels which were stolen? Reading from the papers it seems the whole Chicago police force is working to find the jewels and the man who stole them.

A week previous to Mrs. Thompson's robbery our house was robbed and we got away with my raccoon coat and a fox scarf. The coat I bought five years ago on the installment plan, for which I paid $250. But to me it seemed like two million dollars. It took me two years to pay for it.

I am not working now and am not even able to buy a cheap cloth coat. The only outlook for me this winter is to wear my spring coat, which is also five years old, with a sweater underneath it to keep me warm.

My husband, not being in the circumstances to remember me every year with an anniversary gift, gave me a fox scarf last December, being married ten years. You might know how much I thought of that scarf and cherished it. Ten years is a mighty long time to receive such a lovely surprise. But now it's only a dream.

We called the police the night of the robbery. They came an hour and a half later. They searched the house to check up on what was stolen and told us they would see what they could do about it. To this day we have not heard from the police, whether or not they are working on this case to get my coat back to keep me warm.

Of course, Mrs. Mayor Thompson's jewels are more important than the poor man's wife's coat for which she struggled so hard.

MRS. LOUISE LEWIS.

WARNING TO BANDITTI.

Chicago, Oct. 7.—The bandits had better be careful not to make a mistake and rob the mayor, or the mayor might get mad and do something.

A. E. ANDERSON.

POLITICS AND THE POLICE.

Chicago, Oct. 9.—"Divorce the police from politics," Acting Commissioner Alcock has said, and now that crime has reached home, perhaps Mayor Thompson may see the light. It is a simple problem to bar political influence. Maj. Lynn G. Adams, superintendent of the Pennsylvania state police, told me how it is done in his department. "When a politician calls he is as welcome as any citizen in my office, but the moment he attempts to exercise his influence in any way he is invited out and told never to return."

I then asked him if that ended the matter. "O, not entirely," he said, "for some newcomer in politics may try his luck, but with the same result, always."

FRANK L. MATHER.

CAMPAIGN ADVERTISING.

Chicago, Oct. 7.—I am going to vote against every candidate who violates the law regarding pasting posters on telephone or trolley poles. Also those who write and paint on sidewalks.

WILLIAM A. DAHLER.

CUBA TO FORGET HATES TODAY FOR 1868 REBEL FETE

Friend and Foe Will Join All Day Fiesta.

BY TOM PETTEY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

HAVANA, Cuba, Oct. 9.—Cuba tonight prepared to celebrate the holiday tomorrow of "El Grito de Yara" in honor of the beginning of the first revolution against Spain in 1868, and even the plotters of the present proposed revolution, which is beginning to look like a false alarm, are preparing for a day of pleasure instead of scheming. The man in the street here is scornful of any prospects of a real revolution. He believes there will be no fighting this winter because it would be bad for the tourist season. Then comes sugar grinding in the spring, when everybody is too busy to get into trouble. The hot summer days follow, when all Cubans spend most of their time resting. And, finally, he says, there is the rainy season, when an uprising would be inconvenient, and, anyhow, the police would not permit a revolution at any time because it is against the law.

Machado Only Man with Army.

This city is busy talking for and against the present government, but so far it is only talk. President Gerardo Machado being the only man who has got an army. That being the case, THE TRIBUNE correspondent interviewed President Machado this morning and asked him what he is going to do with his army of 20,000 well paid soldiers.

"I never used the army for any political purpose and do not intend to use it except for public good," he said. "The Cuban army is loyal to the government and I can depend on it absolutely in any emergency, and besides I can depend on every organized political party, as well as all judicial powers. This is a government of democracy."

President Machado was asked if he considered the political crisis past.

"There is no political crisis," said the smiling president as he sat in his picture lined study on the third floor of the residential section of the palace.

Outside the door was the palace barber waiting his master. Seated in the corridors were a dozen political leaders seeking a talk with the president.

"How can there be a political crisis when there is no one to make it?" he continued. "All the opposition is based on the actions of a political group, which is not even an organized party. If it was organized there might be a chance of a crisis.

Says Elections Must Be Held.

"The group of politicians, which is trying to make trouble is demanding that I postpone the elections and not hold them Nov. 1. That is impossible. The elections must be held. I could not postpone them if I wanted to for it is not in the power of the president to suspend elections."

The president said he is greatly pleased at the prospect of a solution of Cuba's sugar problem by Thomas L. Chadbourne's plan and that he would do all he could to assist.

In the residential section, at the home of Col. Carlos Mendieta, this afternoon there was considerable activity. Col. Mendieta is the leader of the opposition group, and he held an all-day conference with his followers. He was too busy plotting a revolution to talk to newspapers.

1 SLAIN IN 5 DAY ELECTION RIOT IN TURKISH CITY

ISTANBUL, Turkey, Oct. 9.—(AP)—One death, many fights with knives and pistols and hundreds of arrests was the toll up to today in the municipal elections of Istanbul, which have occupied five days of voting. The Liberals led by Fethi Bey and the People's party of Mustapha Kemal and Ismet Pasha have been stirring up long forgotten memories of the Byzantine blue and green factions, whose riots shook Constantinople.

Alarmed by the situation the governor of Istanbul has placed a strict ban upon any further haranguing or music in the vicinity of the polls.

The Liberals sent a protest to the president, charging that the People's party workers were stuffing ballot boxes and using force to prevent the Liberals from voting. The protest further alleged that the opposition workers were insultingly calling the Liberals "Ghiavoura," a sneering Moslem epithet for Christians. The elections will end on Saturday.

GERMAN PROFESSOR TO TALK HERE.

HUNT ONE-EYED TRAMP AS CLEW TO R-101 CRASH

French Police Learn Aged Poacher Saw Disaster.

BY EDMOND TAYLOR.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BEAUVAIS, France, Oct. 9.—Gendarmes are today combing the country all around here in search of the only man in the whole world who knows exactly what happened to the ill fated R-101.

That man is an old one eyed poacher, whom the authorities are now convinced was standing within a few yards from the spot where the world's largest dirigible crashed and exploded resulting in 48 deaths. Although the gendarmes do not know the name of the poacher—who is a homeless tramp who has been wandering about the vicinity—they are well acquainted with him in a professional capacity and have often sought him for questioning regarding partridge and rabbit snares.

Saw Poacher Dash Away.

The missing witness was said to have been setting snares for rabbits, when the crash occurred less than 200 feet from him.

Several witnesses, an official of the gendarmie said today, reported seeing the poacher running across the fields away from the scene of the disaster while they were rushing to the rescue of the airship victims. Corroboration of these statements was obtained when a rabbit snare was discovered by the gendarmes in a hedge on the edge of the wood.

According to French experts, examination of the wreckage shows that the dirigible hit the ground at keel level and did not nose into the hill. On Saturday an effort will be made to move the tail, so that the experts can make a more careful examination of the rudder, also in the hopes that the log book may be found buried in the mud.

Services for the Dead Today.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Oct. 9.—[Friday.]—Coffins of the 48 victims of the R-101 disaster were removed from the Westminster mortuary to Westminster hall early this morning. Today, between the hours of 8 a. m. and 10 p. m., the bodies will lie in state, with the coffins ranged in two lines.

The body of Rigger Samuel Church, who died in France Wednesday night, arrived here last night.

A large number of persons gathered in front of Westminster hall last night awaiting permission to file past the coffins. Religious ceremonies will be conducted in the St. Paul's and Westminster cathedrals, the latter for the Catholic members of the dirigible's party. The prince of Wales will represent the king at the services at St. Paul's.

The victims will be buried at Cardington tomorrow.

GERMANY WILL PAY ALL DEBTS, BERLIN FINANCIER DECLARES

New York, Oct. 9.—[Special.]—Germany can and will pay all debts to foreign owners of her bonds, whether they are private, municipal, state or national, and will stick to engagements entered into under the Young plan, which itself contains a provision for revision should it become demonstrated that the burdens thereunder were economically too heavy, Dr. Hjalmar Schacht, former president of the reichsbank, said today in a luncheon address before the Bond club.

Dr. Schacht made the point that foreign political intervention which would prevent the payment by Germany of her foreign debts was a remote possibility, for no foreign political power could take such action without ruining its own credit.

Dr. Schacht's address, while not blinking the unpleasant facts of the present world economic situation, was reassuring in tone. He pointed out that Germany was facing a "great problem," out that "there is no cause for excitement." At the close of his address he made a plea for "action from bankers and industrialists to check the damage caused by politics" and said that "it is due to politics that the present world economic depression is lasting so long."

BLAMES TARIFF WAR FOR WORLD BUSINESS SLUMP

TORONTO, Oct. 9.—(AP)—National treasuries and public authority may postpone but cannot deflect economic law entirely, Julius H. Barnes, chairman of the board of the United States Chamber of Commerce, said tonight at the annual dinner of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce. He charged government intervention was responsible in large measure for world economic depression.

Many post-war problems have been solved, he said, but the world now is faced with the menace of tariff competition. He defended the United States tariff, which he said did not aim at exclusion, but he challenged "overnight tariff revisions without discussion or warning" as violation of the whole teaching of economic law.

Reviewing world economic conditions, Barnes said that probably never before at one time have so many commodities fallen in value, paralyzed the buying power of whole peoples and shocked the business fabric of so many countries. It might be reasoned, he said, that these declines were inevitable because of accumulated surpluses.

"But it is interesting and significant," he said, "to note these destructive processes. It is beside the question that these acts were in their origin aimed to be helpful. It is compelling that their cumulative effect, timed under an evil star of destiny, resulted in the prostration of the entire area of the world.

"The individual welfare of all people is wrapped up today as never before in a proper understanding and relationship between government and business. Government policies which obstruct and dislocate the functions of employing industry react into distress as never before. That distress individually reacts on government itself. The world shows this today in every direction."

REPORTS ON U. S. PUBLIC BUILDING WORK FOR YEAR

Washington, D. C., Oct. 9.—(AP)—The treasury announced today that 147 public buildings would be finished, put under process of construction or contracted for during this calendar year.

The treasury explained that last January it had $40,000,000 worth of public buildings under contract and after congress approved an enlarged program and provided funds for pushing the work it had let sixty-six additional contracts.

The original public building program called for 350 million dollars of construction but congress increased this to 508 millions to be spent in ten years.

Treasury officials expressed the opinion that about $40,000,000 of the total contracted for this year would be paid to labor.

Mad Dog Perils Evanston School Children; Killed

A mad dog ran among fifty pupils of the Lincolnwood school, Grant street and McDonald avenue, Evanston, as the children left the building at the noon hour yesterday. The dog chased a junior policeman down the street but, before biting any one, was cornered between two buildings and killed by Policeman Al Hagel.

Actress Who Divorced Man in 1928 Will Remarry Him

Los Angeles, Cal., Oct. 9.—(AP)—Barbara Bedford, 27, former screen actress, and the man she divorced in 1928, Alan Roscoe, 43, film actor, are to remarry.

"It takes a divorce as well as a marriage to make a man and a woman acquainted with each other," Miss Bedford said yesterday after the couple had applied for a marriage license.

Wish all who suffer from the ills that Konjola is designed to relieve could read the countless endorsements this new and different medicine has won. Here is one of them; the statement of Mr. Aurelius, 61, an iron-worker:

"For five years I lost half my time from work because of rheumatism. At times I had to be dressed and could hardly walk. I was about ready to give up, when a friend suggested Konjola. With the second bottle came a change, and in all I took nine bottles. That was a year ago, and I haven't missed a day's work in that time. Where I work every one asked me what I had done. I endorse Konjola to all who suffer from rheumatism."

Its economy is evident . . . throughout all the years you drive a Lincoln

FEW Lincoln owners would be willing to name one quality of their motor car's performance which appeals to them more especially than another. Swift, safe, powerful, with a sure beauty of its own, the Lincoln is a notable example of well-balanced excellence. Yet it is not too much to say that the economy of buying a Lincoln, coupled with the continued economy of driving it, contributes greatly to the loyalty of those who know it best.

A Lincoln may be bought for as little as $4200, f.o.b. Detroit. That price, possible only because the entire resources of the Ford organization are behind each Lincoln, brings you as nearly perfect a motor car as can be produced. Built in one of the famous precision plants of the world, tested with unique thoroughness on more than 29,000 separate occasions, the Lincoln is so accurately made it needs no breaking in. You can drive it at normal speed the very first day you own it!

And as varying conditions of travel, through many years, test the full measure of its excellence, the Lincoln will reveal itself as an economical car to drive. Simply because it has been made with such painstaking care, of the finest materials, this motor car is maintained at a genuinely negligible cost. All parts respond unfailingly, continually, with their own particular functions . . . through each of as many years as you care to drive your Lincoln. And perhaps quite as important, the Lincoln retains its style, its comfort and steadfast character indefinitely.

A beauty of design that stands symbol for strength within . . . an exhilarating responsiveness to every command . . . a mechanical perfection that results in true economy of ownership . . . these belong especially to the Lincoln.

The Judkins Two-window Berline. The low roof line, high belt and wide windows accentuate the length and smartness of this motor car. On the interior, the upholstery is deep and luxurious. A desirable feature of the Judkins Berline is its adaptability to both owner and chauffeur driving. Among other formal types are the Willoughby Limousine, the Brunn Cabriolet, the Brunn Brougham, and the LeBaron Cabriolet. Several open types also are available, including the Sport Phaeton, the Locke Sport Roadster and the Dietrich Convertible Coupe.*

MRS. LEENEY ON STAND TODAY IN SLAYING TRIAL

Daughter Testifies About Father's Threats.

Mrs. Florence Leeney will have the stage to herself today as her attorneys wind up her defense in the courtroom of Judge Joseph Sabath, where she is on trial for the slaying last New Year's night of her husband, Maurice. Florence ["Sis"] Leeney, her 21 year old daughter, was almost the last of the lesser figures in the drama to give her version yesterday of events preceding the tragedy in their apartment at 5336 Drexel boulevard.

"Sis," as the only witness to the death of her father, laid the basis for the story her mother will tell when she mounts the stand this morning. Through hours of questioning yesterday, the young woman parried every attempt of the prosecutors to have her make admissions against Mrs. Leeney as she went over and over the hours of mental and physical conflict she asserts preceded the moment when Mrs. Leeney seized a revolver and fired several bullets into her husband's body.

Girl Sticks to Story.

Assistant State's Attorney George Lavin, following up the state's contention that Leeney was shot while he lay asleep on a divan, questioned Florence at both the morning and afternoon sessions. He pointed out minor discrepancies in her story of yesterday and her statement made at his office a few days after the shooting, but failed to ruffle the girl's firm conviction or to trip her up on the major details.

From midnight, when a crowd of their relatives departed, until after 4 o'clock in the morning last Jan. 2, "Sis" declared, her father was browbeating, pummeling, and threatening her mother with a revolver in his hand and a bottle of wine on the table. His fury was caused, she declared, by his belief that Mrs. Leeney had reported to the father of Mrs. Dorothy Langley, her cousin, the fact that Leeney and the Langley girl had been carrying on a romance.

"Dad swore horribly at mother and me," she testified, "and said we'd both been double crossing him—that all the neighbors knew about him and Dorothy, and that we'd told it. He said he'd put us both in Evergreen where we wouldn't make any more trouble, and that he was going to 'have it out' if it took all night.

"When mother said, 'Why, Murk, you know I wouldn't tell a thing like that,' he got madder and said he'd make her admit it, and if she did, then he was going to blow her brains out. She fell on her knees and threw her arms around his legs and cried and said she never said a word to any one, but he pushed her back and kicked her in the stomach. I'd already tried to call the police when I heard shots, and rushed into the parlor and found him dead on the floor."

May Know Fate Tomorrow.

It is expected that Mrs. Leeney's testimony will be completed today, and that final arguments will start tomorrow. Judge Sabath has restricted both sides to three hours each, so Mrs. Leeney should know her fate some time tomorrow night.

Norman Langley, husband of Dorothy, informed the court that he intended to sue for divorce as soon as he got enough money. They are estranged.

CRIMINAL COURT.

PERRY EVADES CAPTURE WITH ANOTHER BRIDE

Hackett Death Suspect Traced to Missouri.

Word that George W. E. Perry, wanted in connection with the slaying of his wife, Mrs. Cora Bell Hackett Perry, found slain on a Wisconsin Indian reservation, is now in Montgomery City, Mo., was received at the Chicago detective bureau last night. The information was sent District Attorney O'Connor of Eagle River, Wis., by Chief of Police Joseph A. Gerk of St. Louis. O'Connor relayed it to the bureau.

Chief Gerk's message informed O'Connor that Perry had ben in St. Louis Wednesday and that he had left a hotel there, with a new bride, just before police arrived to arrest him. Records at Belleville, Ill., show that Perry and Mrs. Harriet Milligan, a St. Louis widow, were wed there Monday. Another woman in University City, Mo., identified Perry's picture as a man who proposed to her Tuesday, the day after his new marriage. He was to have returned to her for his answer Wednesday.

Perry's activities were likened to those of Bluebeard by the authorities, who to date have evidence that he has married three women bigamously while separated from his first wife.

The two women who claim to be his legal wives are Mrs. Katherine Gebhart Perry of Cleveland and Mrs. May Perry, living in poverty in Milwaukee with three children.

Chicago authorities found a safe deposit box yesterday which had been rented by Mrs. Hackett, but which yielded no evidence of her affair with Perry, which started through a newspaper want ad. The box was opened by Jack Rubin, investigator for the public administrator, at the Michigan Boulevard Safe Deposit company, in the Wrigley building. With Rubin was Mrs. Peggie Young, Mrs. Hackett's sister, and Mrs. Louise Palmer, both of Long Island, New York.

The box contained but two items of value—a note for $500, dated July 19, 1929, and signed by R. F. Farnham, and the deed to a lot in Memorial Park cemetery, Evanston. In addition it contained 1,191 shares of worthless stock and two $1,000 life insurance policies taken out in the name of Chauncey Hackett, the woman's dead husband, who was a secret service operative under President Roosevelt.

Perry was married to the St. Louis woman the day the body of Mrs. Hackett was found on the edge of the Lac du Flambeau, Indian reservation near Eagle River, Wisconsin.

Joseph George, a nephew of Perry, told Milwaukee police last night that the fugitive has "made a racket of marrying women for their money." He also said his uncle had sought to have him join the "love racket" several years ago, quoting Perry as having said, "It is easy to get women to fall for you, and then you'd get their money."

RAILROAD CHIEF WARNS AGAINST TRADE PANACEAS

Business Group Is Told Slump Is Ending.

"It is most important, as John Quincy Adams once said in a similar crisis, that we should beware of the panaceas offered us, and rather take stock of the things that we have done that we should not have done, than to correct these faults by flying to alleged new remedies."

So declared Paul Shoup, president of the Southern Pacific railroad and head of the Associated Transportation lines representing an investment of two billion dollars, in an address before 500 members of the Illinois Chamber of Commerce at their annual transportation meeting in the Stevens hotel yesterday.

Sees Early End of Slump.

Mr. Shoup said he is not alarmed by the present business depression, expressing the opinion that it is a healthy phenomenon, which will bring business back to normal methods. Like a dozen similar depressions in the past, the present business slump will soon be overcome, he said.

"I have an idea that this question of business depression is more of an individual matter than we fully realize. It becomes quite general when too many of us, in addition to having a rainbow around our shoulders put the ends in our pockets and believe that fortunes are attached thereto.

"The processes of adjustment are under way and when they are concluded we will be on our way onward and upward, just as this country has continued to climb decade by decade almost since it was established. Charts of 1907 and 1908 and of 1920, 1921 and 1922 show that while in the period of depression a month in one year may show a great drop in business from the corresponding month of the preceding year, almost invariably the same month in the following year shows an increase in business.

"Well Equipped for Troubles."

"In no other period of reaction have we been so well equipped to meet the troubles incident thereto as we are now. A nation is on trial in the period of its greatest prosperity, but its real strength is brought forth by adversity. It is a good thing for us to walk awhile instead of being given a ride."

Mr. Shoup devoted the bulk of his remarks to a discussion of the duplication of service in rail, steamboat, air lines and state highways transportation.

"The service of this country," he said, "is wrapped up in the welfare of the railroads in the sense of maintaining them as an efficient major agency of transportation and the money they take in is largely and levelly spent along their lines in such a way as to be productive of more uniform prosperity among the people than almost any other great expenditure.

Sees Danger to Railroads.

"The federal government in giving aid to inland waterways and the Panama canal and to state highways, producing competition without capital investment for roadbed and right of way, should exercise a wise discrimination in the interests of the people lest it impair their greatest agency for transportation."

"The Go-Light Flashes" is the slogan of the business men who are holding a two day annual meeting of the Illinois Chamber of Commerce. Yesterday was devoted to forming an organization to carry out a program of development and coördination for the industries of the state.

EAST ST. LOUIS TO CLAMP LID ON.

East St. Louis, Ill., Oct. 9.—(AP)—The East St. Louis police department was ordered to close all gambling houses and seize slot machines found in the city, in a motion passed yesterday by unanimous vote of the city council as a result of the reported reopening of the "Southern club."

Ask Hindenburg to Pardon Three Guilty of Treason

BERLIN, Oct. 9.—(AP)—Two national federations of former German army officers today sent petitions to President Von Hindenburg asking for pardon for the three Reichswehr officers condemned to 18 months in prison each for Fascist propagandist activities by the Leipsic Supreme court on Saturday.

If you could turn your mouth inside-out • you would wash it as often as your hands

There is danger in your mouth. Its membrane lining is quite as exposed to soiling influences as the skin upon your hands. Eating leaves a residue of food particles that ferment, form acid and attack the teeth. Breathing brings from the very air, dust and other foreign particles that catch and collect in the innumerable folds that line your mouth. GLYCO-Thymoline is different. Being alkaline, it does not "sting" or "shrink" the sensitive tissues in your mouth. As a gargle, it helps guard your throat against common coughs and colds. It costs $1207.20 less every 5 years to heat this apartment with coal than with any other fuel

ALREADY fuel and the pursuit of warmth have begun to engage everyone's attention. The cost of supplying heat is becoming an actual problem; and coal is again proving in the overwhelming majority of Chicago's homes that coal heat costs less.

One of the dwellings in which coal is giving a demonstration of its economy is the apartment building owned by Anthony Patrick at 6645 S. Richmond Street.

Last winter Mr. Patrick heated his building with coal for only $132.60. Had he burned the fuel that next to coal is most economical, his fuel bills would have amounted to $374.04. Had he burned the third fuel used for house heating, his fuel bills would have totaled $623.25.

So, last winter Mr. Patrick saved $241.44 on his heating bills by using coal instead of fuel B, and $490.65 by using coal instead of fuel C. He makes these savings every year.

Accordingly, at the end of five years Mr. Patrick could save enough on fuel alone—$1207.20 in the first instance and $2453.25 in the second—to give him a vacation abroad or a good motor car.

If you would enjoy savings proportional to Mr. Patrick's this winter, follow his example—not alone in burning coal, but in ordering the coal you burn from a member of the Chicago Coal Merchants Association. Then you can be sure of truthful grading, of weight to whose honesty the association subscribes its guarantee, of expert engineering service which will help you keep your heating plant in truly efficient condition. Put in your order today, if you haven't already done so, while there is still time to get the best service before the winter rush.

COAL HEAT GIVES MORE B. T. U's. PER DOLLAR

In burning one dollar's worth of fuel A (coal) you get 1,540,000 B. T. U's. (heat units)*

In burning one dollar's worth of fuel B you get 775,596 B. T. U's. (heat units)*

In burning one dollar's worth of fuel C you get 463,737 B. T. U's. (heat units)*

*Figures based on average prices and burning efficiencies of fuels, determined by Julian C. Smallwood, Johns Hopkins University, and the United States Government. They include conservative estimates on equipments and operation.

MODELS OF NEW ARMY WEAPONS DEMONSTRATED

Amazing Progress Since War Indicated.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Aberdeen Proving Ground, Md., Oct. 9.—[Special.]—Experimental models of improved army weapons whose performance forecast a complete revamping of this country's army organization and fighting tactics were demonstrated here today before a crowd of 10,000 army officials, foreign military attachés and American industrial leaders.

It was the exhibition of the progress made since the world war in development of new weapons, which is staged annually for the Army Ordnance association, an American organization pledged to industrial preparedness for future war. The day began with a demonstration of mechanized warfare by fast armored tanks and other fighting machines and closed with a spectacular exhibition of anti-aircraft firing tonight.

Analysis of the two score improved or entirely new weapons, developed to replace obsolete world war material, disclosed that aviation today dominates army weapon design to an extent undreamed of a decade ago. The characteristics of the new weapons also reveal the emphasis now placed by the war department on greater speed, fire power mobility and flexibility in weapons both for land warfare and for combating attacking enemy aircraft. More than two-thirds of the improved weapons are built with the idea of utilizing them against fleeting targets in the air.

Main Purpose Air Defense.

On the orders of Gen. Charles P. Summerall, army chief of staff, every new artillery, cavalry and infantry weapon developed has been built with an eye to its use against flying planes. All weapons are constructed with the idea of making them so flexible they can be trained quickly on a target that appears in any direction or in the air, so mobile they can be moved rapidly from point to point, and so quick firing that the fire power of all units can be doubled.

Most spectacular among the new weapons were the perfected guns and fire control apparatus for combating aircraft. These developments centered in a new fire control adjuster for the 3 inch anti-aircraft battery of the type now at Fort Sheridan, which gives the battery commander almost the same control over the fire from his guns as a fireman has over the stream of water he is playing on a building.

Other developments included a new 37 millimeter automatic cannon which emits a stream of one pound high explosive projectiles at the rate of 100 per minute, and a machine gun battery of two .50 caliber guns mounted on a truck. One man handles the truck two gun battery, aiming the guns with his hands and firing them with feet. It can be fired in almost any direction above the horizontal, the gunner sitting in a revolving seat, moving himself and guns by means of levers.

Speedy and Powerful Tank.

In mechanized warfare, a new fifteen ton truck, bristling with the most powerful armament ever placed on an American tank, attracted the most attention. This machine has a speed of twenty-five miles an hour and mounts one rapid fire three pounder, an automatic one pounder, a .50 caliber machine gun, and a .30 caliber machine gun. Other developments shown for the first time included a 75 millimeter field gun mounted on a truck which can travel forty miles an hour.

The anti-aircraft demonstration against aerial targets won the greatest applause from a crowd which had tramped untiringly from early morning after nightfall in search of new thrills. Destruction of its aerial target by the 3 inch gun battery utilizing the new fire control adjuster was met with cheers.

In the night firing searchlights guided by electrical rangefinders illuminated the aerial targets.

The new 3 inch guns are much more powerful and can be fired much faster than world war anti-aircraft material. The fire control system consists of a so-called director, a height finder, and an automatic electrical transmission system. The height finder measures the altitude of the target, and this information is transmitted electrically to the director, who computes the data automatically and transmits it to the guns. The men at the guns keep revolving pointers on a data receiver and load and fire. The aim is corrected by the battery commander who handles the fire control adjuster.

HURT IN FALL FROM WINDOW.

Falling from his fifth floor window in a lodging house at 669 North Clark street to the roof of an adjacent two story building, James Walsh, 23 year old newsboy, escaped with a fractured left leg and bruises yesterday. He was treated at the county hospital.

ASSAILS HOOVER PLAN TO SLASH NAVY PERSONNEL

Britten Asks Why Not Cut 'Unpopular' Dry Force?

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Oct. 9.—[Special.]—Criticism of the administration's naval economy plan as announced yesterday was voiced today by Senator Royal S. Copeland [Dem., N. Y.], and by Representative Fred A. Britten [Rep., Ill.], chairman of the house committee on naval affairs.

Senator Copeland condemned the proposal to reduce the enlisted personnel by 4,800 as an improper step for the government to take in view of the unemployment situation.

Representative Britten promised a study of the plan by his committee and said that the administration might well save money by rejecting the proposal to increase funds for prohibition enforcement by $2,000,000.

Calls It Bad Example.

"It is an outrage when the President calls in the heads of utilities, industries and the railroads, begging them to keep their men employed, to then turn around and reduce the naval enlisted personnel by 4,800," said Senator Couland. "It is a very bad example and will have an unfortunate example around the country. Morally, I cannot see how it can be justified.

"Unployment is the most serious problem before the country. For the government to increase the number of unemployed is to increase the dangers in the situation."

Senator Copeland said he believed that as many as 5,000,000 persons are unemployed, which he said is one-ninth of the normal number of wage earners.

Representative Britten said that the house naval affairs committee will make a comparison of what is being done in the economy line in the navy with the program in other departments.

Europe Sits on Volcano.

"If the army and navy are to be reduced in the sole interest of economy at a time when all Europe is sitting on a volcano I think the retrenchment should be doubly applied to the prohibition bureau and other departments of the government not directly concerned with national defense," said Representative Britten.

"Congress will not countenance unreasonable naval reductions in favor of further unpopular federal prohibition enforcement. I feel that the maintenance of proper national defense at the highest point of efficiency is much more important to the peace of mind of the country than the further use of money in the attempted enforcement of a silly and impractical law."

Administration officials in defending the naval economy plan denied that any of the present enlisted personnel of the navy would be or could be discharged. The reduction will come, it was explained, in the curtailment of enlistments.

DE FOREST WEDS MARIE MUSQUINI, MOVIE ACTRESS

Hollywood, Cal., Oct. 9.—[Special.]—Lee De Forest, 57, wealthy inventor of radio and sound projecting apparatuses, was secretly married to Marie Mosquini, motion picture actress, at Agua Caliente, Mexico, last Friday, according to dispatches received here. A "Mr. and Mrs. De Forest" changed apartments in Hollywood so rapidly today that they could not be reached for identification or confirmation.

De Forest and Miss Mosquini told reporters here last Tuesday that they would be married in Los Angeles as soon as De Forest's divorce in New York became final.

Mrs. Michael Mosquini, sister-in-law of the supposed bride, tonight told reporters, "I saw Marie yesterday and told her she ought to make her marriage public and not try to hide it."

Miss Mosquini formerly was married to Roy Harlow, a Los Angeles café man. Miss Mosquini is 41. Her family name is Marie Deesy.

DANDRUFF

what it is . . how to remove it

quick relief for infected, burning and itching scalp

Great dermatologists declare that a normal, healthy scalp is extremely rare. Some go as far as to say that there is no scalp that is not troubled in some way, to some degree.

The most common—and humiliating—condition is loose dandruff.

Infection makes fat glands overactive

Dandruff is caused by overactivity of the fat glands of the scalp—which expel a greasy whitish substance known as sebum.

This overactivity is the result of infection, many dermatologists claim. They advise immediate treatment. Whatever the cause, this activity should be checked lest the condition continue and cause eczema, falling hair, and baldness.

Why Listerine checks dandruff

Frequent shampoo, vigorous massage, and the use of an antiseptic constitute effective treatment for ordinary cases of loose dandruff.

The success of Listerine in combating this condition is due to certain unusual qualities.

Since it is a safe though powerful germicide* Listerine combats any irritation that may be present on the scalp.

It dissolves and removes incrustations of sebum from the hair and scalp, assuring antiseptic cleanliness. It produces on the scalp an astringent effect, exhilarates and invigorates the tissue around the hair roots.

It allays itching, and soothes inflammation and eruption frequently associated with dandruff.

Results achieved quickly

You simply use Listerine as a part of the shampoo, or independent of it. Douse it on the scalp full strength and massage vigorously.

Keep the treatment up, using a little olive oil if the scalp is excessively dry.

You will be delighted to see how quickly you get results. Frequently loose dandruff disappears after one or two treatments. Sometimes however, if the case is stubborn, a week or two and perhaps more will be required. Lambert Pharmacal Company, St. Louis, Mo.

Germicidal Power—with safety

*Though safe to use in any body cavity, full strength Listerine kills even the resistant Staphylococcus Aureus (pus) and Bacillus Typhosus (typhoid) germs in counts ranging to 200,000,000 in 15 seconds. (Fastest time science has accurately recorded.)

GOOD OLD DAYS NOT SO BAD FOR FOOD UTENSILS

Ancients Differ on Dinner Service.

BY KATHERINE KELLEY.

When housewives get crabby about the end state of their kitchen pots and pans, and long for the kind that will not stain, chip, dent, or wear out, they should take a morning off at the Field museum to see what the wives of Pompey and Caesar, not to mention Solomon, had to contend with.

Pompey was just as proud, no doubt, of the sprawling iron frame supporting a hearth of cement, with four iron bars at one end, for broiling a juicy rib steak, as is the modern housewife of her gas range of gray or white porcelain, chromium trimmed, with its timed broiler. As for baking pans, what could be better than a round bronze pan two feet in diameter and weighing perhaps six or seven pounds, with its 29 hemispherical depressions for small cakes?

Silver Pastry Molds.

If the Roman leader desired an extra fancy meal he probably bade his wife, Julia, Caesar's daughter, get out the silver and bronze pastry molds—either the pig, dressed hare, or the ham mold, as his taste or capacity might be. The hare mold should have served the whole family, being at least two feet long and a foot wide. Then there were wide fluted fruit molds imitating shells to settle the dessert problem.

On the other hand, in China cast iron stoves were beginning to come into vogue. The heirs of Confucius probably had their daily rice served from an iron kettle three feet in diameter and as deep, without the formality of a kitchen stove; but they were justly proud of an iron stove on four legs that contained fire on the inside and sent the smoke out of a chimney. This type of stove is placed in the period between 200 B. C. and 200 A. D., and thought to be the oldest in existence.

Heavy Pans For Soldiers.

Bronze cooking pans of the same era, heavy enough to withstand several more thousand years, were used by soldiers by day for preparing food and by night for striking watch. Others were decorated artistically with dragon head handles, and many had three or five legs.

The Egyptian relics of 5000 B. C. or thereabouts, known as the era of the fifth dynasty, are of such grace and beauty that a housewife will be envious—colorful jars and bottles, bowls, cups of the translucent alabaster, as perfectly preserved as if they had come from the potter yesterday.

Turning to the Americas for the early utensils of western civilization, the housewife will find that her culinary predecessors did fairly well. The Peruvian Indians were not only handy at fashioning their kitchen and eating utensils, but were artistic as well, often decorating a food bowl or mug with a clay red bird or gargoyle with cream colored features.

Find Ancient Utensils.

These utensils recovered from ancient burial grounds are thought to have been used about 1,800 years ago. With them were found some of the delicacies on the Indian menu which are in an excellent state of preservation—some peanuts that appear to have been harvested this season, an ear of corn with the grain intact, and some large red beans.

Among the Maya utensils is a piece of pottery with three legs, the interior of the bowl lined with deep grooves undoubtedly used as a grater for chili con carne. A broad shallow plate with four solid legs was used, it is believed, to contain the food for the departed in a burial chamber.

And in North America in what is now New Mexico the Pueblo Indians 1,200 years ago got along fairly well with their cooking and table service. True it didn't have the lines of the later early American pewter, but it served. A large cooking utensil of pottery was placed in the coals and the enterprising squaw made the Big Chief a nice mess of meat stew or corn chowder or a dish equally tempting. This she ladled out with a deep ladle made for the purpose into the food bowls, a small, wide dish of pottery.

Use One Handled Mug.

The Big Chief drank out of a one handled mug. If the squaw desired an additional vegetable she used a fine shaped utensil, stirring at the open end, and probably ran the risk of burning her fingers when she attempted to remove the utensil by its handle.

While American housewives knit their brows over their kitchen difficulties, whether to attend this or that bargain sale and buy a new electric egg beater or double waffle iron, the people of Madagascar, off the east coast of Africa, are perfectly satisfied with their woven food baskets, their wooden food bowls decorated in a burned wood design, and their pottery cooking utensils. Whether the ice man comes or not, or whether the family purse doesn't provide for an electric refrigerator fails to worry the native folks. The family's milk is always soured by pouring into gourd bottles which are never cleaned.

And over in Nigeria, Africa, home brewers are never bothered by prohibition officers who would confiscate the beer made by fermenting honey with mashed corn for three days. This thick white liquid is served to visitors who drop in for a sociable drink from a roomy pottery jug about two feet high.

COOKING UTENSILS OF LONG, LONG AGO

A visit to the Field museum will give the housewife an idea of progress made in pottery and table service. The utensils were used by the Maya Indians of South America, who at one time possessed some degree of civilization. Left to right are a tripod bowl for grating chili con carne, a plate with which to serve food in a burial chamber, and one of the oldest cooking implements in existence.

From a Peruvian Indian table of 1,800 years ago. In the foreground are peanuts, corn and beans, delicacies included on the menus of early South American tribes. These articles of nourishment still are in an excellent state of preservation at the Field museum.

This is believed to be the first cast iron stove in existence and dates back to about 200 B. C. It is fired at one end, has places for five utensils and a chimney. The stove came from China.

Pueblo Indians who inhabited what now is New Mexico used these utensils about 1,200 years ago. They may be seen at the Field museum.

TRIBUNE NAMES RECIPE CONTEST WINNERS FRIDAY

Another $1,000 in Prizes Offered Today.

Scrambled recipes have become the fare of Chicago. That is the judgment of the mail man who has been struggling under loads of unscrambled recipes submitted in the scrambled recipes contest, which was announced in last Friday's TRIBUNE.

A dozen girls in THE TRIBUNE office have been kept so busy sorting and checking the flood of mail that even they have been caught by the scrambled fever. One of them said she tried to make cheese souffle for her husband Wednesday night, and found herself making roast beef hash.

Announce Winner Next Friday.

Names of the winners in the scrambled recipes contest will be published next Friday. Through an error it was announced in last Friday's news columns that they would be published today. The deadline on last week's contest was Wednesday night at 6 o'clock.

Another "scrambled recipes" contest starts today. Another $1,000 in cash prizes will be given. Complete rules are given in an advertisement in this section. All entries must be in at 6 o'clock Wednesday night, Oct. 15. Winners in this contest will be published in the food section of Friday, Oct. 24.

Last week ingredients were supplied for the unscrambling of recipes for roast beef hash, French fruit salad and cheese souffle. This week's recipes are pumpkin pie, salmon loaf and maple mousse.

Recipes More Complicated.

This week's recipes are more complicated. Housewives, a knotty problem faces you. It is perfectly apparent, of course, that parsley does not go into the maple mousse, but how about 2-3 cup brown sugar? How many modern cooks, familiar with canned products and bakery pies, know whether brown sugar is used to blend with the orange pulp of the pumpkin, or to make the maple mousse more maple like?

True, pumpkin pie is different from salmon loaf, and salmon loaf is distinct from maple mousse. But there are various little difficulties: Where does the butter go? Where, the two cups of milk? Couldn't either milk or butter conceivably be used in any of them? Well, the settling of these problems is left to the cooks. This is merely an inexpert setting forth of them.

Try 'Em on Friend Husband.

But since this week's scrambling of recipes is a complicated affair, Chicago husbands may as well resign themselves to eating salmon loaf which tastes slightly of maple mousse, and pumpkin pie tinged with salmon, throughout the week, as housewives try out the combinations. Many will want to do this before submitting their entries, and again, after submitting them, to make certain they were right.

In the contest room in The Tribune Tower, a little private investigation was carried on by a reporter bent on learning just how the unscrambling was being done.

$25 for Food Poets

The Mother Goose rhymes printed below lack the words indicated by the blank spaces. Fill in the blank spaces. Some of the words will be found in the advertisements in this section.

The five best rhymes as decided by Meta Given, Tribune Food Editor, will be awarded a prize of $5 each. Winners will be selected from rhymes received in the Tribune office before 6 P. M. on Wednesday, October 15, 1930. Address entries to "FOOD POETS," Chicago Tribune, Tribune Tower, Chicago.

OLD COOKIE JAR IN PANTRY STILL LURE FOR YOUNG

If you are a grandmother, even the modern kind who doesn't do much baking, you owe the little people who may come to call on you the pleasure of a cookie jar.

You may remember years and years ago coming in the kitchen door warm and hungry from outdoor play with a squadron of playmates trooping behind you who had learned the fame of your own grandmother's cookies.

This writer's grandmother made brown molasses cookies frosted with sugar and centered with a raisin that was always saved for the last lingering bite. That brown earthen cookie jar had never been empty in the memory of five older brothers and sisters. Had another kind of cookie been in that jar we would have suspected a substitute of store cookies.

While cookies on the market nowadays have undergone an evolution from the molasses variety to decorative, rich tea cakes in fancy shapes, there is nothing that tastes better or is more suitable for a child than the simple home baked cookie that comes out of the oven sugary and fragrant when a grownup turns cookie maker. The following is such a recipe.

GRANDMOTHER'S COOKIES.

1 cup butter.
1 cup powdered sugar.
1½ cups flour.
1 egg.

First soften (do not melt) the butter, and add the flour, rubbing together well. Sugar, then the beaten egg should be added, the mixture kneaded thoroughly and chilled. Roll thinly on a floured board, cut into preferred shapes and bake in a 350 to 375 degree Fahrenheit oven five or six minutes. For those wishing to experiment, the dough may be divided into two or three parts. One may be flavored with anise seed, another with a little grated lemon rind, and the third with caraway seeds. Or chopped nuts might be worked into one portion of the dough.

LAMBS CUTS ARE OFFERED AT REAL BARGAIN PRICES

Lambs that grazed the ranges of the west and the farms of the Mississippi valley in unprecedented numbers this spring and summer are now being offered by Chicago retail meat dealers at what they term "real bargain prices."

Wholesale prices this weke on good and choice grades of dressed lamb were five cents lower than they were a year ago, according to J. S. Campbell of the bureau of agricultural economics, United States department of agriculture.

Here's Sunday Breakfast for the Keenest Epicure

BY WILLIAM K. M'KAY.

In these contributions on Sunday morning breakfasts let us understand that canary bird dietetics are not in mind. They are meant for those who find a fond anticipation of the good things to come and experience rapt enjoyment of the feasts provided. Those who anticipate and plan their meals with eager avidity banish banal dyspepsia and are heirs to the longevity and happiness nature means for all of us.

The Sunday morning breakfast is a well ordered means to a delectable end. It solves a domestic problem. This way: A well planned Sunday matutinal feast—served, say, at 11 in the morning ends the domestic drudgery for the day—eliminates the late Sunday afternoon dinner and leaves us free for the motor tour, the golf links, the parks, or the movies.

Here's What We Find.

And so while the good wife and her bridge fiend overnight guests are intent at the game we make an inspection of the kitchen and its purlieus. What's the prospect for Sunday morning's feed? We prowl around and observe these indications and outlook:

ITEM 1—A large flat bottomed, enameled basin in which repose, immersed in cold water, a dozen or more cutlets of brined mackerel—those plump, meaty sides of that desirable sea fish. The heads and tails have been severed, and the vertebrate structure has been elided. You have, then, the edible portion of the tasty, seaboard arrival, shut of honey incumbrance, shorn of its scales, but retaining its aluminum hued hide and a modicum of those pungent fats adhering to its meaty substance. There the cutlets will lie until the fresh, cold water has absorbed the excess of brine and left the meaty morceaux bland and ready for the broiler and the subsequent embellishments.

ITEM II.—A baking pan, 10 by 7 inches in surface and 2 inches deep. In this reposes a snow white, pudding-like mass. It is the grits of milled corn hominy, the inner meat of the maize of the Illinois prairies, the outer yellow hull of its kernels removed and its inner starchy substance ground into a white meal. During the late afternoon Corinne has poured several cupfuls of this snowy meal into a double boiler, flushed it with water, sprinkled it with salt, and let it simmer over a slow fire until it came to a thick and glutinous consistency. Then she eased it into the baking pan and set it aside on that shelf above the basement stairway, where now it is exuding its surplus moisture and settling itself down to a compact, partly aqueous mass of sublimated cereal. We shall see more of it at breakfast.

ITEM III.—A score or so of medium sized potatoes. They had been boiled in their well scoured jackets. Those precious mineral salts of the skins had been retained in the cooking. No ruthless peeling and paring had removed those beneficent extracts from Mother Earth's bosom. The spuds had been drained and partly steamed in a collendar and here they are cooling and reposing—yes, we may say, contentedly—until for breakfast they shall be, after peeling and dicing, warmed and further nurtured in the embrace of a cream sauce.

ITEM IV.—A bowl containing the glistening ovals of a dozen slowly hard boiled eggs, the shells removed, and here and there beneath their enamel-like surfaces the golden glint of the yolks showing. They are cooling and solidifying. We shall meet them again in the morning.

ADDENDUM—Atop the refrigerator in the basement stairway a bunch of a half dozen or so bananas—large and not fully ripened. Wonder why Corinne didn't get ripe banans? O, well, "sumpin'" for breakfast!

It seems as if all is well for the morrow and we leave the bridge fans to their cards, their highballs, and to the malted liquids which that scofflaw producer so satisfactorily supplies. We hit the hay in the sleeping porch and roam the limitless land of dreams and phantasies until old Phœbus has ranged high in the horizon. Then we hear again those kitchen symphonies, the subdued clatter of pots and pans and skillets, just like last Sunday. And again seductive odors regale us. Corinne again is busy with her culinary ministrations.

Let us refer again to item I. as listed heretofore. Corinne has lifted those cutlets of mackerel from their bath and has placed them in a capacious castiron frying pan. They are simmering over a slow fire and now and then with a broad, thin, flat utensil she is turning them over and over.

Breakfast Is Served.

Meanwhile, Corinne gives her attention to item II. She has cut the congealed panful of hominy grits into slabs ½ an inch thick, 2 inches in width, and 4 inches in length. She has placed them into a large frying pan with a bit of lard, and over each of the grit slabs she has laid two lenghtwise slices of not over ripe bananas.

As the breakfast preparations proceed Corinne has creamed those overnight boiled potatoes into an entrancing compote. Those overnight hard boiled eggs have been sliced longitudinally and the white and golden segments, sprinkled with coarsely ground black pepper, are laid over the mackerel cutlets for renewed warmth and zestfulness.

Breakfast is ready. Over the cutlets of mackerel we spread a sauce of drawn butter, thinned with grape fruit juice and aromaed with nutmeg and paprika.

It's a breakfast!

OPEN SCHOOL TO COACH WAITERS IN THEIR CRAFT

A free school for waiters was opened yesterday under the auspices of the Waiters and Cooks Progressive association. The first class of a course that will run 36 weeks was held in the association's clubhouse at 3659 South Michigan avenue.

Butter Prices Are Lowest in Years at This Season

Buttered bread and butter in cooking continues in popularity this fall, according to C. L. Pier, federal market specialist, who yesterday referred to prices of fresh creamery butter in Chicago as being lower than for many years at this season, and but little higher than they were last spring during an unusual surplus of dairy production the nation over.

DELICIOUS FRUIT DRINKS ARE AID IN ENTERTAINING

Although some consider Volstead fruit drinks to be less inspiring than drinks were before prohibition, a hostess still has need for them and recipes for irreproachable non-alcoholic drinks may be used conveniently on occasions when guests drop in unexpectedly.

Iced lemonade is, of course, the simplest of drinks. Here is a recipe:

|---|---|
| 1 dozen lemons | 1 lb. of sugar |
| 2 quarts of water | Cracked ice. |

Choose the finest and freshest ripe lemons. Rasp the rind with white crushed sugar in order to extract the fine aromatic oil that lurks in the peel. Then squeeze the juice of the lemon, and strain it, and add the sugar and the necessary quantity of water. In making lemonade never use the rinds of the lemons except to slice one daintily and place a piece in each glass when ready to serve. The rind put into the lemonade does not add to the strength and only imparts a bitter flavor. In making lemonade for six persons, allow six ounces of sugar to five lemons, and one quart of water. Serve with crushed ice.

Strawberry water is made with:

One-half pint of strawberry juice
One quart of water.
Eight ounces of sugar.

Choose fine ripe strawberries, stem and bruise them in a little water, and let them stand for an hour or so. Then squeeze them in a clean cloth and pour the juice off clear. To half a pint of the juice add one quart of water and eight ounces of sugar. Stir well, strain and put it on ice, and serve as needed. Raspberry and currant water, as well as pineapple and orange, may be made in the same way.

One of the most delicious cold drinks is milk of almonds, which is particularly good served with almond cakes.

Six ounces of almonds.
One ounce of bitter almonds.
Eight ounces of loaf sugar.
Three pints of water.
One-half gill [¼ cupful or 4 tablespoonfuls] of orange flower water.

Blanch and peel the almonds, and soak them in cold water for several hours. Then pound them thoroughly into a pulp, adding as you pound a half gill of orange flower water. Put this into an earthen vessel with eight ounces of the finest and whitest loaf sugar. Add three pints of clear water and then stir all well together. Return to the mortar. Pound well and strain. Stir well and set the vessel on ice. At the end of an hour it will be ready for use.

HOT BUCKWHEAT CAKES! AN IDYL OF RURAL LIFE

An Appreciation—and a Childhood Memory.

BY FRED PASLEY.

"Prithee, sit down and feed, and welcome to our table."

For breakfast this October day buckwheat cakes and maple syrup.

Wisps of smoke curl from my neighbors' chimneys—furnace fires have been lighted; screens have been tucked away in attics; storm doors and windows have been refurnished, fitted in and battened; the "frost is on the pumpkin and the fodder's in the shock"; the hunter's moon rides high, shining down upon a serene countryside at the season of earth's greatest contentment — and for breakfast [blessed, friendly word] I have buckwheat cakes and maple syrup and the year has fulfilled itself.

A Childhood Scene.

At heart we are all children. Buckwheat cakes are evocative. I retrace memory's trail to a little home town in Kansas. My earliest recollection is of an old fashioned wood burning stove, for which I had to chop the kindling. It had four lids. On two of them, on such mornings, would be a pair of a skillets. Presiding over them, bustling between them and the table, fidgeting with motherly solicitude about the plates of six hungry youngsters, a mite of a woman, tireless of hand and foot and eye for the welfare of her brood.

The scene must have its counterpart in the recollections of countless readers. Buckwheat cakes were as an integral a part of that household as were the ponderous family Bible with its massive gilt clasps containing its cycle of births, marriages, and deaths; the conch shell in which you could hear the murmur of the sea; the embroidered motto tacked to the lintel of the folding doors of the parlor, "God Bless Our Home." Further, my research discloses, buckwheat cakes are not only an American tradition but an American creation and an institution.

Second Helping, and a Third.

So I sit, plying knife and fork, quite unashamed that I have had my second and third helping, gazing comfortably, anon, out of my south window into the grounds of my estate, bounded by the honeysuckle hedge on the east and west, and on the alley by the eight foot lattice fence with its twining wild grape and trumpet vine. For I am a landed proprietor.

To be sure, the official county map describes my demesne as "one lot, 40 feet wide by 139½ feet deep;" but what is an official county map to me? I am rich. Some of Mother Earth is mine; some of the blue sky of heaven. I own a tree or two. I am beholden to no man for my music or my song. I even have my own private civic opera; I have my cricket orchestra, and the friendship of I know not how many robin redbreasts, wrens, vesper sparrows, purple finches,

$50 FOR SUNDAY MENUS!

What kind of menus for Sunday's three meals—breakfast dinner, supper (or tea)—can you arrange, using products and foods advertised in today's Food Section of the Chicago Tribune?

For the most appetizing all-day Sunday menus, as judged by Meta Given, Tribune Food Editor, The Chicago Tribune will pay $50.00 in cash prizes. First prize, $20.00; second prize, $10.00; next four prizes, $5.00 each.

Recipes are NOT wanted. Simply list the names of the dishes you would serve at each meal. When you include in your menus various foods advertised in today's Food Section, write after the items the names of the brands or names of the advertisers. All entries must be received in The Tribune office before 6 p. m. on Wednesday, October 15, 1930. No entries will be returned. Address entries to "SUNDAY MENUS," The Chicago Tribune, Tribune Tower, Chicago.

DO WOMEN LIKE TO COOK? SOME DO, SOME DON'T

Here Are Viewpoints of a Few of Them.

BY VIRGINIA GARDNER.

A small group of representative Chicago women, including society and professional women, were asked if they liked to cook. Some of them did, others disliked anything connected with a kitchen. Some regarded cooking, they said, as a mild form of dissipation; others as punishment they avoided whenever possible.

Dr. Clara Ferguson, member of the staff of the Women and Children's hospital, said she would hate to have to cook, but she enjoyed being able to cook when she wanted to, and felt that she might brag a little regarding the steak and the salad she could fix.

Finds Cooking a Tonic.

"I wouldn't like to cook as a steady diet," she said, "and I shouldn't like to have to cook to please a husband. But when I feel that the world has been mistreating me, or when I am in a bad mood about just anything, there is no tonic like that of cooking and eating a steak dinner."

Dr. Ferguson's special recipe for steak follows:

Boil half a pint or a pint of vinegar. Put 2 cut cloves of garlic in a jar, and pour over them the vinegar. Keep this indefinitely for use in French dressing.

"That Celestial Taste."

When you are ready to cook your steak, which should be a porterhouse, make a French dressing of the garlic vinegar and olive oil, and in this soak the steak for two or three hours before cooking. Cook on a hot pan or on broilers. Lamb chops may be cooked in the same manner. Roast chicken, or fried chicken, if saturated in the mixture before cooking, achieves, likewise, what Dr. Ferguson described as "that celestial taste."

"Such a steak will bring tears to your eyes," she said. "It will make the world seem a pleasant place. It will make life look positively roseate."

The same garlic vinegar should be used in French dressing for salad, and the salad, which is simply cut up tomatoes and cucumbers, should be tossed in the dressing, according to Dr. Ferguson's recipe.

Two Opposing Views.

Now let us hear Mrs. Louis C. Sudler, young society matron, recently graduated from the status of bride, on the subject of cooking.

"Scrambled eggs and fudge are my sole products in the cooking line," she said. "To be quite frank, I don't like cooking at all. I would be perfectly happy if I never had to think of cooking again. I don't ever mean to learn to cook."

Mrs. Boyd Hill, another young society woman, likes to cook. Mrs. Hill, who cooks "quite often," she said, confessed that there is one thing which she makes surpassingly well. It is an appetizer, nameless, so far as she knows.

Here's the Recipe.

Here is her recipe for it:

Make chicken aspic, using chicken bouillon cubes. Pour in molds, putting in a layer of tomato, deviled egg and another layer of tomato. When firm, turn out the gelatin mold on rounds of buttered toast. On top of the mold spread a layer of caviar and on top of the caviar put a little mayonnaise. It is simple to make, according to Mrs. Hill.

Mrs. Joseph G. Coleman said that she was very much interested in cooking and housekeeping, but had done little cooking in recent years.

"I still am fond of cooking, although I'm out of practice," she said. "I used to be expert with a chafing dish."

Mrs. Chalmers Has a Cook.

Mrs. William J. Chalmers never cooks, nor does she know how to cook.

"I have had the same cook for years, and there's no need in my knowing anything at all about cooking," she said.

Miss Helen Ciresc, president of the Illinois Women's Bar association, said she liked good cooking but she didn't like to do it.

"It's an awful thing to admit, I suppose, but I can't cook and I'm not interested in learning how," she said. "I escaped it in growing up and I've always avoided it since. When I was in school I was forced to learn to sew, but that's my only domestic art."

Not so with Miss Mollie Carroll, executive head resident of the University of Chicago Settlement Social center, assistant to Miss Mary McDowell, head resident of the settlement. Miss Carroll admitted that she longed to be domestic, but did not have time to be.

Thinks It's Great Fun.

"I think it is great fun to cook a dinner," she said. "And I can cook one, and a good one. I know a lot about cooking, and love to do it, but it is too great a luxury for me to practice often. I am too busy.

"When I was a college professor"—Miss Carroll was head of the department of economics at Goucher college, Baltimore—"I often entertained at dinner and did all the cooking myself.

"I find, even now, when I have little time for actual cooking, that it is a great help to me to know cooking. I could not run a household otherwise. I cannot see how a woman can tell her cook how much baking powder to use when she doesn't know herself."

ROAST CHICKEN CARVED ON TABLE IS SUNDAY FEAST

Dinner Radiates Spirit of Hospitality.

BY META GIVEN.

The old fashioned Sunday dinner with its aftermath of Sabbath quiet and a pleasantly gorged feeling probably is passing into oblivion now that father's golf game cannot stand too big a meal and the children have become too sophisticated for Sundays at home. But it had its good points, just the same, chief among which was the Sunday chicken and father's beautiful exhibition of carving. Incidentally, chickens are cheap in Chicago now.

There are those of us who still maintain that the most satisfactory way to serve a roast chicken, style be damned, is to put it on a huge platter, garnish it with parsley, cress of curly endive, and supply the master of the house with a chance to display his genius.

Carving as a Fine Art.

A radiance of hospitality issues from a homely dinner table when the man of the family is carving, which is totally lacking when the chicken is carved in the kitchen and passed by a servant. After making a point of testing the carving knife the while his wife assumes a worried air for fear it is dull, he arises [unless he is particularly adept] and begins the work of shaving off thin curling slices of breast.

With the man who has learned the art of carving it is a matter of pride to maintain as he parts the second joint from the drumstick, a sprightly conversation with his guests. As he punctuates his remarks by a wave of the carving knife, his wife beams. She is long accustomed to his performance and likes it. When she is her own cook and has baked the chicken it gives her a sense of sharing the honors to watch him reduce it to slices of breast and dark meat.

Chicken and Gravy.

Here is a recipe for roast chicken, with the indispensable gravy:

ROAST CHICKEN.

Dress, clean and season chicken. Place it on its back in a dripping pan, with two tablespoons fat or place in roaster. Dredge with flour and place in hot oven. When the flour is well browned, reduce the heat; then baste every 10 minutes, adding a little water when necessary to prevent burning. Turn chicken frequently, or place in patent roaster. When the breast meat is tender, it is done. A 4 pound chicken requires 2 hours.

GRAVY.

4 tablespoons fat.
4 tablespoons flour.
2 cups stock or boiling water.
Salt and pepper to season.

Pour off liquid from pan in which chicken has been roasted. Skim off 4 tablespoons fat; return fat to pan and brown with 4 tablespoons flour; add 2 cups stock in which giblets, neck and tip of wings have been cooked. Cook 5 minutes; season with salt and pepper, add giblets chopped and serve hot with the chicken.

An Inexpensive Dish.

One of the most inexpensive ways to cook chicken, inasmuch as a mature hen rather than a spry young thing can be used, is to fix it with dumplings. Old fashioned chicken and dumplings is a favorite with men, particularly men with sentimental tendencies and a memory of the grand chicken and dumplings they consumed in childhood.

Now many wives have been appalled at the idea of making dumplings for fear they could not make them like their respective husbands' mothers used to make them. Dumplings have been, possibly through the ages, rather a bugaboo, so to speak. But that is all a lot of propaganda, no doubt issued by husbands who wanted to give wives an inferiority complex about their cooking. Dumplings are not hard to make. In fact, they are simple.

OLD FASHIONED CHICKEN AND DUMPLINGS.

1 fat spring chicken [at least 3½ pounds].
Salt and pepper.
Drop dumplings.
2 tablespoons flour.
½ cup milk.

Clean, singe and cut up the chicken. Place in kettle and barely cover with boiling water. Simmer until tender, about 1½ hours. Remove cover from kettle the last ½ hour of cooking to concentrate the chicken broth to about 3 pints when done.

Twenty minutes before serving make drop dumplings. Drop batter by spoonfuls on top of the chicken. Cover and cook about 12 minutes. Remove chicken to a hot platter and surround with dumplings. Make a gravy of the remaining liquid and the flour and milk mixed to a smooth paste.

DROP DUMPLINGS.

2 cups bread flour.
4 teaspoons baking powder.
1 teaspoon salt.
1 cup milk.

Sift flour, then measure. Resift with other dry ingredients. Add milk and mix quickly. Drop batter by spoonfuls on top of a meat or poultry stew. Cover tightly and boil 12 minutes. Do not uncover until the 12 minutes have fully expired. Yield: 6 servings.

Chicken en casserole is another excellent and inexpensive way of serving chicken:

CHICKEN CASSEROLE.

1 four pound chicken.
3 teaspoons salt.
¼ teaspoon pepper.
¾ cup flour.
¾ cup fat.
1 tablespoon finely minced celery.
1 cup water, boiling.
1 cup thin cream.

Cut chicken into pieces suitable for serving. Sprinkle with salt and pepper and dredge with flour. Brown in fat. Place pieces in buttered casserole and add celery and milk. Cover and cook in boiling water. Cover and cook in medium oven [350° F.] until tender [1½ to 3 hours]. Watch carefully and add hot water as the liquid boils away. Add cream 30 minutes before removing from oven. Reduce heat to slow oven [300° F.]. There should be almost two cups of gravy when cooking is finished. Serve garnished with parsley. Yield: 6 servings.

For fried chicken, here is a recipe which will insure its cooking until tender:

FRIED CHICKEN.

Flour.
½ cup fat [half butter].
2 teaspoons salt.
¼ teaspoon pepper.
2 tablespoons flour.
2 cups milk.

Clean and joint chicken. Roll each piece in flour. Heat fat until bubbling hot before adding chicken. Brown quickly on both sides. Cover closely and place in moderate oven [350° F.]. Cook until tender. Add salt and pepper the last 15 minutes of cooking. Remove chicken from pan. Add 2 tablespoons of flour to fat remaining in pan and brown. Then add milk and cook 3 or 4 minutes; more salt may be required. Chicken cooked in this manner is tender and juicy. Yield: 6 servings.

CAKE TINS—GOOD AND BAD

Cake tins in the foreground are not ideal for the baking of perfect angel cake. The pan to the left has no removable bottom. The pan to the right has no means of support, allowing air to circulate under the baked inverted cake. The two tins in background have all the desirable features—loose bottoms and tall central tubes that suspend the baked inverted cake for perfect cooling.

FALL BREAKFAST IS NOT COMPLETE WITHOUT FRUIT

BY BARBARA B. BROOKS.

[Home Economics Department, Kellogg Co.]

These are the snappy mornings when one awakes really hungry. The bed has been snug through the night; the fresh air, breathed into the lungs during slumber, has left the body refreshed, the mind keen and the appetite enormous. A brief reluctance at leaving the blankets disappears rapidly as familiar odors of cooking are emitted from the kitchen.

The summer breakfast of fruit and ready to eat cereal can now have several additions. We can add hot muffins, bacon and eggs or waffles and sausages—and of course coffee.

A stock of ready to eat cereals on hand always lightens the task of preparing the breakfast. They are economical and convenient. Cereals with the addition of fruit and milk furnish all the food essentials. The addition of bran to hot breads makes them more easily digested and gives them flavor.

Melons still are good and we must use them while we can because—too soon—they will be gone. Oranges are plentiful and grapefruit will soon be back with us. These citrous fruits are excellent because their reactions in the body counteract the acids produced by a heavy protein diet of which most persons are apt to be too fond.

When fresh fruits are scarce we can always use canned ones. Canned peaches are delicious on cereals. No matter where or when the breakfast is served a fruit should always be on the menu.

Correct Pan Essential for Baking Cake

BY SALLY LUNN.

Last night at dinner we were served a delicious angel food cake, uniced. The crust of macroon texture was a delicate golden brown. There were no ugly tears and cuts in it due to faulty removal from the pan.

One of the guests said, "I never can get my angel food cake to come out perfectly." Another asked, "Why is it that my cake does not stick to the pan very well and when I invert it the cake comes loose?" In both these cases the cake pan is the troublemaker.

Baking Utensil Important.

In baking angel food cakes and sponge cakes it is almost as important to have a good pan as to mix the ingredients properly. If the texture is not spoiled by a faulty pan, then the appearance of the exterior will be. The tin for this type of cake must have certain qualifications. It must have a tube in the center to expose the greater surface area to the heat so the cake will rise evenly. It must be made so the cake can be easily removed.

A tin in which the bottom and center tube are in one piece and the sides in another which fits into the first is about the simplest and most efficient we know. It is also important that the tin have some sort of support elevated above the top of the pan so the cake may be turned upside down during the cooling and there will be plenty of room for air to circulate under the cake.

Grease Is Unnecessary.

Whether you buy a tin of this type or use your own favorite, you must never use any grease on the pan. A coat of grease is the enemy of light sponge cakes. The delicate texture of the cake cannot hold on to the pan that has a coat of grease and does not rise well. Also, during cooling the cake is likely to fall away from the pan and press itself down by its own weight.

If a good tin is used and proper care is taken of it, the chances of disaster with angel food and sponge cakes is greatly lessened.

ANGELUS SALAD.

Place a slice of canned pineapple on lettuce on a salad plate. On top of this place a half of a pear. Fill the hollow of half a pear with diced bananas and celery mixed with mayonnaise and place on the pineapple. Form a ring around the pear with a strip of green peppers. Serve with French dressing.

HOT BUCKWHEAT CAKES! AN IDYL OF RURAL LIFE

An Appreciation—and a Childhood Memory.

and the like. My garden plot has echoed to the wild, sweet rippling call of Mr. Bobolink.

I like to contemplate the world at my back door. It is a small, withal a teeming world; guarded vigilantly by those inseparables, Patience, my lady collie, and Sandy McTavish, my Scotch terrier. They have been lying by the garage, but now by common accord they spring to their feet, barking madly in unison and galloping to the lattice fence.

The intruder is the gray squirrel, who has been industriously harvesting acorns against the lean days of winter. He scampers up the shaggy trunk of the rock elm, where, at a secure height, he turns, arches his tail, and shrilly chatters defiance.

The dogs stand for a moment, forefeet against the tree, then withdraw, moseying back to their post of duty, to lie with heads resting on outstretched paws—satisfied. They have routed the enemy; nothing to do till the ashman or the milkman clatters along.

Wrens and Hollyhocks Gone.

In my back door world the hollyhocks have gone to sleep, and the red cosmos no longer flaunts its glory; only here and there I glimpse a black-eyed susan and a goldenrod, which, catching the sun in their hearts the summer through, now give it back to me. The wren house is empty, but the plain and humble song sparrow —the commoner of the feathered tribe —is still faithful. From the low shrubs and fence corners come his reassuring purling trill and whistle, full of hope and promise of nature's resurrection in the spring. I can reckon on his comradeship until far into drab November.

Like the acorns, the leaves are falling, carpeting Mother Earth in russet, gold, and crimson. I and my neighbors are busy with rakes and wheelbarrows. Bonfires light the black nights and the magic of the flames attract tykes and grownups. A bonfire, for some inscrutable, primitive reason, is a fascinating spectacle, and I know of no fragrance so tantalizing as that bearing the acrid tang of burning leaves.

Wherefore, as the reader may observe, buckwheat cakes quicken the perceptual faculties and unloose the wellsprings of the mind. They set the inner man aglow. There resides in them a spiritual leaven that predisposes to reflection and lucubration. An opinion prevails that Americans bolt their food. I challenge that to this extent, that in all the length and breadth of this broad land there breathes no man with soul so dead as ever to have bolted his buckwheats. They are to be savored rather than gormandized, consummated rather than devoured.

A Work of High Art.

Who can forget the pleasurable emotions excited at the prospect of that first stack in autumn time, when the crackling log bids us tarry by the inglenook, and outside there is an eager and a nipping air? The teakettle seems to hum a happier tune and we sense anew the protective snugness of our domicile.

The cook has let the batter rise over night. She stands now at the kitchen range, ladling it from crock to skillet. She plunges the great wooden spoon into the billowing expanse of yeasty bubbles, removes it, holds it suspended for a breathless second, then pours it on the skillet.

With what apparent indifference, yet unerring accuracy, she performs that operation! The batter assumes form, contour, outline, perfect symmetry of circumference, round as a sun dial. One, two, three she pours; then the spoon is laid aside for the pancake turner. She flips each buckwheat up and over, to land it in the precise identical spot where she originally poured it. 'Tis a marvelous synchronizing of hand and eye—superb art.

I find no guidance in my good of etiquette as to procedure in the eating of buckwheat cakes. Howbeit, the following directions, based upon practical experience, may prove helpful: First, in slippered state, draw up a chair; plant the feet firmly beneath the table, or on a convenient chair rung, and unhitch the belt a notch.

Beware of Hot Plate!

Square the shoulders—the buckwheats have arrived. They have been set before us. Gently transfer one to the plate—beware the latter, though, lest the fingers get scorched, for it is fresh from the oven and calescent as new kilned china.

Adjust the napkin. Take the knife —so—and, keeping a steady hand, halve a square of butter, balancing it on the tip of the blade and depositing it in the exact geographical center of the buckwheat. Repeat the operation around the rim of the cake until the center is encircled by a chaplet, as it were, of butter dabs. Relax. Observe how the butter liquifies, coalesces, tenderly blends with the delicate, impalpable crust. Now transfer another cake, laying it atop the first. Pat it.

Reach for the sirup jug. Click back the lid with the thumb as the four fingers grip the handle. Tilt it and let gush from its brimming lip that distillation of divine ichor, the sugar maple sap. With trencherman dexterity, cut this way and that until your cake somewhat resembles a checkboard. Lift the treasure laden fork to a mouth moist and a palate tingling with expectancy. Close the eyes. Say yum.

From Asiatic Desolation.

What song the sirens sang or what name Achilles assumed when he hid himself among the women I wot not; neither do I care! but centuries ago a solitary plant, the buckwheat, grew only in the desolate, bleak soil of central Asia.

I should like to know the manner of its coming to America. How did it make that long journey? By what trade routes? Or by what fortuitous circumstance was it transplanted? In the seams of some ship? In the beak of a bird? Was it as with that seed that "lodged, on the long tramp northward from Rome, in the boot sole of a common soldier in Vespasian's legions? The boot reaches Dover, plods on, wears out, is cast by the way, rots in a ditch. From it some spring Great Britain has gained a new flower."

I should like to possess, too, the name of that unknown, unsung housewife, if such it was, who, in her frontier kitchen, perchance, first worked out that formula of ½ cup of fine bread crumbs, ½ teaspoon of salt, 1 tablespoon of molasses, etc.; who gave to the world the recipe for buckwheat cakes; who brightened a million and one American breakfast tables. She deserves a monument loftier than Stone mountain.

TURKEY SOON TO BE SHIPPED TO CITY MARTS

From the far flung ranges of Texas and Oklahoma, the hills of ten northwest states, and the grassy plateaus of Kentucky and Tennessee come reports that great droves of turkeys are being groomed and fattened for Chicago's fall dinner table demand.

But there won't be so many birds as there were last year, early reports to local poultrymen indicate. A summer's drought has made foraging more difficult for the rangy birds of the festive board. This is augmented, we are told, by the fact that an oversupply last year, 11 per cent above normal, caused growers to be a little more cautious when they counted eggs for this spring's hatching.

Two large meetings of turkey raisers are scheduled next week, one for those in Kentucky and Tennessee and another for those who produce turkeys by the carload in the southwest. Following a caucus at these two meetings and further reports from the northwest federal department of agriculture officials expect to issue the regular fall predictions.

GIVES CITY FOLK HINTS ON CHOICE OF RIGHT FOODS

Expert Stresses Need of Variety in Meals.

BY META GIVEN.
[Tribune Food Expert.]

The twentieth century, after hundreds of years of food perplexities, is still hunting for the proper foods to eat in an age of emotional stress, minimum exercise, and a whirligig of mental activity.

The idea that one should eat, whether he has an appetite or not, when the dinner or lunch hour rolls around has been exploded. One's instincts and not convention should rule us when it comes to the consumption of food. Good digestion and assimilation depend upon appetite. If you have no appetite when it is time for a meal, wait until you are hungry. It will not shorten your life to wait until the next meal.

One should never eat when one is excited, tired, or sad. It is best to rest, become composed again to bring back a state of normal hunger. Exercise is the best sauce and appetizer for a normal hunger. The city dweller kept inside all day by a confining job, dallies over his roast and salads. The farm hand pitches hay all day and attacks his potatoes, beans, and cole slaw with a zest.

Lazy Habits in Eating.

Some people are just plain lazy in eating. They will not eat this and that because it isn't soft and because it is too tough to chew. They do not like to eat skins and seeds, raw vegetables, such as celery, cabbage, and onions, because it requires too much work. One is astonished at the number of intelligent people who are eating themselves to death, some eating too much, too little, or poor combinations.

The pleasure of variety comes in the surprises. There is a joy in the anticipation of a different food, while the expectation of the same old thing kills the appetite. The boarding house joke in which the diners forecast the appearance of prunes, codfish balls, and hash as astronomers predict the coming of an eclipse, is only too true.

Given genuine appetites to please, it is not much trouble for a housewife to prepare nutritious, attractive meals. One of the secrets for preparing such meals is to provide variety and to be sure the food combinations make up the balanced diet. This does not mean that the meal should have several courses to stimulate the appetite. It is a practice that can easily be abused and may lead to overeating.

Variety in Meals Needed.

The greater the variety in meals, the simpler each meal can be. It is much more satisfying to have one main dish at a meal and never have two meals or menus alike two days in succession than to have a half dozen main dishes on the table today, and the same tomorrow.

Usually there are not enough fruits and vegetables on the menu. Many times these are not available at restaurants, but at this time of year restaurants should serve them when the markets are supplying such an abundance. Vegetables and fruits are inexpensive if the housewife will hunt for the right markets. There is a little excuse for not having plenty of fruits and vegetables on the American family's table.

If we persist in going without vegetables we are going to pay the price sooner or later. Our lowered resistance will make us easy prey to colds, influenza, and similar diseases. Many of us like to pass the buck, blaming all our ailments on overwork and the need of a vacation. Nine chances out of ten if we were to eat sanely and in moderation, rest and exercise wisely, we would keep good health.

Diet for City Dwellers.

We need in city life a concentrated vitamin diet and an adequate amount of minerals—calcium, phosphorous, and iron. The most of us get calories—that's why we're fat and pay little attention to the foods that will give us a lean muscular physique.

We are tied to offices until we are so delicate to stand the summer sunshine and too lethargic to take the necessary physical exercise. As a result we are like hot house plants. When it comes to eating we do not know when we have satisfied our hunger and our appetites.

If we become serious about this business of eating we will wish to consume an abundance of fruits and vegetables and as great a variety as we can afford. We should remember the milk, butter, cheese, and eggs occasionally, bread, cereal, and meat only once a day. And the brisket it should be remembered from a nutritional standpoint is just as good as the sirloin. The value of the whole wheat varieties of food should be considered. They have good minerals and should never be discounted. Add the fashion from sweets to starches and fats, but not too many.

*Do you like to cook? was the question asked of these society and professional women. Mrs. Hill cooks quite often; Miss Cirese enjoys good cooking, but doesn't like to do it; Mrs. Coleman is interested but has done little cooking in recent years. ## CHILD DESERVES RECOGNITION OF HIS BIRTHDAY

Of all the holidays the American home observes none is more important than a child's birthday. Never should that day be passed by without a jolly recognition from parents or brothers and sisters in the form of a special family dinner, or a party where the child's friends are invited. Whether there is much else there should be a birthday cake with its lighted candles.

If the birthday is to be a family dinner mothers should take a little extra trouble to give it a festive atmosphere. Care should be taken to prepare the favorite dishes of the honor guest. Some families have a certain kind of cake used for all family birthdays, often a white butter cake with snowy icing. The candles may be the favorite color of the child. If the child is old enough he or she should put the cake after blowing out the candles and making a wish. At a family party birthday gifts are often presented at this time.

Mothers who are at a loss to know what to serve at a small son's or daughter's birthday party will find some of these menu suggestions helpful:

Creamed Chicken in Patty Cases
Clover Leaf Rolls or Bread and Butter Sandwiches Cut Round
Ice Cream
Birthday Cake with Cocoanut Icing and Blue Candles
Milk

The following menu will serve if the party is to be an indoor picnic. Each ite mshould be wrapped in oiled paper:

Fruit salad in paper containers
Minced chicken sandwiches
Lettuce sandwiches
Jelly sandwiches
Picnic eggs [hardboiled eggs cut in half lengthwise filled with ham, moistened with cream and put together].
Salted nuts
Little cakes or cookies

This menu is easily and quickly prepared:

Checkerboard sandwiches [use graham and white bread with minced ham filling].
Chopped celery with mayonnaise sandwiches
Cocoa Milk
Peppermint stick candy Ice cream [crushed peppermint stick candy added to cream before freezing]
Cookies, iced, pink and white.

And for the child whose birthday falls in October arqund about the 31st: Salad—[Two halves canned peaches. Fill cavity with chopped raisins and nuts, put together, mark off pumpkin sections with strips of candied orange peel.
Jack o' Lantern sandwiches—[Slices of bread cut pumpkin shape and spread with yellow cheese; make eyes, nose and mouth of candied ginger.
Ice cream—[In papier mache pumpkins lined with waxed paper].
Orangeside Devil's food cake

INDIA LEADS IN YEARLY EXPORT OF TEA LEAVES

BY L. BELING.
[Director India Tea Bureau.]

Contrary to the general supposition that tea originally came from China or Japan is the information that India is the country to which we are indebted for this beverage.

Report has it that a Buddhist monk centuries ago carried the plant from India into China, where it was subsequently cultivated and developed into an important article of commerce. In 1833 Lord William Charles Cavendish Bentinck, then governor-general of India, took steps to cultivate the plant in India. The first tea growers in India imported plants from China, and then set about seeking suitable locations for their tea nurseries.

While engaged in this work they made the discovery that tea already was growing abundantly—although wild—in India. Later examination showed that the native plant had qualities not contained in the plant imported from China.

From this small beginning nearly a century ago the growing of tea in India has grown to enormous proportions. India today exports more tea than any other country, yearly shipments amounting to nearly 400,000,000 pounds.

WELL BALANCED DIET INCLUDES "FOOD FOR TEETH"

BY R. E. KINSMAN.
[Johnson Educator Food Company.]

Proper eating is not entirely a matter of pleasing the palate nor of measuring calories closely. While these things undoubtedly are of major importance, the well balanced diet will include a necessary proportion of "food for the teeth"—food which requires vigorous chewing.

Scientists and dietitians repeatedly have called attention to the present day tendency toward soft foods and the danger to teeth and gums lurking in that tendency.

J. F. Geisler, Sc. D., former professor of chemistry at the University of Michigan and at present director of the research laboratories of the Food Investigation service, says "the only reason nature equips us with strong, hard teeth is to enable us to chew hard, or relatively hard foods. If we fail to exercise the function for which they are created we are inviting softening and decay of our dental equipment."

It would seen important to remember, therefore, that while our teeth are a means to the enjoyment and digestion of food, they must be considered in our selection of food. We must take an adequate amount of "food for the teeth."

It is not a difficult matter for the mother or housewife to supply a proper amount of such foods. Whole wheat products in general, and especially whole wheat crackers are splendidly adapted to fill this need.

ASPARAGUS VINAIGRETTE SALAD.

On a bed of lettuce lay six asparagus tips. Work into a French dressing some chopped gherkins, capers, chives, olives, and parsley. Pour over the heads of the asparagus. Use six asparagus tips for one serving.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS.

If you have a household hint or unique discovery you are willing to pass on to other housewives, send it to Sally Lunn, Chicago Tribune. Recipes are excluded.

When washing fine lace, instead of starch use two lumps of sugar to a basin of water.

I have found that ice cream and grease spots may be taken out of silk dresses by rubbing the spot on the wrong side of the material with a paste made of corn starch and water. Let this dry and then brush out. This will not leave a ring.

THESE RECIPES EXPLAIN ART OF COFFEE MAKING

Three Methods Are Given for Housewife.

It is a fair guess that without its morning cup of coffee something dreadful might happen to the great world of business. Imagine several million business men boarding the 7:47 every morning with a hang dog set to their shoulders and the daily grouch upon their faces all because their wives refused to make the breakfast coffee. Think what a few days like that would do to butter and eggs, stocks and bonds and such.

The pleasant aroma of the breakfast coffee hurries along the ritual of the shave and brings the head of the house to the breakfast table with a cheerful countenance. But let him find his coffee too weak or too strong, muddy, or lukewarm, and you will regret having served him coffee at all.

Making coffee is as much of an art as cake making, in the opinion of many women. To guide the fall brides and even their more experienced sisters here are three recipes that should prove successful:

BOILED COFFEE.

Properly made "boiled" coffee is really steeped rather than boiled. Add one and one-half tablespoons of medium ground coffee to each cup of cold water, bring gradually to full boil, add a dash of cold water, and let stand a few minutes to settle. The coffee should be ground not quite so fine as for percolating. A very fine grinding is likely to make a muddy infusion.

PERCOLATOR COFFEE.

Coffee percolators consist of two receptacles, in the upper of which the coffee is placed, the hot water being in the lower vessel. A tube extends from this to the center of the upper portion, through which the water, under pressure of heat, rises and sprays over the ground coffee, percolating down into the lower vessel again and continuing in this manner until the percolator is removed from the heat. With this process also the coffee must be finely ground, though not so fine as for drip coffee. Use two scant tablespoons of medium ground coffee to each cup of water just below the boiling point. A short percolation period, not over five minutes, helps to prevent loss of aroma and flavor.

FRENCH DRIP COFFEE.

There are on the market a number of special pots for filtering coffee, or it may be accomplished with a strainer and ordinary pot, or in a percolator. The coffee should be finely ground so that as much of the flavor as possible will be released. The water must boil vigorously just before it is poured over the coffee. Use one to one and one-half tablespoons of pulverized coffee to each cup of water just below the boiling point in the upper receptacle of the coffee pot, pour the boiling water slowly over it, cover closely and set where it will keep hot, but not boil, until the liquid has slowly dripped through into the lower vessel.

Declares Dairy Products Gain in Quality and Use

Dairy products to delight the American palate have not only continued to become increasingly abundant but their use is steadily growing because of better quality in the milk, cream, butter, ice creame and cheese being offered.

"Farmers are interested in more than just the milk check they get at the end of a week of feeding and milking cows," Mr. Balderston said yesterday. "This was indicated Wednesday when we met with the butter industry leaders of Illinois to plan a campaign of educational value to consumers. Both the farmers and creamery owners feel that butter is now so uniformly high in quality that consumers will be assured of the best in dairy products, as we encourage greater use of them."

AN APPLE WILL MELLOW FLAVOR OF WILD DUCKS

They Must Not Be Cooked Dry, Though.

That moment that comes when the sun flames the east and the hunter waiting in the marshy swales or sloughs since dawn may fire the first volley of shot into a colony of sleek feathered creatures, may be a marksman's chief thrill in his world of sport. But it's only a preliminary as far as the wife who has been promised a nice mess of bluewing teal is concerned.

In a woman's eyes, the proof of the duckling is in the eating. And, if she succeeds in camouflaging the strong flavor peculiar to wild game, she has added one more thrill to her husband's enjoyment of his sport.

Many persons who find the strong flavor of wild game offensive place an apple or onion inside the bird and leave it there over night. This will mellow the flavor. The apple or onion should then be discarded. Here is a recipe for a pair of roasted mallard or canvas back duck, to which is added one teaspoon of butter and salt and pepper to taste.

Do Not Scald Ducks.

Clean the ducks as you would chicken, without scalding. Rinse out the inside and wipe well both inside and out with a wet towel. Do not wash the duck unless you have broken the gall bladder as washing destroys the flavor. Rub the inside well with salt and pepper and the outside thoroughly. Place a three inch lump of butter on the inside. Truss and place in a baking pan. Brush the tops with melted butter. Pour over the fowl two tablespoons of water and place in a very hot oven and allow to bake twenty minutes if small, and thirty minutes if large.

A wild duck never is cooked dry. It must reach the point where the blood will not run if pricked with a fork. When done, place the ducks in a hot dish and serve with their own gravy poured over them. Garnish with parsley or watercress. Serve with currant jelly.

STUFFING FOR WILD GAME.

Wild rice,
Onion,
Heart, liver and gizzard,
Salt and pepper to taste.

Wash rice until clean, cook in boiling water about twenty minutes until tender. Drain and wash with cold water. Add to the rice the organs cut into small pieces, and minced onion. Season to taste. Stuff into fowl, but do not pack too tightly as the dressing must expand. If openings are too large, sew them up. Truss the bird and roast.

How to Prepare Squirrels.

For the hunter who brings home a mess of squirrel or rabbit the following recipe will provide a tasty supper dish:

SQUIRREL OR RABBIT, HUNTER'S STYLE.

One pair of rabbits or squirrels.
Salt
Pepper
1 tbsp. butter
1 onion
1 slice ham
½ can mushrooms
1 clove and garlic
2 sprigs of thyme
2 bay leaves
1 tbsp. flour
1 qt. beef broth
Rind of 1 lemon
Croutons to garnish.

Skin rabbit or squirrel. Draw, wash and cut into pieces at the joints. Rub well with salt and pepper. Put a tablespoon of butter into a saucepan with the game and let brown slowly. When nearly brown add the onion chopped fine and let this brown slightly. Then add the ham, minced, and the clove, garlic, bay leaves and thyme, minced very fine. Stir in the game and let these brown for about two minutes. Then add a tablespoon of flour and brown for a few minutes. Add quart of consommé and let all cook for about one hour. Season to taste. Add a half a can of mushrooms.

Venison Pie.

Cut meat into small pieces, removing all the membrane and bone. Dredge in flour, season with salt and pepper, and brown in fat to which a minced onion has been added. Add enough water or stock to cover and allow to simmer until tender. Lay in baking dish with some cooked onions and a cup of sautéd mushrooms. Thicken stock in which venison was cooked with a little flour and pour over contents of baking dish. Cover with plain pastry crust. Bake in hot oven [400 degrees F.] until brown.

PASTRY CRUST.

2 cups flour
½ tsp. baking powder
1 tsp. salt
¾ cup shortening
Ice water

Mix and sift flour, baking powder and salt. Cut in half of the shortening with a knife or the fingers. Add enough water to make a stiff dough. Roll out in an oblong piece on a slightly floured board and dot with bits of the remaining shortening. Fold over ends to center and fold again to make four layers. Press ends together and roll out. Dot again with shortening and roll. Repeat a third time. Chill. Cut in pieces to cover individual pies.

Promising Chef for White House

HERE'S THE WAY TO MAKE PUNCH AS IT SHOULD BE

Punch can be a watery and uninteresting liquid if wrongly made; but it can have tang and character if rightly made. Cider punch, for example, has tartness and flavor that makes it acceptable. It is delicious served with doughnuts or cakes or sandwiches on an autumn evening. It merits the name of punch. Here are two recipes for cider punch:

CIDER PUNCH.

2 oranges, juice.
2 lemons, juice.
1 quart cider.
1 quart grape juice.
1 cup sugar.
2 quarts water.

Add a little of the grated rind of orange and lemon to the juices and stir in the sugar and cider. Place in punch bowl over block of ice and serve in sherbet glasses. Yield: 4½ quarts.

EGGS CHALLENGE OTHER FOODS ON BASIS OF VALUE

"Two eggs up," or any other style, in combination with ham or bacon, or by themselves, will be a constantly more popular sight this fall, predicts the United States Egg society of Chicago.

Challenging local housewives and their discriminating husbands to secure more food value for their money than eggs at present prices, these poultrymen call attention to unprecedented supplies of "hen fruit" on the market this fall. Farm flocks prospered during a dry, warm summer, and, with supplies of grain plentiful and bringing low prices, farmers have increased egg production as a means of cash income, it is said.

Members of the National Poultry, Butter and Egg association, meeting here this week, declared the cold storage facilities had been filled since early summer and large stocks in reserve this week reduced wholesale prices to the lowest in over a decade. Future delivery prices this week were the lowest in history at 21 cents a dozen.

2 Women Accused in Fake Matrimony Ring Post Bail

Indianapolis, Ind., Oct. 9.—[Special.]—Mrs. Oda Lippens, Marion, Ind., and Mrs. Ethel Rose Brewer, Muncie, Ind., alleged central figures in a fake matrimonial agency scheme, were brought before the United States commissioner here today charged with using the mails to defraud.

Weeping, they professed innocence, but were not released until they had given $5,000 bond. In the meantime two more members of the ring, alleged to have preyed on gullible bachelors and widowers in numerous midwestern states, were also arrested by postal authorities.

CREOLE COOKING PLEASES PALATE AND POCKETBOOK

Here Are Some Secrets of Louisiana Cuisine.

Creole cooking is equally famous for its tastiness and its economy. In the early days of "La Louisiane" the settlers, many of them aristocratic "emigrés," were, nevertheless, dependent on the products of their individual isolated plantations, and not a morsel of food could be wasted. So, while Creole cooking, taking its origin from the French cuisine and adding a touch of Spanish seasoning, is rich and savory, it also utilizes odds and ends.

A chief characteristic, in fact, of Creole cooking is that of making a tough piece of beef tender and palatable by braising. Leftover meat is utilized in "boulards," "boulettes," "croquettes," "rissoles," "meat souffle," and baked hash, hash on toast or a form of Creole hash which combines minced cold meat, onion, garlic, chopped raw potatoes and chopped hard boiled eggs.

With their generous use of herbs, guided by a sort of instinct, the old Negro cooks on plantations used to add to the tastiness of Creole cooking and transform many an humble cut of meat into a dish fit for royalty.

Here's a Sample Recipe.

Take, for instance, this recipe for beefsteak pie:

1 quart of cold cooked meat
2 slices of breakfast bacon
1 tablespoonful of butter
½ doz. potatoes
Thyme, bay leaf and parsley
Salt, pepper and cayenne to taste.

Make a nice pie crust. Line a baking pan with this, and bake in the oven. Cut the meat very fine, into dice, and season well, rubbing with the minced thyme, parsley, bay leaf and salt and pepper. Put a tablespoonful of lard in the stew pot, and when hot throw in the veal. Let this brown and then add one tablespoonful of flour, sifted well, and let this brown nicely. Add two pints of boiling water and set the stew back on the stove and cover closely.

Let it simmer slowly for an hour and a half, or until the meat is perfectly tender. Then place in the pan lined with the cooked pie crust, dotting the stew with bits of butter, and over all, place a layer of pie crust, decorating the edge. Bake to a nice brown. Serve in the dish in which it was cooked, with any left-over sauce spread over the slices.

Glory of Bouillabaisse.

Bouillabaisse, more correctly "bouille-à-baisse," originated in southern France, but due to the superior fish obtainable in the Gulf of Mexico, namely the red snapper and the redfish, or poisson rouge, it has become famous as a Creole dish. The French used the sturgeon and perch. So much more delightful is New Orleans' bouillabaisse than that of France, that William Makepeace Thackeray remarked after a visit to Louisiana, "In New Orleans you can eat a bouillabaisse, the like of which was never eaten in Marseilles or Paris."

The prime point to remember in cooking bouillabaisse is that the fish is cooked to the point where it begins to boil, but no longer. That is the source of its name: "Bouillir," meaning to boil; and "baisse," meaning to stop. The recipe follows:

6 slices of red snapper, 6 slices of redfish.
½ lemon.
6 large fresh tomatoes, or ¾ can.
3 onions, 1 herb bouquet.
3 cloves of garlic.
3 bay leaves, 3 sprigs of thyme.
3 sprigs of parsley.
6 allspice, 2 tablespoonfuls of olive oil.
1 good large pinch of saffron.
Salt, pepper, and cayenne to taste.

First cut off the head of the red snapper and boil it in about two quarts of water, so as to make a fish stock. Put one sliced onion and a herb bouquet consisting of thyme, bay leaf, and parsley into the water. When reduced to one pint, take out the head of the fish and the herb bouquet and strain the water and set it aside for use later on.

Enter Redfish and Red Snapper.

Take six slices of redfish and six slices of red snapper of equal sizes and rub well with salt and pepper. Mince three sprigs of thyme, three sprigs of parsley, three bay leaves, and three cloves of garlic, very, very fine, and take six allspice and grind them very fine, and mix thoroughly with the minced herbs and garlic. Then take each slice of fish and rub well with this mixture till every portion is permeated by the herbs, spice, and garlic. They must be, as it were, soaked into the flesh, if you would achieve the success of this dish.

Take two tablespoonfuls of fine olive oil and put it into a very large pan, so big that each slice of the fish may be put in without one piece overlapping the other. Chop two onions very fine and add them to the heating oil. Lay the fish, slice by slice, in the pan and cover, and let them "etouffer," or smother, for about 10 minutes, turning so that each side may cook partly. Then take the fish out of the pan and set the slices in a dish. Add a half can of tomatoes, or six large, fresh tomatoes sliced fine, and let them boil well.

The Finishing Touches.

Then add half a lemon, cut in very thin slices and pour over a pint of the liquor in which the head of the snapper was boiled. Season well to taste with salt, pepper and cayenne. Let it boil until very strong and until reduced almost one-half, then lay the fish, slice by slice, apart one from the other, in the pan, and let boil five minutes.

In the meantime have prepared one good pinch of saffron, chopped very fine. Set it in the small deep dish and add a little of the sauce in which the fish is boiling, to dissolve well. When well melted, and when the fish has been just five minutes in the pan, spread the saffron over the top of the fish. Take out of the pan, lay each slice on toast, which has been fried in butter; pour the sauce over and serve hot immediately.

Recipe for Chestnut Soup.

Chestnut soup, or "potage à la purée de marrons," is made as follows:

3 quarts of oyster water, or a good round of beef or veal.
Quart of chestnuts.
1 herb bouquet.
Cayenne pepper.

What Can You Do With Soap?

Soap can be used as a cleanser.
It can be used to stop squeaks in furniture.
From it can be carved small statues, etc.

What other uses have you discovered for soap?

For the best list of ideas for other uses of soap, as judged by Meta Given, Tribune Food Editor, the Chicago Tribune will pay $10.00. Next three awards $5.00 each. Winners will be selected from lists received in the Tribune office before 6 P. M. on Wednesday, October 15, 1930. Address entries to "Soap Ideas," Chicago Tribune, Tribune Tower, Chicago.

PRICES ARE LOW FOR SIX BASIC COMMODITIES

Six basic commodities of the world are selling at unusually low prices these days in the face of attempts by governments and producers to stem the tide of mass production that is building up great surpluses.

They were listed this week by Prof. James E. Boyle of Cornell university in an address in Chicago as silk, rubber, coffee, sugar, cotton, and wheat. He might also have listed eggs, which this week touched their lowest price in the history of future trading on the Chicago Mercantile exchange.

"It is significant," asserted Prof. Boyle, "that the six basic commodities at present low price levels have all had special government aid in the shape of farm relief. The one which has fallen the most in price, sugar, has had the most artificial aid."

Down in Brazil, the scent of present day bloodshed, attempts have been under way for several years to attempt to control the mounting production of the coffee bean. At the opening of the present coffee crop season enough reserve stocks of coffee were said to be in storage in Brazil to supply the world needs without the oncoming tonnage.

Retail coffee prices, rebounding to lower levels this summer in Chicago, have been combined with steps to supply a freshly roasted product by many manufacturers and jobbers. The ample supplies on the world market have opened this possibility in the retail competition, it is reported.

New Discovery Makes Milk A Perfect Food!

Supplies Vital Iron

Milk, long known as an ideal balanced food for children and adults, has always been lacking in the IRON that is so vital to keeping up the supply of rich red blood. Until recently it was necessary to secure this IRON by including vegetables and fruits in the daily diet.

Now, thanks to the discovery of a persistent chemist, it is possible to supply milk with IRON by simply mixing it with MALTED RAISINS, a delicious powder, rich in IRON, Calcium, Phosphorus and other health values.

The resulting mixture is a delightful drink, more nourishing and healthful than pure milk itself. It is not oversweetened and hence stimulates rather than deadens the appetite.

Children love it—and grown-ups, too. You can get "Malted Raisins" in 1 lb. or ½ lb. containers at your grocer or druggist. Also served as a malted drink at soda fountains. Try it today!

THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE PRESENTS

$1,000.00 in Cash Prizes for best solutions to today's another fascinating food problem "Scrambled Recipes"

HOUSEWIVES! How much do you know about cooking? Do you like to try out new recipes and new ways of preparing foods?

Today the Chicago Tribune offers you an opportunity to test your knowledge of the cooking art. To stimulate interest in this important branch of home science, the Tribune presents another of its brand-new cooking problems—"Scrambled Recipes." You'll find it highly interesting, instructive—and there's $1,000.00 in cash prizes for successful contestants!

FOLLOW THESE SIMPLE DIRECTIONS:

Elsewhere on this page is a list of 18 ingredients to be used in preparing three well-known dishes. All the proportions and quantities are correct as given. You are invited to group the ingredients into their proper recipes and try for the $1,000.00 in cash prizes which the Tribune will pay. NOTE: It is NOT necessary to split up any of the ingredients. Each ingredient goes into one recipe only. If any ingredient is needed in two recipes, for instance, it will be found listed twice.

This offer is open to women and girls, wives and mothers, everywhere—except employes of the Chicago Tribune and their families. Professional women who earn their living, in whole or in part, as teachers of domestic science or cookery, and dietitians are NOT eligible to receive awards.

You may submit your solution on the handy recipe blank provided here, or you may copy the recipes on a separate sheet of paper.

Awards will be made to the persons who send in the neatest and nearest correctly grouped sets of recipes in accordance with these rules. Neatness will count. Ingenuity of presenting solutions will count. In case of ties, duplicate prizes will be awarded. You pay nothing. Just prove your skill.

To assure the widest possible distribution of the prize money, the Chicago area has been divided into five main divisions—North, Northwest, West, Southwest, and South. Fifteen prizes will be awarded to successful contestants living in each division. First prize, $100.00; second prize, $50.00; third prize $25.00; fourth prize $10.00; fifth prize $5.00; next ten prizes $1.00 each. Total for each division: $200.00. Total for the five divisions: $1,000.00.

You need NOT indicate the division in which you live. The Tribune will classify all entries according to the street and number of the city or suburb in which the contestant lives, as given on the entry blank.

Entries should be mailed to "SCRAMBLED RECIPES NO. 2," the Chicago Tribune, Postoffice Box 1720, Chicago, Ill. All entries for today's problem must be received in the Tribune office not later than 6:00 P. M. on Wednesday, October 15th, 1930.

Meta Given, Tribune cooking editor, has been appointed judge, and her decisions will be final. The Tribune cannot undertake to return any entries or to engage in correspondence on this subject.

You need not purchase the Chicago Tribune to compete. Copies of the Chicago Tribune may be examined at the Tribune office or at public libraries free of charge.

The names of the prize winners of today's problem will be announced in the Food Section of Friday, October 24.

DECIDE MANN KILLED HIMSELF WHILE INSANE

Letter Says Cafe Builder Feared Asylum.

Fred Mann, one time wealthy café owner, who killed himself in Lincoln park on Wednesday, will be buried in Acacia Park cemetery this afternoon after services in Temple Sholom, Sheridan road and Cornelia avenue. Kenmore lodge, No. 947, of the Masonic order will be in charge of the rites at the grave.

Mr. Mann shot himself while temporarily insane, a conorer's jury decided yesterday. The jury met in the undertaking establishment at 4714 Broadway. The testimony of his relatives failed to reveal a recent happening which might have caused him to take his life, but showed that he had been despondent at intervals since he lost control of the Rainbo Gardens, at Clark street and Lawrence avenue.

Open Letter to Relatives.

A sealed letter to relatives found on his person was handed to his son, Al Mann, at the opening of the inquest, by Reputy Coroner Frank Donoghue.

A portion of the note addressed to his son read: "Dear Boy Al—There is no other way out for me. Am afraid I am going insane. Forgive me—it is all my own fault. Had I listened to our dear mother, the sweetest and best woman on earth, who is deserving a better fate, everything would have been different. Take care of our affairs as good as you can; have Gus [his brother] help you. Try and comfort our dear ones if that will be possible. God bless you and keep you well. Good-by."

To his brother, Gustave, Mann said his load was too heavy, and that he had to make an end of it. He asked Gustave to help his family.

Asks Widow to Forgive.

Of his widow Mann asked forgiveness for his act and said he had chosen it as the better way, inasmuch as "I am going insane seeing you suffer from my misfortunes. Had I only listened to you," read the note, "all would have been different. Have mercy on me. Am leaving no will; my papers are in a brief case and am leaving papers in dresser drawer. I love you. Good-by."

In the last part of the letter, addressed to his daughter, Mrs. Betty Kay, 4750 Dover street, Mann said: "The above tells the story—it's better than an insane asylum. Forgive me and try to bear up for our dear mother's sake."

Al Mann told the coroner's jury his father had some life insurance and owned some stocks and bonds, but did not know in what amount.

SWEDISH LAWYER FLEES FINLAND IN TRIAL OF REDS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

HELSINGFORS, Finland, Oct. 9.—When the Swedish lawyer, Georg Branting, arrived from Stockholm to defend a group of communists in the Abo high court, where the state is pressing action, members of the Lapua movement called a protest meeting and passed a motion that, wishing to maintain good relations with Sweden, violence must be avoided. Delegations, however, visited the lawyer at his hotel and demanded that he leave Finland immediately. Branting boarded a steamer for Stockholm.

Reds Wiped Out in Diet.

HELSINGFORS, Finland, Oct. 9.—(AP)—Anti-communist parties in the Finnish diet have greatly strengthened their position in the elections, having completely defeated the communist opposition. The biggest vote ever cast in Finland wiped out the entire communist representation, 23 strong, in the diet.

CHAS. CRANE, 72, FLIES TO KEEP DATE IN CHINA

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PEIPING, Oct. 9.—Charles Crane of Chicago, former American minister to China, accompanied by Prof. Kenneth Saunders, former lecturer at the University of Chicago and an authority on oriental religions, made a thrilling air trip, for one of Mr. Crane's years, over Corea and Manchuria in order to keep engagements at Yanching university. Mr. Crane is 72 years of age.

On reaching Seoul Mr. Crane was informed that the occupation of the railway from Peiping to Mukden by the Manchurian armies made travel uncertain. He chartered an airplane with a Japanese pilot and left Seoul in the morning, reaching Darien in time to board a steamer that same evening for Tientsin.

Mr. Crane expects to remain in China for six weeks studying conditions.

Yale Spends $16,500,000 in Year, Officers Report

New Haven, Conn., Oct. 9.—[Special.]—Yale's disbursements for the last year were about $16,500,000, according to the report of the treasurer for the fiscal year ending June 30. The expenditures of the university, considered only as a teaching organization, were $7,022,988 for that period. Added to this figure, however, were disbursements of the dining halls for provisions, wages and supplies, the sums paid out for the construction of new buildings and other items.

CHICAGO POLICE HUNT FOR CRETE BANK ROBBERS

Chicago police last night were seeking two well dressed bandits who held up the Farmers' State bank at Crete early yesterday, stole $4,500, and headed for Chicago.

Otto F. Rohe, cashier, was alone in the bank when the thieves entered. He was forced to surrender the money in the cage drawer and to open the vault door. While the holdup was being staged, Mrs. Ethel Behring, a patron, entered and was locked in a rear room. Rohe was thrust inside the vault after the bandits searched it thoroughly and found nothing.

In escaping the robbers shut the double door on Rohe, but did not lock it. He freed himself and notified police. The bank is not protected, it is said, by a burglar alarm. The thieves headed for Chicago in a car with two lookouts.

Sylvester Russell, Negro Writer, Paid Last Honor

Funeral services for Sylvester Russell, veteran Negro actor and newspaperman, were held yesterday at the chapel at 3834 Indiana avenue and were attended by friends of the stage and newspaper work. Russell, considered one of the best informed dramatic critics of his race and day, started his stage career as a member of the Al G. Fields Minstrel troupe. His newspaper connections extended over the entire field of Negro journalism.

M. G. BARNES DEAD; EXPERT ON WATERWAY

Funeral services were held yesterday in Oak Park for Mortimer G. Barnes, former chief engineer of the Illinois division of waterways, who died Tuesday night at his home, 226 South Maple avenue, Oak Park, after a long illness. Last night his family was en route to Albany, Neb., with the body for burial.

A native of Reedsburg, Wis., Mr. Barnes was 63 years old. He was educated at the University of Michigan and had been consulting engineer of many waterway projects, including the Hennepin canal, Moline locks, Panama locks, and New York state barge canal. Gov. Lowden appointed him chief engineer of the Illinois waterways in 1917.

Surviving are his widow, Mary Wood Barnes; two daughters, Mrs. Florence Strom and Miss Alice Barnes, and a son, James.

Former Senator's Wife Dies.

Oklahoma City, Okla., Oct. 9.—Mrs. Laura Harreld, wife of former United States Senator John W. Harreld of Oklahoma, died at her home here today. She had been ill six months.

A native of Morgantown, Pa., Mrs. Harreld was an active hostess to official Washington between 1921 and 1927, while her husband was serving terms in both senate and house. For four years she was treasurer of the Senate Ladies' club.

PETER KLEIN, 81, OF AURORA IS TAKEN BY DEATH

Peter Klein, banker and former German newspaper publisher, died yesterday in Aurora, where he had lived for the last 66 years. He was 81 years old and a native of Germany. Mr. Klein was publisher of the Aurora Volksfreund for 53 years. After selling his interest in the paper he became president of the American National bank of Aurora. When that institution merged with the First National bank of Aurora Mr. Klein became chairman of the merged board. He is survived by two children, Mrs. Cleo K. Wilson and Ulmer Klein, both of Aurora. Funeral services will be held tomorrow.

PATRICK H. LEONARD, north shore real estate dealer and formerly a hotel operator at Crystal Lake, Ill., died on Wednesday at Milwaukee. He was known as an advocate of protective game laws. Funeral services will be held tomorrow morning at St. Thomas' church at Crystal Lake.

LOUIS EILENFELDT, 53 years old, a retired fireman of Engine company No. 81, died of heart disease at his home, 1538 East Sixty-fifth street, last night.

Danish Possessions to Be Given Right to Own Flags

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

COPENHAGEN, Denmark, Oct. 9.—Premier Stauning today introduced a bill in parliament granting special flags for countries or provinces within the Danish kingdom. The flags must be of local character and not resembling the Danish flag nor the flag of any other nation.

The MURDER at the VICARAGE

BY AGATHA CHRISTIE

SYNOPSIS.

Mr. Clement is vicar of a country village in England. His wife, Griselda, is nearly twenty years his junior. The vicar's young nephew, Dennis, lives with them.

Col. Protheroe, a pompous parishioner, who makes life miserable for his daughter, Lettice, and his second wife, Anne, is expected at the vicarage at 6:15 one evening. At 6:20 the vicar is called to visit a dying parishioner and leaves word for the colonel that he will be late. On returning at 7 the vicar meets Lawrence Redding, an artist who is living in a studio on the vicarage grounds, coming out of the house in an agitated state. On the day before the artist and Mrs. Protheroe had confessed to him their love for each other. In his study the vicar finds the colonel dead, murdered apparently. No weapon is found. Dr. Haydock is called and he says Protheroe has been dead half an hour and summons the police. A note which the colonel started to write to the vicar is headed 6:20. A clock, overturned when the colonel fell forward, stopped at 6:22, but it was always just fifteen minutes fast.

Lawrence Redding and Mrs. Protheroe both confess to the murder.

Miss Marple, a near neighbor, saw Anne Protheroe go to the vicarage about 6:15 and then to the studio. She had no place to conceal a weapon. Redding came along shortly after and joined her at the studio. They came out a little later and walked towards the village.

Lawrence and Anne admit they had confessed the crime thinking the other had committed it. Lawrence said he had come back to see the vicar, after leaving Anne, and had found his pistol and thought Anne must have taken it.

Murder by person or persons unknown, is the verdict given at the inquest.

A man who represents himself to be Dr. Stone, an archaeologist, is thought to be an impostor and is suspected of the theft of some valuable old silver which belonged to Col. Protheroe. His secretary, Gladys Cram, is also under suspicion.

Miss Marple calls to see the vicar, and Griselda and Dennis go over to amuse her visiting nephew.

INSTALLMENT XLVII.

THE SPINSTER DETECTIVE.

"And then," Miss Marple continued, "there was that matter of the chewed gum drops, and the butcher's wife's umbrella—the last absolutely meaningless unless on the assumption that the greengrocer was not behaving at all nicely with the chemist's wife—which, of course, turned out to be the case. It is so fascinating, you know, to apply one's judgment and find that one is right."

"You usually are, I believe," I said smiling.

"That, I am afraid, is what has made me a little conceited," confessed Miss Marple. "But I have always wondered whether, if some day a really big mystery came along, I should be able to do the same thing. I mean—just solve it correctly. Logically, it ought to be exactly the same thing. After all a tiny working model of a torpedo is just the same as a real torpedo."

"You mean it's all a question of relativity," I said slowly. "It should be—logically, I admit. But I don't know whether it really is."

"Surely it must be the same," said Miss Marple. "The—what one used to call the factors at school—are the same. There's money, and mutual attraction between people of an—er—opposite sex—and there's queerness, of course—so many people are a little queer, aren't they?—in fact, most people are when you know them well. And normal people are sometimes so very queer and ordinary. In fact, the only way is to compare people with other people you have known or came across. You'd be surprised if you knew how very few distinct types there are in all."

"You frighten me," I said. "I feel I'm being put under the microscope."

"Of course, I wouldn't dream of saying any of this to Col. Melchett—such an autocratic man, isn't he?—and poor Inspector Slack—well, he's exactly like the young lady in the boot shop who wants to sell you patent leather because she's got it in your size, and doesn't take any notice of the fact that you want brown calf."

"That really is a very good description of Slack."

"But you, Mr. Clement. I thought, if we could work together——"

"I wonder," I said. "I think each one of us in his secret heart fancies himself as Sherlock Holmes."

Then I told her of the three summons I had received that afternoon. I told her of Anne's discovery of the picture with the slashed face. I also told her of Miss Cram's attitude at the police station, and I described Haydock's identification of the crystal I had picked up.

Then I took up my schedule and handed it to her.

"Having found that myself," I finished up, "I should like it to be important. But it's probably got nothing to do with the case."

"I have been reading a lot of American detective stories from the library lately," said Miss Marple, "hoping to find them helpful."

"Was there anything in them about picric acid?"

"I'm afraid not. I do remember reading a story once, though, in which a man was poisoned by picric acid and lanoline being rubbed on him as an ointment."

"But as nobody has been poisoned here, that doesn't seem to enter into the question," I said.

Then I took up my schedule and handed it to her.

"I've tried," I said, "to recapitulate the facts of the case as clearly as possible."

MY SCHEDULE.

Thursday, 21st inst.

11:30 a. m.—Col. Protheroe alters his appointment from six to six fifteen. Overheard by half village very probably.

12:45—Pistol last seen in its proper place. [But this is doubtful, as Mrs. Archer had previously said she could not remember.]

6:00 [approx.]—Col. and Mrs. Protheroe leave Old Hall for village in car.

6:15—Fake call put through to me from the East Lodge, Old Hall, 6:15 [or a minute or two earlier]—Col. Protheroe arrives at Vicarage, is shown into study by Mary.

6:20—Mrs. Protheroe comes along back lane and across garden to study window. Col. Protheroe not visible.

6:22—Call from Lawrence Redding's cottage put through to Mrs. Price Ridley. [According to Exchange.]

6:30-6:35—Shot heard. [Accepting telephone call time as correct.] Lawrence Redding, Anne Protheroe and Dr. Stone's evidence seem to point to its being earlier, but Mrs. P. R. probably right.

6:48—Lawrence Redding arrives Vicarage and finds the body.

6:48—I meet Lawrence Redding.

6:49—Body discovered by me.

6:55—Haydock examines body.

Note—The only two people who have no kind of alibi for 6:20-6:35 are Miss Cram and Mrs. Lestrange. Miss Cram says she was at the barrow, but no confirmation. It seems reasonable, however, to dismiss her from case, as there seems nothing to connect her with it. Mrs. Lestrange left Dr. Haydock's house some time after six to keep an appointment. Where was the appointment, and with whom? It should hardly have been with Col. Protheroe, as he expected to be engaged with me. It is true that Mrs. Lestrange was near the spot at the time the crime was committed, but it seems doubtful what motive she could have had for murdering him. She did not gain by his death, and the inspector's theory of blackmail I cannot accept. Mrs. Lestrange is not that kind of woman. Also it seems unlikely that she should have got hold of Lawrence Redding's pistol.

"Very clear," said Miss Marple, nodding her head in approval. "Very neat, indeed. Gentlemen always make such excellent memoranda."

"You agree with what I have written?" I asked.

"O, yes—you have put it all beautifully."

I asked her the question then that I had been meaning to put all along. "Miss Marple," I said, "who do you suspect? You once said that there were seven people."

"Quite that, I should think," said Miss Marple absently. "I expect every one of us suspects some one different. In fact, one can see they do."

"The point is," she said, "that one must provide an explanation for everything. Each thing has got to be explained away satisfactorily. If you have a theory that fits every fact—well, then, it must be the right one. But that's extremely difficult. If it wasn't for that note——"

"The note?" I said, surprised.

"Yes, you remember, I told you. That note has worried me all along. It's wrong somehow."

"Surely," I said, "that is explained now. It was written at six thirty and another hand—the murderer's—put the misleading 6:20 on the top. I think that is clearly established."

"But even then," said Miss Marple, "it's all wrong."

"But why?"

"I don't——" Miss Marple leaned forward eagerly. "Mrs. Protheroe went out into the garden, as I told you, and she went as far as the study window and looked in and she didn't see Col. Protheroe."

"Because he was writing at the desk," I said.

"And that's what's all wrong. That was twenty past six. We agreed that he wouldn't sit down to say he couldn't wait any longer until after half past six. Then, why was he sitting at the writing table then?"

"I never thought of that," I said slowly.

YES, THAT'S THE CAR I'D LIKE, MR. SNIFKINS, BUT THERE IS STILL THE MATTER OF THE TRADE-IN ON MY PRESENT CAR.
I'LL HAVE OUR MAN LOOK IT OVER AND GIVE YOU A FIGURE, MR. WALLET. OF COURSE, YOU UNDERSTAND THE MARKET ON USED CARS IS VERY POOR.
YOURS IS A 1926, MR. WALLET, AND THE VALUE AS GIVEN IN THE PURPLE BOOK IS $72. THE ACCIDENT YOU HAD DAMAGED IT ABOUT $50, MAKING IT'S PRESENT VALUE $22. HOWEVER, WE'LL DO BETTER THAN THAT— WE'LL OFFER YOU $37.50 AS IS.
WHAT, FOR A PERFECTLY GOOD CAR RUNNING LIKE A TOP!
I'LL KEEP IT MYSELF FIRST! THE ENGINE IS PERFECTLY GOOD. I'LL BUILD A BOAT AND PUT IT IN OR RIG UP A TURNING LATHE.

Italy's Princess, Bulgars' King to Wed Nov. 15

Rome Ceremony Date Set; To Aid Prisoners.

ROME, Oct. 9.—(AP)—The religious marriage of Princess Giovanna, daughter of the king and queen of Italy, to Boris, "Bachelor King" of Bulgaria, will be performed at San Rossore, near Pisa, summer home of the royal family, on Nov. 15.

Official announcement of the date and plans for the international marriage were made public today. King Boris is scheduled to arrive on Saturday for the final arrangements and official betrothal.

Next week, after these discussions, Boris will go to the Vatican for a talk with the pope.

The marriage will be performed by Cardinal Maffi of Pisa, who celebrated the wedding mass of Crown Prince Humbert and Princess Marie Jose of Belgium last January, or Msgr. Giuseppi Beccaria, the court chaplain.

It was believed here today that another marriage then would follow at Sofia according to the orthodox rite.

A rule of the Catholic church says the religious marriage ought to take place near the residence of the bride.

The Fascist grand council, meeting this afternoon, extended greetings to Boris.

Will Help Prisoners.

SOFIA, Bulgaria, Oct. 9.—(AP)—It was announced today that simultaneously with the official betrothal of King Boris and Princess Giovanna at Rome, a large number of Bulgarian women serving sentences for political offenses will be liberated. Further general amnesties will be decreed on the date of the marriage of the royal couple at Sofia.

The council of ministers today discussed the nature of the gift which the nation will make to the monarch and began preparations for the welcoming ceremony upon the return of Boris from Italy with his bride.

"A Little Previous," G. B. Shaw Remarks on Rumors of Death

LONDON, Oct. 9. — (AP) — George Bernard Shaw tonight accepted philosophically the news that rumors of his death had been circulating today in New York.

"Well, it's a little previous," he told an Associated Press correspondent.

"They seem in a bit of a hurry to kill me off, don't they?"

BOOKS SENATORS CALL NAUGHTY EAGERLY SOUGHT

Washington, D. C., Oct. 9.—(AP)—Curious borrowers, willing lenders, and insistent purchasers of books that have fallen into the customs bureau's category of forbidden literature are producing some interesting complications as an outgrowth of the obscene book controversy that stirred the senate during the tariff debate.

Many of the books confiscated under the old law and which were loaned to various senators as exhibits in the tariff discussion have disappeared. Some have been returned to the customs bureau and some still repose in the senators' offices, but a majority apparently are following an endless chain of borrowers and lenders.

In addition to its difficulties in trailing the books the customs bureau is having its hands full administering the new law barring obscene and immoral books. Seizures are being made almost daily and half a dozen importers have begun court contests to recover their foreign purchases. Two of these will be fought out in Chicago.

Under the old law the customs bureau virtually was a censor, having authority to confiscate books it regarded as unfit for the American reader, but the new law permits an importer to contest seizures in the federal courts. It also gives the secretary of the treasury discretionary power to allow importation of classics or books of literary or scientific merit for noncommercial purposes.

The customs bureau here will handle all cases involving so-called classics. Bureau officials say a few books of this type already have been sent here and are being read preparatory for a ruling by Secretary Mellon.

Rather than go to the expense of a court trial several importers already had assented to confiscation, but at least six, including the two in Chicago, have determined to test the new law, which was a compromise between the opposing views of Senators Cutting of New Mexico and Smoot of Utah.

As in the prohibition enforcement act, the obscene book statute has a "5 and 10" provision.

Mary Garden Says Only Lazy Women Marry

Opera Singer in New York; Tells of Trip.

New York, Oct. 9.—[Special.]—Only lazy women marry, according to Mary Garden, the prima donna, who arrived from Europe today aboard the North German Lloyd liner Bremen, which incidentally established a new record for crossing the Atlantic, completing the voyage at Ambrose light at 5:18 o'clock this morning in 4 days 17 hours 18 minutes, six minutes better than her previous best crossing.

Miss Garden, who admits to being plump but not fat and to being addicted to swimming in the Mediterranean sans even a one piece bathing suit, said that when she gets too tired or too lazy to work she may think about getting married. A woman as busy as she is, she said, has no time to think about a husband or a household or children.

And Mary Garden is bent upon a busy time during her stay in the United States. She is to sing over the radio, tour in concerts, act in the Chicago Civic Opera company, and take a movie test in Hollywood to find if she is competent to sing the leading rôle in a presentation of grand opera via the sound films.

Miss Garden pronounces radio "raddio." When told that she was following the lead of another distinguished public individual named Alfred E. Smith, she exclaimed:

"Does Al Smith say 'raddio,' too? Then it must be right, because Al said he would rather be right than be President."

Although Miss Garden has taken out her first papers—she was born in Scotland—she has decided that she will not become an American citizen. She likes to spend her winters in southern France and owns property which cost her a lot of money on the Riviera and in Corsica.

Miss Garden displayed a new ornament, a miniature elephant fashioned of gold and ivory and rubies. It was presented to her, she said, by a maharajah. Asked by the ship news reporters to give his name she refused. Explaining that they wouldn't be able to spell it.

Another noted passenger on the Bremen was Rabindrinath Tagore, the poet laureate of India, who won the Nobel prize for literature in 1913. He is about to embark on a lecture tour and an exhibit of his paintings and drawings, for he is an artist as well as a poet, although he did not find it out until two years ago and he is now 71.

TODAY'S BRIDE

[J. H. Connelly Photo.]

The marriage of Miss Edith Aileen Heal, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Frederick Heal of 216 North Taylor avenue, Oak Park, to Gilbert Andre Meyler of Paris, France, will take place this afternoon at 4:30 o'clock at the Thorndyke Hilton Memorial chapel. Mr. and Mrs. Meyler will be in Chicago until January, when they will leave for Paris.

Mrs. J. N. Willys Buys Mogul Rug Valued Over $60,000

[Copyright: 1930: By the New York Times.]

WARSAW, Oct. 9.—Mrs. John North Willys, wife of the American ambassador to Poland, has purchased a seventeenth century carpet in Paris. It is an Indian-Persian rug, 25 by 16 feet, which formerly hung in the Hall of Mirrors in the Palace at Amber.

Ambassador Willys left today for Paris and London, where he will address the Automobile Traders' association at its annual dinner.

New York, Oct. 9.—[Special.]—The rug brought by Mrs. John N. Willys is one of three rare Mogul carpets recently obtained by Felix Gouled, art dealer. This exceptional silk carpet is said to have brought about $60,000 in India. The other two rugs were recently brought to this country by Mr. Gouled.

The rug purchased by Mrs. Willys has a red ground and yellow border, with a foliage design. The main section of the rug is decorated with an all-over pattern of small birds on foliage. Few antique silk rugs of such size as this are said to have come to this country.

Last March it was learned that Mr. Willys, former president of the Willys-Overland company, had purchased from Mr. Gouled five rare tapestries and an important Spanish altar frontal for a reported price of $300,000. Three of these tapestries portrayed the life of Queen Isabella of Castile.

Four of the tapestries were bought for Mr. Willys' Palm Beach home.

The three rugs were recently submitted to A. J. M. Campbell, keeper of the India museum of the Victoria and Albert museum, for description and analysis. After studying the rugs he wrote:

"The carpets numbered 277, 278 and 279 were formerly in the palace at Amber, near Jaipur, Rajputana, having been especially woven for the apartments at Lahore and Agra somewhere around the year 1650. In the early part of 1929 I was commissioned by the Jaipur Daibar to catalog and analyze the magnificent collection [about 220] of Indian carpets in the maharajah's possession. It is no exaggeration to say that among all those superb products of Lahore and of Agra I saw nothing better than the two carpets, Nos. 277 and 278, in your possession."

Southern Woman's Alliance Gives Series of Parties

The Chicago branch of the Southern Woman's Educational alliance is sponsoring a series of bridge parties this afternoon at the residences of several of its members. Mrs. William Risch of Evanston is chairman of the affair. About a dozen Evanston members will be hostesses, and the Chicago hostesses include Mrs. A. F. Callahan, Mrs. Albert J. Ochsner, Mrs. O. P. Alford, Mrs. A. F. Hartigan, and Mrs. G. L. Pollock. The Junior auxiliary of the alliance is giving a benefit bridge party, also this afternoon, at the residence of Miss Virginia Avery in Evanston.

THE STAGE

"LOST SHEEP," which moved from the Selwyn to the Adelphi theater last Sunday night, has discovered that its change of base interrupted the flow of customers toward the box office. So after next Sunday's performance this comedy about a clergyman's family in a questionable environment will pass out of the Chicago stage picture. Apparently it has no other place to go, for New York dispatches state that the tour will end and the company will disband. Cecilia Loftus probably will go straight into the talkies, which have been making her flattering offers.

A play called "Mendel, Inc.," out of last season's New York crop, will be "Lost Sheep's" successor at the Adelphi. The date of its opening is Nov. 2.

Fritz Leiber's Chicago Civic Shakespeare company began its second season at Urbana, Ill., last night under university auspices. St. Louis will be visited next week, and Kansas City the week of Oct. 20. Then back to Chicago the Leiberians will come to start eight weeks of repertory at the Civic theater, with a change of bill at every performance.

The Institute Players, one of the most ambitious of the "little theater" groups, will begin their season next Sunday evening at the People's Playhouse, St. Louis avenue and Douglas boulevard. "The Tenth Man," by Elma Ehrlich Levinger, and "Androcles and the Lion," by Bernard Shaw, will be offered as a double bill. This company is directed by Charles Freeman, who came to Chicago as a member of the company that gave impressive performances of "The Dibbuk."

The players who will participate in "The Garrick Gayeties," a revue staged by the Theater Guild during its approaching engagement at the Blackstone include: Doris Vinton, William Holbrook, Edgar Stehli, Neal Caldwell [formerly of the Goodman company], Nina Godell, Rosalind Russell, Donald Burr, Philip Loeb, Albert Carroll, Sterling Holloway, Ruth Chorpenning and Louis Simon.

"The Garrick Gayeties" will open at the Blackstone Oct. 27 and remain there for three weeks. The second play in the Theater Guild's subscription season, Turgenev's "A Month in the Country," will follow.

"Strike Up the Band," at the Selwyn, will draw the Ohio State university's football squad after the game with Northwestern tomorrow night. Seventy-five seats have been reserved for the athletes, win or lose.

Sophie Tucker apparently has crashed the gate of English society. A list of Mayfair notables who attended her première in "Follow a Star" at the Winter Garden theater of London recently reads as if it had been written by Frederick Lonsdale. The catalogue of names "among those present" is something that any butler would love to call. Read them and chuckle:

The Hon. Dorothy Paget, marchioness of Headfort, Lord and Lady Mountbatten, Lady Caillard, Viscount Hambleton, Lord Fitzwilliam, Lady Hall, Lord Brougham, Sir Alfred Butt, Sir Herbert Morgan, Lady Lytton, Sir Percy Simmons, Sir William Foster Todd, Capt. Crisford, Gordon Selfridge, William C. Cooper, Mrs. Edgar Wallace, Nelson Keyes, the Hon. C. Balfour, and the marquis of Donegal.

Ethel Dunlap, the promising girl from the Goodman school of drama who was drafted into the cast of "Sisters of the Chorus" during the summer, is now playing the ingenue "lead" in "The House of Fear," in place of Anne Karryl. C. C.

Prairie Club's Hike.

The weekly hike of the Prairie club, scheduled for tomorrow, will be through the Morton arboretum. The club will depart by bus from 215 Plymouth court at 1:30 o'clock.

Movie Closeup

Parents and children, attention!

The Junior Citizens' club, civic body sponsored by the Chicago Historical society among students in Chicago public, private and parochial junior high schools, will start its 1930-'31 season next Saturday morning with a special showing of D. W. Griffith's first audible screen production, "Abraham Lincoln," at the Punch and Judy theater. Members of the club will be admitted to the performance, free of charge by arrangement between Charles B. Pike, president of the society, and Louis Machat, managing director of the theater.

The Saturday show will be the first of a series of special performances for the junior civic group, during which the entire membership of 1,500 will see the Lincoln film. The management of the series will be in the hands of officers of the club, of which Dean Tibbetts of Crane Junior High school is president.

Dry Law Vote Prospects Stir Women's Strife

W. C. T. U. Clashes with Legal Reform Group.

As the officers said later, it was a peppy meeting the W. C. T. U. held yesterday in the Auditorium hotel. There were songs and cheers and speeches. It was a meeting sponsored by the Central union of the W. C. T. U., pioneer Chicago union, honoring the birthday of Miss Helen B. Hood of Evanston, the retiring state president. Most of the unions in the country were represented.

The climax of the meeting came when a new song was sung. It was sung with fervor, several verses, to a tune the ladies knew well—"When the Roll Is Called Up Yonder We'll Be There." The words were not those, however, of the old wailing, yet jubilant hymn:

When the ballot box shall open to receive the people's will,
And the battle lines are forming everywhere.
When the light shall meet the darkness and the good shall smite the ill,
And the polls ope in November we'll be there!

Printed beneath the "referendum" song on handbills passed to members was a sample ballot indicating how to vote "no" on the little ballot at the November election.

Members of the Women's Organization for National Prohibition Reform were discussed in a speech by Mrs. Margaret C. Munns of Evanston, treasurer of the National W. C. T. U. and the World's W. C. T. U.

"Of course," she said, "most of them are society women. They're not church women. It seems strange to me that any women should lead a movement against prohibition, because it's the women and children who suffered so in the saloon days. I don't mean tha they drank then, but that they suffered through prohibition. Then they wanted to save their husbands.

"The truth is, these society women who want to do away with prohibition just don't want to deprive themselves of their wines. That's it. They drink at their parties and they naturally are opposed to prohibition."

She added that many of those women were "earnest but uninformed." She sai, the W. C. T. U. was 55 years old and had 10,000 unions, so its members could afford to be charitable to th Women's Organization for National Prohibition Reform.

How to vote, which way, was discussed last night at a debate between Mrs. Harvey Tyler, executive secretary of the Illinois branch of the National Organization for Prohibition Reform, and Mrs. Ella Oliver Stewart, a leading member of the W. C. T. U. This was held before the Women's Trade Union league, 630 South Ashland boulevard.

"Our organization was founded," Mrs. Tyler began, 'because the organizers saw where prohibition had failed, that it is fundamentally wrong, and conflicts with the basic American principle of local home rule.

"Temperance, as taught and upheld, suddenly was cast aside with a law taking away the rights of the individual written into the constitution. A political question was made out of a moral one. Has prohibition done anything the W. C. T. U. claimed it would? It hasn't decreased crime. And almost the most damning thing it has done is to bring about the drinking of hard liquor by the youth of the country.

"Our young mothers were too young to give much thought when prohibition was passed. They had been raised in homes where liquor was served temperately. Now young mothers are concerned about their children. The 18th amendment makes these children's grandparents criminals. Right there begins the child rebellion, for the prohibition law makes a criminal out of the person he loves."

After tracing the history of prohibition, Mrs. Stewart declared the prohibition law is "certainly the 'noble experiment' that President Hoover says it is, and worth trying. Nothing else has been suggested to hold out as much of a handle of hope as the prohibition law."

Some of the sentiment of the trade union group was expressed in the applause which followed a statement from the floor by Mrs. Carrie Alexander, a member of the union executive committee, after she had listened to both debaters.

"I have a child and if he is going to drink I want him to drink right at home, where he can get pure stuff, not poison liquor," she declared. "I am for state control of our own liquor laws. Up in Canada I never saw a Canadian under the influence of liquor."

HOW TO KEEP FROM GROWING OLD

Catholics Plan Celebration of 50 Years Here

Plans for the two ply celebration of the golden jubilee of the archdiocese of Chicago are proceeding apace, it was announced yesterday by the Rt. Rev. Bernard J. Sheil, auxiliary bishop of Chicago. The date for the observance has been set for Saturday, Oct. 25. The first part of the festivities will be religious, and the second, civic in nature.

Many previous celebrations in the Catholic church in Chicago have been managed by the Holy Name society, comprising only men, and the school children. It was decided, therefore, Bishop Sheil's announcement said, to give the golden jubilee observance management to the newly organized Archdiocesan Federation of Catholic Women.

Saturday morning, Oct. 25, a solemn pontifical mass of thanksgiving will be sung in Holy Name cathedral by Bishop Sheil, in the presence of Cardinal Mundelein. The church will be specially decorated and a musical program is being arranged for the service.

That evening a dinner will be held at the Palmer house. At that it is expected nearly 5,000 women will be present. The dinner will be the civic feature of the observance. Cardinal Mundelein and Bishop Sheil will be guests of honor and speakers at the dinner. Cardinal Mundelein has made it known that at this dinner he will deliver a message of particular interest to the women of Chicago who are completing the Archdiocesan federation.

Members of the Chicago chapter of Kappa Gamma Pi, national honor society of Catholic college women, will be hostesses Oct. 11 and 12 for a regional meeting of its members, including graduates from about fifteen Catholic colleges in various parts of the country. The gatherings will be held at the Palmer house.

Miss Helen Ganey, dean of women at Loyola university, will address the society Saturday afternoon, Oct. 11, on "The Uniqueness of Youth." Saturday evening there will be a dinner at the Palmer house at which the Rev. Francis M. Corcoran, moderator of the organization and president of De Paul university, and the Rev. Robert M. Kelly, S. J., will be guests of honor.

Mannequins to Help St. Luke's

Mannequins and cigaret girls for the fashion show to be given at the Stevens hotel on the afternoon and evening of Oct. 21 rehearsed yesterday. They met in the apartment of Mrs. Walter Wolf, 209 Lake Shore drive. Left to right, Josephine Dennehy, Beatrice Kirk, Marguerite Watson, Ruth Crosett. The show will be for the benefit of St. Luke's hospital.

WASHINGTON SOCIETY

Washington, D. C., Oct. 9.—[Special.]—President and Mrs. Hoover this afternoon entertained delegates to the sixth international roads congress meetings here this week. The delegates and those accompanying them number about 1,500. About 500 persons were asked to meet them.

The President and Mrs. Hoover received their guests in the blue parlor. It was a stand up and shake hands party with no refreshments. The marine band played.

President and Mrs. Hoover have as guests at the White House Hugh Gibson, American ambassador to Belgium, and Senator Henry J. Allen of Kansas. The latter is recuperating from a serious illness. He goes every few days to Johns Hopkins hospital in Baltimore for further treatment.

The Egyptian legation was the scene this afternoon of a reception in celebration of the anniversary of the accession of King Fuad I. The chargé d'affaires of Egypt and Mme. Aly Ismail were hosts. A string orchestra played oriental music throughout the afternoon.

Mrs. Alvin T. Hert, former vice chairman of the national Republican committee, was here today for the dinner given tonight at the Carlton by Mrs. William Adams Brown of New York in the interest of the Episcopal cathedral in Washington. Mrs. Hert will return here for the winter.

Inge Advises Britain to Heed Eugenic Facts

BY JOHN STEELE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]
[Copyright: 1930: By The Chicago Tribune.]

LONDON, Oct. 9.—The time is declared to be ripe for state action dealing with the physically and mentally deficient of Great Britain. A plea for more intelligent public opinion in the favor of eugenic marriages was the feature of the church congress at Newport, Monmouthshire today.

Dean William Ralph Inge of St. Paul's declared that eugenists were not fools and cranks. He stated that he did not wish to introduce the methods of a livestock farm into human life, but he knew that grapes could not be gathered from thorns nor figs from thistles.

"At the present we are not breeding from the learned and professional class or the able self respecting artisan class," he said, "but from dwellers of the slums who are the waste product of our social system. That is especially true of the mentally deficient.

"I do not think that the church ought to be indifferent to the system of laissez faire that largely increases the number of criminals and others who prey on society. If we say as Christians that it is no business of ours, how shall we justify the activities of the church in combating drunkenness, gambling and other social evils."

Dr. A. F. Tregold, member of the Consultative Council Eugenics society, stated that 80 per cent of all the defectives result from inheritance. He declared that it would be no exaggeration to say that for some time in the past the nation had been breeding from the dregs rather than the best of its population.

"It is obvious that, if this process is allowed to continue, national degeneracy is merely a question of time. It's a sum in arithmetic. The only way to avoid such degeneration is by increasing the propagation of the fit and preventing that of the unfit.

"Every child has the right to start life without the incumbrance of a diseased or otherwise defective inheritance. It should be a criminal act for any individual to produce defective children. It is time for the state to take some definite action. Before any result can be achieved the public conscience must be awakened."

Wood Carvings by Hallsthammar on Exhibition at Club

BY ELEANOR JEWETT.

Carl Hallsthammar has come rapidly to the front in his chosen craft of woodcarving. He is represented in the Metropolitan museum in New York, in the State museum in Springfield, and in the Dayton Art institute in Dayton, O. The Chicago Art institute owns several of his pieces, including those which may be seen in the Children's museum, the gift of Charles Worcester. From being an unknown quantity Mr. Hallsthammar and his unique art are familiar now to a great number of persons between the Atlantic and Pacific coasts.

An exhibition of his recent work is on view in the Midland club, 172 West Adams street. The same sure strokes and quick characterization that has distinguished his work before follow him here. The photographer with the maiden sitter from the country is irresistible. So, too, are the "Phrenologist" and the "Cobbler." The crowd of boisterous students in the freshman car is a clever exhibition piece. The "Mourners" has something of Daumier's cynical humor. The line of touts at the horse track is capital.

Probably the surest quality in Mr. Hallsthammar's genius is his sensitive penetration of personality. His tiny wood models are alive. He has the marvelous gift of naturalness. Look at the fat man, after dinner, cigar in hand, yawning a nice comfortable yawn. You have seen him in the flesh. There it is! You have seen many of these people in the flesh, and when you have not seen them you have sensed their spirit. Mr. Hallsthammar is a portraitist, a kindly cartoonist, a journalist of the emotions in wood. He does a royal good job.

To complete the exhibit a number of drawings and paintings by Frederic Remahl are on the walls. They are exotic and delicate. Several might be stage settings for ethereal ballets. Mr. Remahl delights in a fine line and the subtlest suggestion. He achieves grace and motion almost imperceptibly. The frames, of handwrought pewter by Rudy Renzius, bear out the qualities of the pictures. Mr. Renzius is another Chicago craftsman of whom we may well be proud. His work is original, effective, and charming.

Miss Beidler, Robert Carton Wed in Europe

BY THALIA ——.

Mrs. Francis Beidler of Lake Forest has returned from a summer in Europe with the interesting news that her daughter, Miss Elizabeth Loose Beidler, was married on Sept. 20 to Robert Carton of Brussels, Belgium. The ceremony took place in Brussels, and Mr. and Mrs. Carton have gone on a wedding trip through southern France. They are to reside in Brussels. Mrs. Beidler and her son, Francis Jr., sailed shortly after the wedding. The former Miss Beidler attended Westover and Smith college and made her debut in 1923 at the residence the Beidlers occupied at No. 4736 Drexel boulevard.

Mrs. Beidler now has a residence on Ridgegate road in Lake Forest, where she and her son and daughter have traveled most of the time since Mr. Beidler's death several years ago.

The annual fall luncheon and meeting of the Junior league is to be held on Monday at the Woman's Athletic club. The first regional board meeting to be held in Chicago will be held Wednesday morning. Mrs. C. Louis Meyer of Omaha, director of the region, will speak at the Chicago board meeting on Monday on "Forces, Policies and Commercial Activities." Representatives of the leagues of Omaha, Indianapolis, Kansas City, Minneapolis, and Milwaukee will be here for the meeting on Tuesday.

The Chicago board is to entertain the regional board at luncheon at the club on Wednesday, but the visitors will be here for only the one day, and so there will be no other entertaining for them. Mrs. W. B. Millard jr. of Omaha is assistant regional director, Mrs. Eugene Miller of Indianapolis is treasurer, and Mrs. Jean Ruffelfinger of Minneapolis is head of the arts and interests group.

Serving tea at the afternoon affair of the Woman's Parish league of St. James' is to give next Tuesday afternoon to display the handiwork of its members will be Mrs. Patrick A. Valentine, just returned from Southampton, Mrs. John Curtis, Mrs. Edward L. Iverson jr., Mrs. George S. Payson, Miss Secor Cunningham, Mrs. Raymond McKeever, and Mrs. Schuyler Thurber.

Mrs. James Hamilton Lewis is to entertain, and Mrs. Hayden Harris and a group of debutantes will sell the tickets. Those attending the tea will be permitted to sample the fruit cake, which can be ordered for Thanksgiving or Christmas. Mrs. Edward Ryerson is in charge.

Mr. and Mrs. Chauncey Borland of 30 Lake View avenue returned this week from Camden, Me. Their two younger daughters, Miss Harriet and Miss Beatrice Borland, have departed on a round the world trip, and Miss Martha has entered her second year at Dobbs Ferry.

Invitations have been issued by Mrs. Booth Turner Holmes of Cocoanut Grove, Fla., for the marriage on Oct. 9 of her daughter, Anne, to Charles Shepard Reed jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Shepard Reed of 12 Scott street and Ottawa, Ill. The ceremony is to be performed at Christ church in Ottawa, followed by a reception at Hickory Hill, the Reed residence.

Miss Holmes is to have only one attendant, Mrs. Phelps Dunham, as matron of honor. Thomas Phillips Field of Chicago is to be best man for Mr. Reed, and ushers include four members of his class at Yale and the Colony club—Charles Donald Davidson Jr., Charles A. Cooper, and Frank R. Stocker of Pittsburgh, John Marshall Budd of St. Paul, John H. Harwood Jr. of Boston, and Allen Francis Moore of Ottawa.

Miss Adelaide Atkin, daughter of the Godfrey H. Atkins of Winnetka, has also returned to her studies at Dobbs Ferry.

The Edward C. Crossetts of 1200 Lake Shore drive and their daughters, Miss Betty and Miss Ruth, have returned from a summer at Hyannisport on Cape Cod.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph D. Purcell Jr., who were married on Sept. 13, are now at home at 900 North Michigan avenue. Mrs. Purcell was Miss Charlotte Picher before her marriage.

Charles MacDowell has returned from a motor trip abroad, and is at the Glen View club until the latter part of this month, when he will return to his apartment at 1500 Lake Shore drive.

Mrs. Charles E. Rollins Jr. of 2355 Commonwealth avenue is to give a luncheon at the Woman's Athletic club today for her niece, Miss Avis Lewis, whose marriage to De Witt Davis III. of Evanston is to take place tomorrow evening at the residence of Miss Lewis' father, Edward Z. Lewis, also of Evanston.

Debutantes and other young women who are to act as cigaret girls or mannequins in the St. Luke's fashion show on Tuesday, Oct. 21, at the Stevens hotel met yesterday afternoon to discuss plans for the revue at a tea given by Mrs. Walter Wolf at her apartment at 209 Lake Shore drive.

Curtis Calls Edison, Lindbergh Heirs to Spirit of Pioneers

Springfield, O., Oct. 9.—(AP)—Vice President Charles Curtis, speaking here tonight at a dinner honoring the memory of George Rogers Clark, paid high tribute to the courage and bravery of Clark, Daniel Boone and other pioneers whose deeds made possible the opening of the great northwestern territory for settlement a century ago.

The Vice President said the spirit that prompted Clark and his fellow pioneers to push ahead into the wilderness amid great dangers from marauding Indians and animals is carried on today by the feats of Lindbergh, Byrd, and Edison, to whom the present generation pays homage.

Tracing the history of Clark's expedition to the battle of Piqua, fought near here, where Clark and his command routed the Indians and destroyed their villages, Vice President Curtis said Clark's men were propelled by a desire to open new territory and establish new cities.

Mr. Curtis pointed out that the Indians finally laid down their arms and adopted the habits and dress of the white man under a program of "peaceful persuasion."

"This is not the time nor the place to discuss the Indian question," he said, "but I must say our officials in Washington and their representatives in the field have made many mistakes in their dealings with the Indian tribes.

"Had treaties, obligations and promises been more sacredly kept and a greater effort made to give the Indians better school and vocational training the Indian question would have been solved years and years ago."

Springfield, Mass., Church Wins Architectural Prize

Cleveland, O., Oct. 9.—(AP)—Trinity Methodist Episcopal church of Springfield, Mass., today won the grand prize for the best design submitted at the national conference on church architecture here.

Entered in competition with designs from nearly every state in the Union, as well as from Canada, China, Japan, and Hawaii, the Springfield church, designed by Allen and Collens of Boston, also won first prize for churches in class A, seating more than 600.

New York, Oct. 9.—[Special.]—Mr. and Mrs. Harold Horton, Mr. and Mrs. Nicholas Mathey, and Mr. and Mrs. Arthur V. Smith, all of Chicago, were among the passengers on board the Red Star liner Westernland leaving here today for Plymouth, Cherbourg and Antwerp.

A THREE DAYS' COUGH IS YOUR DANGER SIGNAL

Coughs from colds may lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for coughs and colds and bronchial irritations. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of coughs from colds, bronchitis and minor forms of bronchial irritations, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. (Adv.)

Interest in Home and Sports Isn't Rated as Handicap

BY DORIS BLAKE.

"Do you think girls have to know how to swim, golf, play tennis, and know a lot about baseball and football?"

That's question No. 1 from Perplexed, who admits an interest in a boy who plays tennis well, is a good golfer, and an expert swimmer, and is crazy about football and baseball.

Answer: Girls do not have to know how to swim, etc., but they're going to miss a lot of good times not knowing how to do the things inquired about. I don't know as I'd suggest that they go in for professional golf and swimming and tennis, as I have a sneaking suspicion that it is well to let a man feel superior in matters in which his sex takes particular pride, and strength of body and skill at sports seems, in his opinion anyway, to be his prerogative.

However, champion golfers, tennis players, and swimmers of feminine sex do get married and live happily afterward, so that previous statement of mine may be just one of those old fashioned prejudices to which some of we elders like to cling. But the girl who can swim and play golf and tennis certainly has more opportunity for occasions of diversion than the girl whose distinguishing act is to sit and look pretty only. And, I suppose, a man would rather take to the ball games one who knew something of the game and its players than one for whom he would have to stop in the midst of his excited yelling to explain what all the yelling was about.

Question No. 2 from Perplexed: "Generally speaking, do young men want girls who are economical; that is, girls who appreciate hard times and are willing to cook a good meal for them once in a while? Girls who have to economize in their own living scale?

Answer: I think they want them economical. After marriage I'm sure they want them thrifty and good managers. It is a question, however, in the hot headed affairs of youth whether the fact that a girl is economical is as important as that she look snappy and is reasonably good looking and charmingly flattering. If, however, the thrift isn't appreciated for what it is honestly worth in a woman right away, it will be later on. The way to test their response to a girl who can cook a good meal and is willing to, is for the girl to tender an invitation to a home meal and note how eagerly a return engagement is sought.

DORIS BLAKE ANSWERS

Unfair Request.

"Dear Miss Blake: The fellow I love wants me to give up all my girl friends and go with only him. Is he fair? WONDERING."

It's most awfully unfair and you don't want to agree to such an arrangement. You need friends and should keep them.

Unconventional.

"Dear Miss Blake—Is it proper to invite a boy to whom one has just been introduced to a sorority dance? "JERRY."

Extend the invitation to some one you have known for a longer time.

A FRIEND IN NEED

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

Dressmaker's Request.

"I am a dressmaker and because of a long illness I had to give up my business and as a result I have no money at all. I am better now and would like to take in sewing, but the room I am living in is hardly presentable to receive customers. If you could get me a large size rug, an old gateleg table, a daybed and draperies for the windows and doors, I could fix the room up a bit.

"I need a winter coat, underwear and other clothing, size 48 or 50, too. If they are not the right size I can alter them. Mrs. M. H."

Her long illness has taken all the funds this woman was able to accumulate, but now she is well again perhaps she'll be able to support herself once more. A few customers, some winter clothing for herself, and the pieces of furniture to make her quarters more attractive would solve her problem.

WHAT A THRILL IT GIVES HOT MOUTHS!

You'll never be sure you're "doing the right thing by your mouth" until you try PEBECO, the "iced" dentifrice. Here is a tooth paste with a "bite" that means business. It cleans, it whitens, it leaves your mouth with a refreshed sensation you have never before enjoyed. No wonder regular Pebeco users smile so readily. No wonder they praise this working dentifrice so lavishly. Try it, please, one week, and you're its friend.

No Substitute for your Sweetheart

You certainly don't want any. Neither do you want substitute for Carter's Little Liver Pills as remedy for biliousness, torpid liver and constipation. Take Carter's, move nearly two pounds of bile, cleansing whole system. Accept no other. Buy at any drug store for 25c. Look for the red bottle. Resent substitute. Take Carter's.

Luxurious Ensemble in the New Smoky Gray

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special Correspondence.]—Afternoon ensembles this season are more formal than ever. Suits for early afternoon are of velvet trimmed with fur and they have satin or lamé tunics instead of inside blouses. Late afternoon ensembles are ankle length and luxurious enough to be worn to restaurant dinners and even, in many cases, to the theater. American Sunday nights are certainly responsible for these costumes that fill a long felt want in the life of the smart French business woman.

The new smoke grays are ideal for this type of costume, being less somber than black, while they are just as practical and easy to wear.

Paul Poiret uses several shades of this dark, soft gray in the formal afternoon ensemble sketched. The fitted coat is of brocaded wool velours in a dark, mauve gray. It falls nearly to the knees. It has raglan sleeves finished by taupe puffs that are buttoned on to the cloth cuffs. Fullness is added at the sides by circular curved panels edged with bands of taupe and the high ruff collar is taupe also.

The dress sketched below is of mauve gray crêpe de chine. It has petal panels at each side of the skirt of taupe colored crêpe de chine piped with the lighter shade, and the Egyptian hip girdle is made this way, too, as are the bands that join the wide bell sleeves to the upper sleeves. A band of the taupe crêpe, edging the décolleté, is finished by a bow piped in lacquer red and black. The silver belt buckle is enameled in red and black to match.

AVOID OPERATIONS

Unguentine Hemorrhoid Treatment Swiftly Banishes Trouble

There are no two ways about it—if you neglect piles you can expect but one consequence—the surgeon's knife. And operations are painful and expensive—they mean loss of time, work, and money. Not many can afford that.

So start using UNGUENTINE RECTAL CONES. They're made by the Norwich Pharmacal Co., who produced the world-renowned UNGUENTINE. Small wonder—that doctors have endorsed them for 30 years.

The maddening pain—the agonizing swelling, inflammation and itching—all go in a few days. It's up to you. Decide now that you're going to suffer no longer.

A box of UNGUENTINE RECTAL CONES is but 75c—not much for the blissful relief and lasting happiness they will bring you. Every drug store in America carries them. The Norwich Pharmacal Co., Norwich, N.Y.

Children in Same Family Receive Varied Training

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

How different children in the same family may be, and why, was the subdect we talked of yesterday. Heredity was one cause, we agreed.

And then we made the statement that home life was the other big factor. Yet, we wondered, how could that help to make each child that came along different from the next child if the home conditions are the same for every child—that is, if the parents are the same and their method of training the same?

The answer is that they're not. In the first place, parents rarely use the same system with every child. For instance, the first child, as in one case I know of, was to be a model child. His young father had the most Spartan ideas and the poor child was treated with the greatest severity.

When the second child came along a great reaction set in, and he was allowed to do absolutely as he pleased. By the time the third had arrived a balance had been achieved. So each child had a different training and showed this quite clearly in his behavior.

Also, they had a different father and mother. While young, the father and mother were much in love with each other and very happy, though they disagreed over the child's training. By the time the second child had come they had lost their illusions about each other, and were desperately poor, both having to work. When the third child arrived they were either constantly bickering or openly estranged, but devoted to the third child, whom they had excellent ideas about, and in comfortable circumstances.

This gives some idea of how different the influence may be on the various children in one family, making the children's behavior different.

Other families may show differences of other sorts. A second child may displace a first child in the parents' affections, making them treat the two children differently. Serious and often tragic results ensue. Sometimes one child is brilliant and another is slow. The parents show pride in one and impatience and shame in the other. Obviously their children's conduct shows the effects of this.

The differences in the way children in the same family often act because of the different conditions confronting each one as he comes along have been recognized by many people. Some of the leading psychologists have even classified them definitely as: The Problem of the First Child, The Problem of the Second Child, The Problem of the Third Child, etc.

So, the causes for the differentness in children of the same family are fascinating to speculate upon.

PATTERNS BY CLOTILDE

[Registered U. S. Patent Office.]

WOMAN'S OR MISS' DRESS.

This dress is a charming one for all day wear, and is designed to aid in giving that slender appearance—the wrapped movement at the front, with the skirt falling in a soft drapery, being most becoming. Patterned wool, Canton crêpe, flat crêpe, and sheer tweed are smart materials.

The pattern, 2682, comes in sizes 16 and 18 years and 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, and 46 inches bust measure. Size 36 requires 3¾ yards of 39 inch material with ¾ yard of 39 inch contrasting.

BEAUTY ANSWERS

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

T. H.: TO IMPROVE A SKIN which has been marred by scars it is necessary to have treatments by a skin specialist.

T. B.: THE OIL TREATMENT should be given at night, and the hair shampooed the next morning. After all traces of oil have been removed you will find the hair soft and glossy.

Slim Waistline Results from These Exercises

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

Do you want a couple of exercises to get your waistline in good shape for your next fitting, or if not for a fitting, for an early public appearance at which you will be sure to win a compliment on your svelte silhouette?

Five these a month's trial—every morning, every evening, and NO CHEATING. NO ALIBI-ING about time. They won't take more than ten minutes at the most. Give them ten minutes morning and night, however. Do them to music, if you like. It's a rare home that hasn't some kind of instrument from which canned music can be extracted. The element of play that music introduces makes the exercise that much less like routine and more beneficial.

Strictly for the waistline and abdomen is this movement, although the hipline, too, will come in for its share of profit. Stand about a foot away from the wall. Have the feet several inches apart. Slowly bend the body backward from the waist. Keep the knees straight. Continue to bend the trunk back until the hands touch the wall.

Don't strain, at first. Gradually, however, bend back and back until the hands touch the wall further and further down it. When your hands have gone as far down as can be done easily, move them up and gradually straighten the figure. When you get so that you can kiss the wall [not the most inspiring ambition, I'll admit] your waist and abdomen will be in better shape.

Then, while you are on your feet, and to loosen up after the preceding exercise, do the wood chopping version of the toe-touching exercise. Palms together over right shoulder, swing down on the outer side of the left leg; up and down again five times. Then from over the left shoulder swing the hands down outside the right leg. This is a peach of an exercise for waist whittling.

After these two standing movements you are now entitled to lie down on your back on the floor, raise the right leg, swing it over the left and point the toe as far to the left as possible. Swing the other leg over the right foot. Keep head and shoulders on the floor and do the swinging-roll with the hips. Swing right, left, right, left

specify Kotex

No sanitary pad can give you the same wonderful absorbency, perfect fit and lasting softness.

TAKE no unnecessary chances in this important matter of sanitary protection—specify Kotex.

Kotex—first of all sanitary pads—remains best of all sanitary pads. Every month, every year, scientists add details to perfect its comfort, to give you the feeling of being well groomed, at ease; to offer you inconspicuous protection.

First, its amazing absorbency

The absorbent of which Kotex is made—Cellucotton (not cotton) absorbent wadding—is unique. It is five times more absorbent than surgical cotton, by actual test. Five times more lasting for that very reason.

Kotex is guaranteed to last longer, to stay soft longer than any other sanitary pad.

It is not only soft and downy at first, but it remains that way even during use. Its comfort is lasting comfort.

Hospitals use it

Do you know that 85% of our leading hospitals use Kotex absorbent today? Yes, they specify Kotex, they insist on Kotex absorbent in cases where the utmost safety and delicacy are necessary.

You can have the very same sanitary care that world-famous hospitals give their patients. You should not be satisfied with anything less. Never is safety more vital, never is comfort more essential. Specify "Kotex." Accept nothing else.

Kotex Company, Chicago, Illinois.

KOTEX IS SOFT...

1 Not a deceptive softness, that soon packs into chafing hardness. But a delicate, lasting softness.
2 The Kotex filler is far lighter and cooler than cotton, yet absorbs 5 times as much.
3 In hospitals ... The Kotex absorbent is the identical material used by surgeons in 85% of the country's leading hospitals.
4 Deodorizes, safely, thoroughly, by a special process.
5 Disposable, instantly, completely.

Wildcats Go Throug Dummy Scrimmag

Advance ticket sales indicate the crowd of 40,000 will witness tomorrow's game at Dyche stadium between Northwestern and Ohio State. Oh 22 to 6 victory over Indiana Saturday established the Buckeyes as a threat in the conference race, places them in a strategic position in Northwestern's aspirations.

With Hank Bruder back in the city lineup for the first time since Tulane game things began to pick in the Wildcat camp yesterday. The Purple leader participated in a le defensive dummy scrimmage against the freshmen.

In addition to the dummy scrimmage yesterday's practice consisted an intensive blocking drill with backs and backs taking part. Coach Hanley also put the kickers through a long workout with the remainder of the backs getting a chance to try their hand at returning the punts. Today's practice will be confined to a light signal drill.

Several changes are contemplated for the Wildcats' starting lineup tomorrow. Larry Oliphant will be back at his old job at right end after having been out all season with boils. Moore, who saw only a few minutes of service against Tulane, is slated to start at right half. Lee Hanley will be at quarter instead of half, with either Rentner or Russell at full.

BUCKEYES EN ROUTE

Columbus, O., Oct. 9.—[Special.]—Thirty-three Ohio State football players left Columbus tonight for Evanston, where they will engage the Northwestern Wildcats Saturday. The team is in the best physical condition it has attained this season. The squad went through a light scrimmage this afternoon, brushing up on new plays after a long signal and forward passing drill.

Led by a 120 piece Ohio State band the players were escorted to the Union station where they boarded their special train.

Holcomb Is Back.

Holcomb returned to his regular place at right half in the lineup and Nasman took his place at center. Fess Jr. worked out the entire afternoon at end, with Larkins pairing off on the left end. Bell and Haubrich will start at tackles, Wingert and Selby at guard and Nasman at center. In the back field, Hinchman will start at quarter, Varner and Holcomb at halfbacks and Horn at full back.

Neil McKay, of Hollywood, Cal., halfback and end, was notified he was ineligible for further sports activities this quarter because he did not have enough credits from the University of California to qualify as a sophomore. McKay has been on the injured list since the first scrimmage of the year. He will be eligible for basketball.

Work At Dyche Field Today.

The Buckeyes will be quartered at the North Shore hotel and are scheduled to work out on the Dyche stadium field tomorrow afternoon. The list of 33 players to make the trip are:

Linemen—Bauer, Bell, Baumgarten, Diehl, Hennenberger, Farrier, Ferrall, Fried, Fesler, Gelbke, Haubrich, Hoffer, Hudson, Idle, Jack Larkins, Luke, Mandula, Nasman, Rentsler, Selby, Smith, and Wingert.

Backfield men—Benis, Carroll, Chisek, Daly, Greenberg, Hinchman, Holcomb, Horn, Jim Varner, Embrey, and Taylor.

SPIKING OF BALL PLAYER LEADS TO THREE WEDDINGS

Oakland, Cal., Oct. 9.—(AP)—Lyn Lary, New York Yankee shortstop, was spiked in a game here four years ago and, as a sequel, two baseball players took out marriage licenses today, running Lary's home maker record to three.

It all started when Lou McEvoy, once a Yankee pitcher; Johnny Vergez and Howard Oraghead, then Oakland teammates of Lary, visited him in Merritt hospital.

They met three nurses. Craghead married one last year. Today McEvoy and Vergez obtained licenses to wed the other two. Vergez will marry Miss Helen Porterfield on Sunday and McEvoy will wed Miss Maxine Simmons on Wednesday. Vergez was sold by Oakland to the New York Giants today.

And Lary, the cause of it all, is still single.

SINGER ARRIVES TODAY TO DRILL FOR MACK FIGHT

Chicago will get its first glimpse of Al Singer, the world's lightweight champion who knocked out Sammy Mandell in one round, today when he appears on the Century to complete training for his ten round bout with Jack Mack at the Chicago stadium next Tuesday night.

Singer will train at Barry's gym, which already is in training at Howard Arcade gym, having arrived yesterday from St. Louis, where he is studying for the priesthood at St. Louis university.

FIGHT TONIGHT

OTTO VON PORAT.

ANGUS SNYDER.

Von Porat and Snyder Meet in Ring Tonight

The Card

Otto Von Porat, Norway, vs. Angus Snyder, Dodge City, Kas., 8 rounds; heavyweights.

Edgar Norman, Chicago, vs. Chick Raines, Wichita, Kas., 8 rounds; 175 pounds.

Eddie Ran, Poland, vs. Johnny Hayes, Philadelphia, 8 rounds; 146 pounds.

Domenic Bernasconi, Italy, vs. Sid Torres, Philippine Islands, 8 rounds; 120 pounds.

Colognato Oreste, Italy, vs. Bud Doran, Chicago, 8 rounds; light heavyweights.

Heavyweights take the boxing spotlight tonight when Otto Von Porat, Norwegian, tackles Angus Snyder from Dodge City, Kas., at the Coliseum. It is Von Porat's first start in Chicago since he met with an unexpected reversal when Willie Stribling cracked him on the chin in the first round one night last June.

Snyder, who once whipped Vittorio Campolo, lost a newspaper decision to Otto in St. Paul. Angus was down twice in that fight but arose on each occasion and was giving Otto a battle at the finish. The heavyweights will weigh in at 2 o'clock today for the boxing commission. Snyder expects to scale around 195 while Von Porat will be a pound or so over 200.

Five eight round bouts are scheduled. Edgar Norman, Von Porat's stablemate, fights Chick Raines, Snyder's stablemate, in the semi-final at 175 pounds. Norman recently knocked out Frankie Wine and Frankie Clore. Raines, despite his youth, has had considerable experience. Snyder thinks Chick is good enough to outscore Norman.

Eddie Ran boxes Philadelphia's best welterweight, Johnny Hayes, in another bout. Ran knocked out George Kerwin on his last appearance. He and Hayes are to scale 146 pounds. Domenico Bernasconi, bantam champion of Italy, meets Sid Torres, the Filipino champion in another star bout. Bernasconi knocked out Blas Rodriguez in New York last Monday night. Torres has been boxing with success on the west coast and holds a decision over Kid Francis. This match is at 120 pounds.

Colognato Oreste, light heavyweight champion of Italy, meets Bud Doran of Chicago, who recently gave King Levinsky a warm argument, in the opening eight rounder.

MICHIGAN LACKS AN ATTACK FOR PURDUE BATTLE

Passer and Ball Carrier Can't Be Found.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Ann Arbor, Mich., Oct. 9.—Today, so far as Michigan is concerned, Purdue's Boilermakers became more than a threat. This evening as the Wolverines charged through the last real workout before their first important engagement of the year on Saturday, the crowd of athletes who will move in from Lafayette, Ind., took on the aspect of a menace.

Those who, while having the interests of the Wolverines at heart, still know the uncertainties of the Maize and Blue strength, don't attempt to hide their fear that Purdue will do to Michigan what it did a year ago.

There was a time when the big boys of the conference regarded the Boilermakers as just another preliminary foe. Purdue finally has grown up to dominate the conference as those same big boys learned to their sorrow last season.

Need Method of Attack.

What causes woe among the camp followers is that Michigan still is without a well defined method of attack. The presumption is that victory will be more a surprise than anything else. So far as can be seen, there are no passers to advance against a team like Purdue's. Neither do the Wolverines have a flashy, running back field star on whom the Boilermakers must concentrate. At least that back hasn't appeared as yet, although some youngster may prove to be just such a thing before finishing his collegiate career.

Best proof that the situation is not well in hand at this early stage of the season is that Fielding Yost, now athletic director, after years in the coaching saddle, has been out on the field the last week, lending a hand. He has been giving individual instruction with the idea of hurrying the development of such boys as appear to have the ground work needed for an ascension into stardom. Some of Yost's old plays also have been dragged from the book of gridiron history, but it is doubtful whether these will be of any use because of the limited time which the squad has worked on them.

Williamson Promises Well.

One of the several lads ranked with those who, before the season closes, may climb up to the level occupied by stars, is Ivan Williamson, a sophomore and a future doctor of medicine. His chance came when Hewitt, the Wolverine's best bet as an end, was put out for the year with a broken ankle. Since opportunity came his way he has conducted himself in a most convincing fashion. He's a fast stepping giant built on the lines of Oosterbaan, who made himself famous as the receiving end of Friedman's long and sometimes wild passes.

A peculiar thing about the Michigan layout is that nobody ever gives much mention to Jimmy Simrall, the Kentuckian who is supposed to have a corner on a half back job. Simrall happens to be the team captain, but this fall has done nothing to lift himself out of the class of mediocrity. He undoubtedly will start Saturday against Purdue and undoubtedly will be supplanted by Jack Wheeler. Simrall's chief virture is that of a punter.

Wheeler for the last few days has been one of the men employed in the frantic search for a forward passer. He acquitted himself admirably in the art of throwing them far, which seems to be Michigan's standard aerial method. He can also play the rôle of a receiver if necessary.

Still another hindrance in Michigan's path to win over Purdue is Maynard Morrison, the 210 pound youth occupying center. He is recovering from a bum shoulder and might easily be put out if Mr. Alex Yunevich or some other bruising Purdue back should hit him. Yunevich has a habit of diving through centers. If Morrison should be hurt it will cause a commotion, as Auer, who has won a job at tackle, would have to be moved over.

Navy Goat, Dedication and Practice Keep Rockne Busy

BY EDWARD BURNS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

South Bend, Ind., Oct. 9.—Life is very complicated at Notre Dame just now, what with getting ready for the stadium dedication ceremonies to be held tomorrow night, preparing for the Notre Dame-Navy football game on Saturday, making arrangements for the largest influx of visitors that ever swooped down on South Bend, and so on.

There are many capable persons associated with the University of Notre Dame, but it appears that folks removed a few miles from the campus do not know the name of anybody but Coach Knute K. Rockne. As a result Mr. Rockne in the present emergency is about the busiest man in America.

For instance, a telegraph messenger chased Mr. Rockne for two hours this afternoon and when he finally caught up with him, relayed the following telegram:

"In Navy party is one goat. Highly respected mascot. Must be cautiously transported your stadium. Please give your personal attention arrangements for this animal's comfort while in your city."

Mr. Rockne dropped everything else until he had appointed a committee of student managers whose sole duty will be to aid the Navy goat tenders to give the service mascot every consideration.

20,000 Without Reservations.

Before he began his football practice Mr. Rockne had a meeting with police department officials to arrange for turning off numerous traffic lights and the stationing of police and Boy Scout details along the traffic line to the new $750,000 stadium and also dropped in on the housing committee which is struggling to provide quarters for some 20,000 persons who will be here tomorrow night, though unable to make reservations at South Bend hotels. All these things, in addition to making last minute personal appeals for seats on the 50 yard line.

The Navy party, consisting of 80 persons and the goat, will arrive tomorrow morning at 10:45 o'clock at Lapax, Ind., and will be taken by auto to the South Bend Country club where camp will be pitched for the two day stay here.

The Navy will not have its band along, but the Elkhart High school band will toot Navy numbers exclusively and the Studebaker band will be careful to play as many Navy as Notre Dame pieces. The Notre Dame musicians will do their stuff as usual.

Dedicate Stadium Saturday.

Tomorrow night at 7:30 o'clock students will assemble in front of their respective halls and march to the stadium, where the dedication program will start at 8 o'clock. More than 100 persons, including high dignitaries of the Catholic church and laymen from all sections of the country, will assist in the ceremonies.

There will be three addresses at the dedication, the speakers being the Rev. Charles L. O'Donnell, C. S. C., president of the University of Notre Dame; Rear Admiral S. S. Robison, superintendent of the United States Naval academy, and Mr. Rockne.

The football game on Saturday will start at 8 o'clock and Notre Dame partisans will see their heroes clad in shamrock green instead of the usual blue and gold, this change being due to the fact that Notre Dame and Navy colors are the same. Usually when two teams have the same colors the host team makes the change, but the Notre Dame team wears the green whether playing here or on the Navy field, the concession being made because the service men are a bit finicky about all matters involving uniforms.

NAVY OFF FOR N. D.

Annapolis, Md., Oct. 9.—[Special.]—After a long practice in which all the players who will make the trip to South Bend were drilled in both offense and defense, the Naval academy football squad, under Commander Fred G. Reinicke, graduate manager of athletics, with Coach Bill Ingram in direct charge, left this afternoon for the scene of Saturday's conflict against Notre Dame.

Forty-four players, four complete teams, were carried in the special train which is scheduled to arrive in time for the midshipmen to hold practice on the local field early tomorrow afternoon. A number of the navy's higher officers, including Rear Admiral Samuel S. Robison, Capt. Charles P. Snyder, commandant of midshipmen; Capt. Henry D. Cooke, athletic officer, and others, travelled with the football party.

Coach Ingram would not disclose his starting team, but admitted that he would use as his first team the same combination that played the largest part of last Saturday's game. It is: Left end, Smith; left tackle, Bowstrom; left guard, Underwood; center, Black; right guard, Gray; right tackle, Bryan; right end, Byng; quarter back, Denny; left half, Tschirgi; right half, Kirn; full back, Hagberg.

He also stated that Bauer would be at quarter and Gannon at left half for a good portion of the game. The first back field is a clever running combination while Bauer and Gannon are both expert passers. The exigencies of the game are likely to determine which pair will be used. Other backs likely to get in the game are Castree, Konrad, Campbell, Williams, and Toth.

New York Giants Buy Oakland Third Baseman

New York, Oct. 9.—(AP)—The New York Giants today announced the outright purchase of John Vergez, third baseman of the Oakland, Cal., club and one of the leading home run hitters of the Pacific Coast league.

Prince of Wales Takes Golf Club Captain's Cup

SUNNINGDALE, England, Oct. 9.—(AP)—The prince of Wales today won the golf club Captain's cup, beating out T. H. P. Kolesar with an 81 to an 83. The prince's handicap is 11 and Kolesar is at scratch.

TRIS SPEAKER MAY MANAGE 1931 RED SOX

New York, Oct. 9.—[Special.]—Tris Speaker, center fielding star of the Red Sox of bygone years, will be the next manager of the Boston Red Sox, according to reports circulated in baseball circles here today. Speaker, who failed as a minor league manager with the Newark International league club, is said to have reached an agreement with Bob Quinn, owner of the Boston club, to become manager of the Red Sox for the 1931 season.

No official announcement has been made, but it is expected that the signing of Speaker will be announced when Quinn returns from the meeting of the American league now being held in Cleveland.

EVERYBODY GOES IN FOR SPORT ON BADGER CAMPUS

Intramural Games Draw 3,943 Players.

BY WILFRID SMITH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Madison, Wis., Oct. 9.—[Special.]—Athletics for all. This is the ideal of George E. Little, director of athletics at the University of Wisconsin. Since coming here five years ago from the University of Michigan, Director Little has developed one of the most extensive sports programs to be found at any American university.

Last year Wisconsin supported teams in 14 intercollegiate sports. The students competed in an intramural program which included 13 sports. Three thousand nine hundred and forty-three men—66 per cent of the male enrollment—participated.

In this manner Wisconsin answers the charge that college athletics are fostered for the few.

It Will Be Dad's Day.

Thus, too, do Director Little and the 28 instructors and coaches of the department of physical education build for the success of the varsity teams. Thousands will cheer the cardinal clad eleven Saturday when it meets the University of Chicago at Camp Randall in the opening conference game. These thousands, many of them fathers of university students, for it will be Dad's day, entertain high hopes for a successful season. The townspeople and alumni are optimistic, but their optimism is rational.

Wisconsin won its last football title in 1912, although many of its teams since have finished high in the race. In 1928, the second year of Glenn Thistlethwaite's régime, the eleven finished second, losing its final battle to Minnesota, 6 to 0. But, whatever Wisconsin's record this year, success cannot be far distant.

1,294 Play Basketball.

This assurance is based on the establishment of intramural football. Until three years ago, when Mr. Little conceived the promotion of the game for the benefit of all, educators frequently had declared, and without successful contradiction, that football was unsuited for a student body. This fall 600 players will take part in intramural football in addition to the freshmen, varsity and varsity B squads.

The popularity of football as an intramural sport is overshadowed only by basketball and baseball. Basketball leads. Perhaps this is one explanation for the continued success of Dr. Walter Meanwell's quintets, for he has a training ground for talent few schools possess. Seventy teams, entered in three leagues and composed of 1,294 players, engaged in basketball last winter.

Baseball is next in popularity with the students. Thirty-seven teams with 836 players form a background for Wisconsin's varsity which last spring won the conference championship under Coach Guy Lowman.

Free from Alumni Interference.

Wisconsin has been singularly free from the evils of alumni interference. Perhaps this is due to the system of organization which traces responsibility to an athletic council of ten, six of whom are faculty members, three alumni and one student, and which in turn reports to the board of regents of the university. However, another factor must be considered.

"With one exception our coaches also teach in the department of physical education," Director Little said today as he discussed the problems. "They are primarily members of the faculty. They are hired annually as other instructors are hired. No particular emphasis is placed on championships. If a coach is conscientious, performs his duty, there is no reason why he cannot continue in the department."

Four Wisconsin coaches have served twelve years or longer. Tom Jones, track and field coach, who retired as director of athletics with the advent

Spinach Is Favored to Win Gold Cup

Spinach, the New York 3 year old which races in the silks of William Ziegler Jr., has been made the favorite to win Saturday's renewal of the $25,000 added Hawthorne Gold cup. He is held at 2 to 1 in the betting.

Sun Beau was the second choice, at 3 to 1, and Lady Broadcast, the western filly which has been running in sensational style, was quoted at 4 to 1. Pigeon Hole, Alcibiades, and Saxon, which arrived yesterday from Kentucky, were all considered as outsiders in the speculation, although Pigeon Hole was held in fairly high regard, the price against him being 7 to 1.

A famous pricemaker who regards Spinach as an almost certain winner of the cup was of the opinion last night that at post time on Saturday afternoon Spinach, Sun Beau, and Lady Broadcast will all be equal first choices at about 6 to 2, with the others in the race quoted at long odds.

Thus the outsiders besides Pigeon Hole, Alcibiades, and Saxon will be Plucky Play, Jim Dandy, Karl Eitel, My Dandy, Chicago, Jem, and Ironsides. Both Jem and Ironsides are regarded as doubtful starters.

Jockey Frankie Coltiletti, here to ride Sun Beau, gave the son of Sun Briar his final stiff workout over the heavy Hawthorne course yesterday morning. It was a gallop at a mile and a furlong and after going the first mile in 1:43 Sun Beau was eased up in the final furlong to finish out the distance in 1:56 3-5. "He was in hand all the way," Coltilleti said after the workout.

There is no doubt but that Sun Beau has reached the peak of his form but his old time backers wonder if he can take his younger rivals, Spinach and Lady Broadcast, into camp. In the Havre de Grace cup at a mile and an eighth last Saturday Spinach gave Sun Beau a four lengths beating.

TEAMS NAME CANDIDATES FOR TRIBUNE AWARD

Most Valuable of 10 to Get Trophy.

Previous Winners

1929—Bill Glassgow, Iowa.
1928—Chuck Bennett, Indiana.
1927—Kenneth Rouse, Chicago.
1926—Benny Friedman, Michigan.
1925—Tim Lowry, Northwestern.
1924—Red Grange, Illinois.

BY ARCH WARD.

Who is the most valuable football player at each of the Western conference schools?

The athletes themselves are going to decide. At the end of the season the players on every one of the Big Ten squads will pick for THE TRIBUNE the man on their team they rate worthy of special distinction.

This will be the first time the athletes themselves have been given an opportunity to say who is who in conference football. Their choice will be made in a secret vote the last week of the campaign.

One to Receive Tribune Trophy.

From this group of ten most valuable players—one from each school—will be chosen the one to receive THE TRIBUNE'S annual award, a sterling silver football, actual size, suitably engraved and mounted on an ebony base. The final award will be decided by the conference coaches and officials, the same as in past years.

This new plan of conferring honor where it really belongs has been indorsed by every school in the conference.

THE TRIBUNE feels that football has outgrown the days of all star elevens. For years the late Walter Eckersall picked mythical teams for this paper. He was a pioneer in the field and was well equipped for the assignment by his experience as a player, writer, and official. But even Eckersall was beginning to appreciate the futility of the task. The growth of the game has been so widespread that all star elevens have become meaningless.

Choose Most Valuable.

THE TRIBUNE hereafter will not attempt to name the greatest players in the conference. It will present the ten players of most value to their teams. There is a distinction. In naming the players of greatest value consideration must be given to leadership, sportsmanship, self-sacrifice, and other attributes aside from physical proficiency. Selections will not be confined to any position. The ten players may all be tackles, if the athletes so decide.

"It's the fairest way of conferring honor upon those who deserve it that has yet been devised," said Coach A. A. Stagg of the University of Chicago. "I always have opposed all star elevens because they mean nothing. I hold that no man who attempts to name an all star team can be honest with himself. I have been working with my squad for three weeks and still am not sure of the relative worth of some of my players. How, then, can a man who watches them only once or twice during the season decide whether they merit a place on an all star team?

"THE TRIBUNE'S plan of letting the athletes themselves decide is a distinct step forward. Nobody, not even the coach, knows more about the worth of a player than the men who have worked beside him through a schedule of six or seven hard games."

What Big Ten Leaders Say.

Maj. John L. Griffith, commissioner of athletics in the Big Ten, made this comment: "You will find a ready response to THE TRIBUNE plan all around the conference. It's a great idea. All star teams no longer hold public appeal. I probably follow college athletics as closely as any one, but I can't remember any of the various all star teams that were picked last season."

Among the statements from other Big Ten leaders were:

George Huff, University of Illinois: "You are replacing something that we know is no good with something that may be very good. Under the old system occasionally a man was selected who wasn't even a good football player. I know that has happened on

Three Boys to Be Tribune's Football Guests Tomorrow

Three of the four Chicago school boys who kicked and passed their way to victory over a field of 500 entrants in THE TRIBUNE'S drop kicking and forward passing contest will watch Notre Dame and the Navy battle at South Bend tomorrow.

The boys and the events they won are: Ernest Kelly, 1533 East 67th place, junior passing; Sydney Weiner, 2316 Roosevelt road, senior passing, and Harry Barker, 3315 Fullerton avenue, senior kicking.

They will leave for South Bend at 9 a. m. Upon their arrival they will be taken to lunch, then to the game, and later to dinner. All expenses will be paid by THE TRIBUNE.

Leon Wagner, 1534 Norwood avenue, winner of the junior drop kicking event, will be THE TRIBUNE'S guest at the Illinois-Northwestern game at Champaign next Saturday.

IF YANKEES SIGN McCARTHY IT MAY BE FOR YEAR ONLY

Babe Ruth Has Eye on Job in 1932.

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Philadelphia, Pa., Oct. 9.—The boys must have their mystery and thus Col. Jake Ruppert, the owner of the New York Yankees, a ball club, not a dance orchestra, is unable to say just yet whether Joe McCarthy or some one else will manage his team next year.

Mr. McCarthy recently joined the army of the unemployed as a provisional recruit, but it seems unlikely that he will like the life and he has been trying to desert in at least two directions, toward Boston and the Bronx. A dude private he is, with the savings from five years of hire at $25,000 a year and a fund of pickings which a football coach might look upon with covetous admiration.

There be those among the patrons of the baseball business of such ready sympathy and indignation that another of those momentary vendettas has been declared against his late employer, Mr. Bill Wrigley, proprietor of the Cubs, on the ground that he did Mr. McCarthy some wrong. However, there were many dry eyes in all the baseball gatherings which I attended in connection with the late world series, as the woes of the jobless Joe were touched upon, the opinion being that any one who had received, say, $125,000 in the last five years, was no worse off than he might be.

He Got a Goodly Share.

I always feel that sympathy or pity bespeaks a condescension by the party of the first part and regard it as unseemly to commiserate such opulent unfortunates. Mr. McCarthy got out with a good share of his earnings and also with a salable reputation and if he is a victim of ruthlessness, then a two line ad in the help wanted, male, would bring an astonishing number of martyrs eager to suffer the same wrongs on like terms, or even for something less than half.

Moreover, it seems very likely that when Col. Ruppert has enjoyed his mystery and the publicity it will bring his ball club in the football season, when baseball is nonessential, he will suddenly discern matchless qualities of leadership and strategy in Mr. McCarthy, hire him and say so in a breathless wisp of flimsy which will be handed to the press in the outer room of his offices, according to custom. The job is open, McCarthy is the best man on the loose at present and Babe Ruth has still one year to play before he retires to the bench, according to his present plan.

Babe Has Lost Zest.

Mr. Ruth announced this intention in St. Louis. Eighteen years of combatant baseball and about four years of economy and care have yielded him an independent fortune and he has lost his zest for long afternoons in the outfields, to say nothing of his perceptible loss of dash. He has been investing in income insurance at a rate equal to the combined salaries of a half dozen fair journeymen outfielders and his living is as well assured until the end of his time as the future of the United States of America.

Also, Mr. Ruth, when he retires, will include among his assets and souvenirs a reputation as one ball player in whom the baseball instinct was so strong that he has rarely if ever been seen to commit an error of judgment. His way with ball players is such that he would make an agreeable executive, and he would have taken the manager's job last spring but for the fact that he was receiving all the money any one man could exact from any one club for playing the game as a field hand.

In the further capacity of manager he would have wanted at least $25,000 more, and he therefore decided to save this asset for individual exploitation at the end of his current contract, which expires next fall.

Will Hang Up Shoes.

"Then," he said, "I am going to hang up my shoes. Eighteen years is a lot of years and I'm getting tired. I'm well fixed now."

"But, after that, what?"

"Well," the Babe said, "I'll stick in baseball, I suppose. Manage some club, maybe. I don't know. Wait for offers."

In consideration of which it may be well for Col. Ruppert to make the terms of McCarthy's contract for one year only, without an option to Joe.

GIANTS ARRIVE TONIGHT; MEET BEARS SUNDAY

The New York Giants professional football team, led by Benny Friedman, will arrive in Chicago this evening for its first game of the season with the Bears at Wrigley field Sunday afternoon.

Coach Leroy Andrews, anticipating the toughest game the Giants have ever had with the north siders, is bringing the squad here a day in advance in order to practice tomorrow morning.

The Bears will present the strongest front they have ever mustered against the Giants Sunday. Although Bronko Nagurski and Joe Lintzenich, newcomers in the professional ranks, are playing well, the work of Red Grange in the games at Green Bay and Minneapolis stood out.

SMITTY—UGH!

POLYDOR HUSTLES HOME AS EASTERN TURF FANS CHEER

BY FRENCH LANE.

The choice of eastern turf followers, here in full force for the running of the Hawthorne Gold Cup on Saturday, scored a notable triumph in the Illinois Women's Athletic club handicap yesterday.

Polydor, a winner in Maryland a week ago and a son of Golden Broom-Polly Ann, was the one the easterners backed with great confidence and Polydor did not fail them. He came home hustling to the last inch and beat Cog Air by a neck with Best Man well back in third place.

Just how strongly the easterners wagered on Polydor is shown by the betting odds. He was at $3.08 to win, $2.72 to place, and $2.50 to show, and they were perfectly happy to get such odds.

Polydor was sent here as a traveling companion of Spinach, which will carry William Zeigler Jr's silks in the gold cup.

Polydor Jumps to Front.

The race was at six furlongs. The track was slow, yet Polydor jumped out in front soon after the start and just rolled along in front all the way. There was an outside tip on Ben Marshall, but he finished last. Cog Air forced the pace all the way and Best Man was always third. If it had not been for Cog Air's determined challenge in the late stages it would have been a parade all the way.

Polydor ran the route over the slow course in 1:12 4-5 and this was flying in such going. Reggie Fisher, who will ride Spinach in the Cup, was in the saddle on Polydor.

Otto W. Lehmann, president of the Arlington Park Jockey club, is now referred to as the long shot king and if a few more of his color bearers win at long odds his trainer, Billy Pinch, will be forced to take a rest cure for his nerves.

Stop Gap Pays $49.44.

Trainer Pinch saddled Mr. Lehmann's Stop Gap for the six furlong fourth race. Stop Gap was grouped in the field and was at 24 to 1 in the betting. Salona was an odds-on favorite and Gold Mint was a heavily backed second choice. As the field of twelve charged down the stretch Gold Mint, Salona, and Stop Gap were battling furiously for the lead. It was a ding-dong struggle for a furlong. Then Jockey Landolt called on Stop Gap for all he had and, while he swerved slightly, he had enough left to beat Salona by a nose. Gold Mint was well whipped by this time, but saved third money.

Trainer Pinch looked at the $49.44 two dollar odds posted against Stop Gap and could hardly get the blanket back on the Lehmann 3 year old.

EVERYBODY GOES IN FOR SPORT AT BADGER CAMPUS

of Mr. Little in 1925, has served the university for 18 years.

Build $500,000 Field House.

The erection of a field house for indoor sports is one of the achievements of Little's administration. Three years ago the state legislature voted in favor of financing a field house but the bill was vetoed by the governor. However, a building corporation was formed which borrowed $325,000 from the teachers' retirement fund and this fall the building will be opened.

Director Little now will ask the board of regents to sanction extensions to the Camp Randall stadium to care for the increasing demands of intramural competition. His proposal, submitted today, is a substitute request for a $400,000 intramural sports hall, which building will be sought later. If his request is granted the additions will provide locker and shower rooms for 1,500, two boxing rooms, two wrestling rooms, 12 handball courts, a curling rink, two squash courts, 24 tennis courts, and areas for intramural track and field. The cost of these additions is estimated at $135,000.

PERRINE IS SHIFTED.

Champaign, Ill., Oct. 9.—[Special.]—Burton Perrine, 132 pound quarter back from Twin Falls, Idaho, was shifted to quarter back on the University of Illinois football team in today's practice. Perrine was used on the first team two weeks ago, but Clark Root, an Urbana boy, replaced him and not until today has he been given another chance.

The following team lined up: Swanson and Owen, ends; Stan Bodman and Hills, tackles; Ack Bodman and Ovelman, guards; Bauer, center; Perrine, quarter back; Berry and Yanuskus, half backs; Schultz, full back. Capt. Olaf Robinson attended practice with his arm in a sling.

MAROONS LEAVE TONIGHT

Twenty-eight Chicago football players will leave tonight at 6 p. m. for Madison and thus game with Wisconsin tomorrow in Camp Randall stadium. A light signal drill early this afternoon will complete the Maroons' preparations for their first conference game. Those selected for the trip are: Capt. Van Nice, Knudson, Cowley, Brislen, Stagg, Temple, Horwitz, Trude, MacKenzie, Hamberg, MacNeille, Wien, Abbott, Kanne, Riewich, Wallace, Parsons, Toigo, Sickler, Manelkis, Cassels, Bellstrom, Greer, Zenner, Gabel, and Vandernoor.

The remaining fifteen or so members of the Midway squad will be scrambled about by Lonny Stagg in organizing an eleven to battle North Central college of Naperville on Stagg field tomorrow afternoon.

Having spent three days devising a defense for Wisconsin plays, Coach Stagg devoted last night's session to revealing some new flanker formation variations to his men. A short dummy scrimmage in which these plays were tried out under fire completed the last hard workout of the week for the Maroons.

Government Saves Gaudy Wood Duck from Extinction

BY BOB BECKER.

After being on the verge of extinction, America's most gaudily dressed waterfowl, the woodduck, has staged a great comeback under the protection of the federal law. This fall you can see these handsome birds in large numbers in the Illinois river bottoms.

Uncle Sam reached out his hand just in time to save the beautiful woodduck from going the way some of our other American birds have gone. It still is under the protection of the government and hunters are forbidden to kill or possess them at any time of the year. In other words, there is no open season on woodducks, so the hunter has no excuse if he is found with one in his possession.

For some time reports have been coming to us regarding the abundance of woodducks this fall, the situation being an excellent example of what protection will do for a bird. With so many in the marshes the autumn waterfowl hunter [even if other species are not around] is assured of a pretty good show as he sits in a blind, because the gayly dressed woodducks are active birds and can be counted on to dash up and down the flyways at any old time.

Hunters should get acquainted with this bird as soon as they invade the marsh in order that no mistakes be made resulting in the death of any of the protected ducks. In flight the woodducks can be identified by the gaudy colors of the male and by the short neck, white breast and long tail of both sexes. As a rule they will crash into the territory around a blind as if they didn't have a care or danger to worry about. Usually they fly alone, unmixed in flocks of other waterfowl.

Last fall we found hundreds of these magnificent birds in the flooded timberlands along the Illinois. Sitting in one blind called the "buckbrush" we could hear the woodducks squealing like so many pigs. Although most numerous around the woods and near the buckbrush blind, the carefree beau brummels also played with us all day in another blind located in a broad, open flat where the smartweed was abundant.

STANFORD WILL SHOW BIG TEN HOW COAST PLAYS

Meets Gophers Tomorrow at Minneapolis.

BY HARVEY WOODRUFF.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Minneapolis, Minn., Oct. 9.—Leland Stanford university's veteran football team is expected to "put on a show" when it meets Minnesota here Saturday. The show will go as far as the Indians, who suffered humiliating defeat from Vanderbilt a week ago, will permit. Just what the inexperienced Stanford eleven may do to prevent that defeat is not known even by the Indians at their coaching staff.

Dick Hanley, Northwestern university: "I am strong for THE TRIBUNE'S plan. Who are more capable to do so than the Big Ten's best than the players themselves? Northwestern will co-operate in every way possible."

Edward H. Lauer, University of Iowa: "THE TRIBUNE'S plan is a most excellent one. It not only will mean something but will leave a much better feeling among the players. I am enthusiastic about the idea."

Sam Willaman, Ohio State university: "Your plan is a good one and I shall be glad to coöperate in every way."

George Little, University of Wisconsin: "You can count on Wisconsin to support any plan as fair as the one THE TRIBUNE suggests."

Harry Kipke, University of Michigan: "We'll do everything we can to further the idea."

Doy Warner, Stanford coach, is making his first visit from the coast to Big Ten territory. That is why local opinion is that Warner will "put on the works" in order to leave in this vicinity an abiding impression of Pacific coast gridiron prowess.

Stanford Has Veteran Team.

Stanford has the material for such an exhibition. Only four first stringers are missing from the 1929 aggregation, which was accounted the strongest squad on the coast last year, although it lost a one touchdown game to Southern California in the thirty-round-a-rosy schedule of the Pacific coast colleges. Then it came east and showed Army what forward passing was all about by a 21 to 13 count.

Stanford's forward wall averages over 190 pounds. It has three backs over the 200 pound mark, although the average is brought down by the presence of Moffatt, a running back of 160 pounds. Stanford crashes and hurdled passes, besides possessing a dependable punter.

Gophers' Eleven Green.

Against this seasoned aggregation Minnesota will present an eleven in which not a single first string man is playing in the same position as last year. Its line averages 187 pounds, with its back field 170 pounds. Certainly a team of this power, poundage and green by comparison has no reason to anticipate a cheerful afternoon.

Yet the Gophers were out at their practice field this afternoon, receiving their final scrimmage, not with the intention of playing a defensive game against the invaders but with the idea of launching an attack of their own. Since the squad boasts no singer of the Joesting or Nagurski type, its chance of getting into the scoring column lies in running plays and passes, forward and lateral. That was the offense taught this afternoon while the linemen, especially tackles and ends, were receiving pointers on how to meet Stanford slashes off end and wide tackle.

Boles Brings Information.

These pointers were relayed to the squad from information supplied by Dr. Albert Boles, now a practicing physician, who came on from the coast for that very purpose. Dr. Boles, star at Minnesota, was Boles Rosenthal, captain and center on the 1914 eleven.

Reports of Minnesota scouts on Stanford were not without their bit of humor, if it can be called humor. In a search for weaknesses, Coach Dietz asked how Stanford plunged. The answer was "great." Crisler asked how Stanford passed. Answer: "Even better." Punting? "Long distances." Defense? "Perfect."

As Minnesota is forced to place its faith in the hope that its players have learned something from their first game and will come back with fighting spirit. Fear that the line will be outplayed is not as poignant as fear that Stanford passes will start the visitors on a march and the locals on a rout, which, no doubt, is just what Stanford will attempt to do.

Gopher Line Looks O. K.

Physically, the Gopher line looks well. An observer could not judge of the backs from practice drill.

Stanford will arrive in the morning and the players will be whisked to the Lafayette club at Lake Minnetonka, 17 miles distant, for quiet. They will return in the afternoon for a signal drill at Minnesota stadium, at which a crowd of 50,000 is expected to be present. Capacity is 59,000. Minnesota also will receive signal drill and skull practice, then spend the night at a country club.

HOW TO REACH NOTRE DAME

The above maps detail the auto route to South Bend, Ind., where Notre Dame will dedicate its stadium against the Navy eleven tomorrow.

Here Are Auto Routes to Big Grid Battles

BY HAL FOUST.

Twenty thousand automobiles will roll out of Chicago tomorrow morning, carrying football fans to South Bend, Ind., Madison, Wis., Ann Arbor, Mich., Urbana, Ill., and Bloomington, Ind. The season is here for a fast Saturday drive over countrysides decorated with fall foliage to massed stadiums where bands play, pennants wave, and youth cheers athletic heroes. Fifty thousand Chicagoans will ride in these cars leaving tomorrow.

The Notre Dame-Navy game will draw approximately 5,000 cars wearing Chicago vehicle license tags. It's an easy three hour drive of a hundred miles, and Coach Rockne has arranged traffic and parking facilities at South Bend for the convenience of visitors.

The Chicago Motor club recommends leaving Chicago over Ridge road. Ind. 6, to avoid the congested industrial cities in northern Indiana traversed by the more heavily traveled U. S. 20.

Second in popularity with Chicago's motoring football fans tomorrow will be the Chicago-Wisconsin game. The trip to Madison is 147 miles over the scenic hill and lake country of northern Illinois and southern Wisconsin. The recommended route is over Rand road to Volo, Ill. 20 to McHenry, and thence on U. S. 12 to the stadium.

The Michigan-Purdue clash will attract many motorists to the 246 mile drive to Ann Arbor. The Chicago Motor club suggests going by way of South Bend to Elkhart, Ind., thence U. S. 112 to Saline and over a county road to the campus. The passage through South Bend will be too early in the forenoon and too late in the evening to conflict with Notre Dame crowds.

Butcher, De Paul Half Back, Hurt in Scrimmage

Ernie Butcher, De Paul university half back, was injured during scrimmage yesterday and it 's doubtful' if he will be in condition to play tomorrow when the Blue Demons invade Winona, Minn., to meet St. Mary's college. Frank Hartman, speedy ball carrier, will be used in Butcher's place.

While considerable gloom followed Butcher's injury, there was cause for rejoicing when Red Harrington, 1929 star half back, reported in uniform for the first time in two weeks following a leg injury.

ALL-STARS PLAY CARPENTERS.

The Maccabee All-Star soccer team will play the Carpenters at Kuppenheimer stadium at 19th street and Keeler avenue Sunday.

IN the WAKE of the NEWS

FOOTBALL.

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Oct. 9.—[Special.]—Three Big Ten football contests will be decided Saturday. With these games comes the formal weeding out of potential candidates for the conference title, several of them potential only because they are members and must be considered until they have been defeated. Ohio State at Northwestern, Purdue at Michigan, and Chicago at Wisconsin are the games.

The affair at Ann Arbor is all important. It was Purdue's victory over the Wolverines last year in a late scoring bee which started the Boilermakers on their championship route. Purdue again has high hopes. Michigan was rated highly before the season opened, but to date has not clicked as expected. Because Michigan coaches are still trying to find the proper combination to produce a scoring punch, Purdue will be picked by a majority to win, although the game is at Ann Arbor.

Until Ohio State ran up a score against Indiana, Northwestern was expected to take the game in its stride. Now, however, there is some cause for worry at Evanston. Buckeye sophomores who performed so well against the Hoosiers will find a different kind of opposition in the Purple. The latter, to come anywhere near advance season estimates, simply cannot afford to lose. Early, we called Ohio State a "dark horse." It is, but it hardly looks as if its new material could ripen so fast.

Wisconsin is the logical victor over Chicago's green line. The Maroon attack, which must be built around flanker plays with passing, has not had time to be fully developed as it was last season to down the husky University of Washington outfit in the final game. Wisconsin's showing will give some line on its chances against Pennsylvania a week later.

Minnesota, which took it on the chin from Vanderbilt last Saturday, again has its chin exposed in meeting the crack Stanford eleven, which is reported as strong as a year ago. The others also figure in nonconference conflicts.

LOYOLA REVISES LINEUP FOR GAME WITH DUQUESNE

The lineup of Loyola university's football team has been revamped for its game here tonight with Duquesne university of Pittsburgh. Bob Schumann and Tom Walsh, sophomores, will start at ends. Jerry Gottschalk will play at left tackle in place of Lutzenkircken and Steven Furchess will appear at right half back. Performance of the Ramblers against Georgetown last week was a disappointment to Coach Eddie Norton and he hopes to add more power to the team by the changes.

Duquesne's starting lineup will be composed of the same players who succeeded in piling up huge scores while holding their opponents scoreless in their first two games. The easterners have constructed a dangerous forward passing attack around Quarter Back Joe McCarthy, Burns, and Capt. Benedict.

Loyola's back field will consist of Capt. Les Molloy at left half, Furchess at right half, John Smith at full, and Ted Connelly at quarter.

The meeting will be the second between the two schools. Last year Loyola lost, 7 to 0. The game will be played at Loyola stadium, starting at 8 p. m. Lineups:

| LOYOLA. | | DUQUESNE. |

PROBAK SHOCK-ABSORBERS

prevent edge distortion

YOU wouldn't bend a razor blade under terrific pressure in a vise and expect its edges to remain perfectly true and keen. Yet this is exactly what you do every time you clamp a blade in your double-edge razor. An 84-pound bending strain is exerted when you screw the handle down firmly. You can't prevent this—but you can buy a blade specially built to absorb the shock—a blade that is absolutely proof against edge distortion.

Shaving Edges Protected

The revolutionary new Probak blade has a built-in shock absorber. Bending stresses are entirely dissipated by butterfly channeling in duo-tempered steel. The perforations are scientifically designed. These patented features make a tremendous difference in shaving performance. Bending shocks cannot reach Probak's super-keen edges. Distortion cannot occur. When clamped in your razor the shaving edges of a Probak are just as true and just as keen as they were when you unwrapped the blade.

Probak blades are for Probak razor and other razors of this type

PROBAK RAZOR and 8 BLADES for $1

To introduce the new Probak razor we offer a matched shaving set consisting of one Probak razor and 8 Probak blades for $1. If your dealer cannot supply you, order direct.

Probak shaves you as comfortably as a barber's straight edge. It glides across your face with a light, caressing touch that leaves your skin clean, cool and refreshed. There's no drag, pull or vibration—no smart or burn—no need to press against your face. Just guide your razor. Probak's super-keen, perfectly aligned edges wipe off tough beard as easily and quickly as your finger skims off creamy lather.

Probak Is Guaranteed

These are the reasons Probak can guarantee quicker, cooler, smoother shaves on a money-back basis. Years of study and experiment are back of our shock-absorber patents. We know that this blade will outshave your present blades. Prove it without risking a cent. Buy a package of guaranteed Probaks and use two in your double-edge razor (old or new model). If you don't agree they are far better blades—your dealer will refund the full purchase price—$1 for 10, 50c for 5.

HOLLAND'S ART STUDIOS LEASE BOUL MICH SHOP

Take Space in Decorative Arts Building.

BY AL CHASE.

Holland's Art Studio and Galleries, now at 4821 Broadway, have leased the south half of the ground floor of the Decorative Arts building, at 620 North Michigan avenue, for ten years at a minimum guaranteed annual rental of $12,000. In addition, the lessees have taken 1,000 square feet on the third floor for an art gallery to contain fine china, bronzes, furniture, paintings, antiques, etc. The total space leased is approximately 3,000 square feet.

The space was rented from the Erskine-Danforth corporation, owner of the building, and was formerly occupied by the Tafejian Rug company. The first floor will be extensively remodeled and Mr. Holland will move from his present uptown quarters about Oct. 25th. McMenemy & Martin, managers of the building, state that it is now 100 per cent rented and has a waiting list.

Refinances "The Towers."

Charles Pegler reports having refinanced the Towers in Sheridan square, Evanston, a large apartment project, with a $300,000 first mortgage, 6 per cent, ten years, through Nelson, Hunt & Co. Smart & Golee have been made managers of the property.

The United Recreation company, of which Joseph Amelianovich is president and general manager, has leased the entire second floor of the building at 1706 East 79th street for a ten year term. The building adjoins the Avalon theater. The lessees will open their sixth unit in a chain of bowling and billiard rooms, about Dec. 1st. Frank C. Wells & Co. were brokers.

Buys 36 Flat Building.

The thirty-six apartment building at the northeast corner of Greenview and Sunnyside avenues, known as Greenview Manor, has been purchased by Marcus Weil from the Liberty Trust & Savings bank. Frisch & Frisch were attorneys.

The Olive Can company has purchased 96x96 at 2215-2223 Ferdinand street from Alfred E. Strobel and is erecting a one story addition to its plant. Strobel & Hall are the architects.

The six flats at 6238 Dorchester avenue, lot 115x177, were sold by the estate of Hilda W. Kyle to Myrick D. Harding for an indicated $55,000, subject to $37,000. Mr. Harding then sold the property to Paul J. Gustafson. Frank J. Hinkamp & Sons were brokers.

BUTTER AND EGGS

Dropping over $400 per car from the previous close, November butter struck an all time low on the Chicago Mercantile exchange yesterday, reaching 32¾c before the session closed. Lack of confidence in a demoralized market brought about the most spectacular drop in recent years. Losses were over $800 per car since Oct. 1, and over $1,500 per car since Sept. 1. Egg futures likewise struck new low levels. The butter break was the worst in the history of the exchange. November closed at the low of 32¾@32¾c, off 2¼@2¾c. December ended at 32¾@33¼c, off 1¾@2¼c.

Egg futures also reflected the uneasiness in butter and trended lower at the close after holding firm early in the session. However, the drop was of a less spectacular nature. November closing at 20¼, off ¼c, and December at 20¾c, off ¾c. Sales—Butter: November, 202 cars; December, 179 cars. Eggs: November, 264 cars; December, 53 cars. Receipts: Butter, 5,165 tubs; eggs, 2,735 cases. Prices follow:

CITE DANGERS IN DRAIN OF GOLD FROM GERMANY

BY EDMOND TAYLOR.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

[Copyright: 1930: By The Chicago Tribune.]

PARIS, Oct. 9.—With the arrival of a new shipment of $7,750,000 in German gold to augment the fabulous hoard already in the vaults of the Bank of France international financial circles here tonight fear the point has been reached where only drastic emergency measures can prevent a real catastrophe.

Since the German elections the reich has shipped France a total of $52,500,000. While Germany is steadily drained of a gold supply she was forced to raise the discount rate to 5 per cent today while France steadily tightened her grip on the purse strings of Europe. The latest statement of the Bank of France shows an increase in one week of almost a billion gold francs [about $200,000,000].

Experts here see the French policy of hoarding up the European gold supply a critical menace to peace and a grave danger to the world financial stability. An indication of the seriousness of the situation is the rumor that the gold situation will be taken up at a conference of the governors of the principal European banks with the officers of the International bank which has been called at Basel for tomorrow.

OHIO EDISON CALLS ISSUES.

Packard Motor Car.

Will you please give me your opinion as to the Packard Motor stock?

C. A. F.

Packard Motor Car company, for many years a leader in the production of high priced automobiles, conducts a business established in 1900. During the last six years sales and earnings increased substantially each year, with the exception of 1927.

Although results for the first half of 1930 were in line with the lowered activity of the automobile industry the company showed its ability to operate at a profit in a period of slackened demand for luxury products.

Passenger car registrations for the first seven months of 1930 totaled 19,057, compared with 26,658 in the first seven months of 1929.

Last year, after a long period of experimentation, the company placed in operation a special plant for the manufacture of its newly developed Diesel type air-cooled airplane motor and in March, 1930, it was announced that a marine engine of the Diesel type was being developed.

Net profit for the six months ended June 30, 1930, was $5,528,837, equal to 37 cents per share earned on 15,000,000 no par capital shares. Net profit for the June quarter was $2,872,750, or 19 cents per share.

Although the 25 cent quarterly dividends were not being earned in the first half of this year the treasurer stated in August that directors had no thought of passing the December dividend. On June 30, 1930, surplus was $13,618,087. Current assets were $34,287,729, and current liabilities were $10,040,979, leaving a net working capital of $24,246,750.

Since the five for one stock split up last year there has been a large increase in the number of the company's stockholders, but control still rests with the relatively small group which has been closely identified with the company for many years. The holdings of the management have been practically unchanged.

In the year ended Aug. 31, 1929, earnings were $1.68 per share on 15,000,000 shares, against $7.28 per share on 3,004,264 shares in the preceding year. There is only one class of stock and no funded debt.

In September, 1929, the company changed its fiscal year to correspond with the calendar year and adopted a new policy whereby a reserve for miscellaneous general contingencies was set aside from each month's profits instead of being charged in a lump sum to fourth quarter profits as in former years.

The stock deserves a fairly good rating.

Leipzig Trade Fair.

I would like your opinion of Leipzig Trade Fair 7 per cent bonds, due 1953.—T. J. C.

They are a suitable investment for a business man's surplus funds.

Container Corp. Reports Sept. Gain in Shipments

Container Corporation of America reports net shipments for September of $1,660,482 compared with $1,450,132 in August, an increase of 14 per cent. Walter P. Paepcke, president, announced that orders booked on Oct. 1 were 16 per cent ahead of the bookings on Sept. 1. In terms of tonnage September shipments amounted to 29,349 against 24,890 the preceding month.

Third quarter shipments of Cutler-Hammer totaled $2,198,116, against $2,683,398 in the preceding quarter and $3,321,450 in the third quarter of 1929. Nine months' shipments amounted to $7,405,721, against $9,196,767 in the like period of last year.

DRY GOODS.

NEW YORK, Oct. 9.—(AP)—Cotton goods were quiet today, with lower bids being considered for some sheetings and convertibles. Raw silk was firmer and more local buying was reported. Rayon was selling more freely for delivery this year. Moderate trading was reported in small lots of dress goods, overcoatings, and suitings.

SUGAR.

NEW YORK, Oct. 9.—(AP)—SUGAR—Raw continued its upward movement today with prices advancing about 1/6 to the basis of 3.26 for spots duty paid, while shipment sugars were still higher.

Reports from Cuba that the committee's plan for the stabilization of sugar had met with the hearty support of President Machado and that the necessary legislation for its adoption would be passed in congress led to another sharp advance in raw sugar futures. The market closed 6 to 8 points net higher. Approximate sales, 95,000 tons. Prices follow:

BROKERS' LOAN KEEP STEP WITH STOCK DECLINE

Weekly Total Off 1 Millions.

ROKERS' LOANS EEP STEP WITH TOCK DECLINE

Weekly Total Off 158 Millions.

BY O. A. MATHER.

With the continued decline in the ket market in the last week it was ifestable that there should be an- er shrinkage in the amount of credit used in speculation. The week- report on brokers' loans issued terday by the federal reserve rd showed a decline of $158,000,000, ich was only a million dollars less than the decrease registered in the preceding week.

The total of brokers' loans on Wednesday stood at $2,905,000,000, a ease of $3,308,000,000 from the total of $6,713,000,000 reported a year ago. But the current total does not reflect the decline in stock prices on Wednes- day, as stocks sold then were not valued until yesterday. And with yes- terday's smash in the market it is likely that brokers' loans underwent another large reduction.

Not Important Factor.

In contrast with a year ago, it now may be said that brokers' loans no longer are an important factor in the general credit situation. Whereas sixteen months ago the federal re- serve authorities were issuing warn- ings against the excessive use of credit in speculation and deploring the influence of high call loan rates on commercial loans, now there are no such strictures and money rates are at the lowest level in a generation.

There also are other striking con- trasts. A year or so ago the use of credit in speculation was admittedly out of control of both the banks and the federal reserve authorities. Cor- porations and private lenders, both domestic and foreign, poured their surplus funds into the New York call loan market in order to take advan- tage of high rates. Then they were lending $1,941,000,000, or well over half of total brokers' loans. Now, how- ever, they are lending only $610,000,- 000, or $1,331,000,000 less than a year ago and $17,000,000 less than a week ago.

Withdraw Funds.

Interior banks also have withdrawn funds heavily, their current loans totaling only $855,000,000, compared with $1,791,000,000 a year ago. This means a reduction of $1,244,000,000 in a year and a decline of $47,000,000 in the last week. With these heavy withdrawals in the last year, it has been the lot of the New York banks to cushion the call money market and the stock market. While these banks reduced their own loans by $30,000,000 in the last week, they still are lending $1,740,000,000, which represents an increase of $767,000,000 over a year ago.

There has been little change in the general credit situation in the last week, as shown by the weekly report of the federal reserve system, issued last night. With autumn trade slow in developing, business and industry is finding small need for borrowed funds and most concerns are able to finance themselves.

Member banks of the reserve system reduced their borrowings from the re- serve banks by $12,750,000, bringing the total down to $172,166,000. But the drainage in credit was more than offset by the reserve banks buying an additional $17,915,000 of bankers' ac- ceptances. Their holdings of govern- ment securities declined $738,000. De- posits expanded $9,427,000, but note circulation fell $10,953,000. Gold and cash reserves declined $241,000 and $30,000, respectively, but the ratio of reserves to liabilities remained un- changed from a week ago at 81.6 per cent.

The New York Federal Reserve bank made no change in its 2½ per cent re- discount rate. Its statement showed a decline of $743,000 in member bank borrowings, which now total $25,649,- 000. Bankers' acceptances increased $35,138,000, but government securities held about steady. Deposits receded $14,798,000. Reserves declined $57,- 160,000 and the reserve ratio fell to 83.7 per cent, compared with 86.6 per cent a week ago.

The Chicago reserve bank reported a decline of $1,534,000 in member bank borrowings, which now total $15,096,- 000. Bankers' acceptances declined $1,138,000, but government securities held about steady. Deposits expanded $14,423,000. Reserves increased $17,- 253,000 and the reserve ratio rose to 84.9 per cent, compared with 83.6 per cent last week.

Government Report on All Crops Is Due Today

A government report on corn, spring wheat, oats, barley, hay, potatoes, and other crops based on returns to Oct. 1, will be issued at 2 o'clock Chicago time today. Expectations are that corn estimates will be 1,990,000,000 to 2,050,000,000 bu. The report is based on conditional returns, which it is believed have improved. Husking returns, however, are the reverse. September estimates were 1,982,000,000 bu.

The private reports of Oct. 1 suggested 2,000,000,000 bu. Final returns last year were 2,614,000,000 bu, and the five year average is 2,700,000,000 bu. Little change in estimates of spring wheat from 240,000,000 bu last month is expected. The estimated oats yield of 1,391,000,000 bu in September may show a small increase.

PRINCE & WHITELY FIRM IS NAMED HERE IN BANKRUPTCY SUIT

The Chicago house of Prince & Whitely, located at 208 South La Salle street, was named defendant in involuntary bankruptcy proceedings instituted in federal District court here yesterday afternoon. The petition was filed by the law firm of Schwartz & Cooper, representing Al Sider, a client of the brokerage firm.

Sider has a claim of approximately $20,000 against the house, according to his attorneys. No estimate of the total alleged liabilities was given. The petition names Otto Antonsen, J. M. Hoyt, and Felix Hughes as Chicago officials of the company.

The suspension of the firm by the New York exchange was followed by similar action by the director of the Chicago Stock exchange and the Chicago Board of Trade.

Morton J. Traub, former manager of the securities department of the company's Chicago office, died Sept. 25 as the result of a wound received when he shot himself in the chest a few days previously in his Highland Park home. Friends said the shooting was accidental and a coroner's jury returned an open verdict.

An involuntary petition in bankruptcy was filed in the federal district court yesterday against Robert S. Strauss & Co., investment securities, of 105 West Monroe street. The petition was filed by the law firm of Allen, Ward & Gallagher, on behalf of Poor's Publishing company of New York, with a claim of $1,000. No estimate was made of the company's liabilities and assets.

Chicago Stock Market Prices Off 1 to 8 Points

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

News of the suspension of Prince & Whitely, prominent New York and Chicago brokerage firm, released a flood of liquidation on the Chicago exchange yesterday which carried prices down from 1 to 8 points in one of the most distressing trading days which has been witnessed on the floor this year.

Following the suspension of Prince & Whitely by the New York Stock exchange, governors of the Chicago exchange met and took similar action.

Announcement of the suspension came out on the New York ticker shortly before noon, causing an immediate wave of offerings. Up to the time of the announcement the market had displayed weakness and stocks generally were selling below the level of Wednesday's last prices. As the news ticked out over the tape the floodgates were released and from then until the final gong the market continued downward, interrupted only by feeble rallies.

Jam Brokerage Houses.

Brokerage houses in La Salle street were jammed throughout the trading hours. Seats in the customers' rooms were all occupied and standing room was at a premium. There was a tenseness in the atmosphere and for most of the watchers it was a serious affair.

Hurried calls for margins were being sent to customers last evening by brokers throughout the financial district. Calls for more collateral were phoned by customers' men and the general air was one of preparation for whatever may develop in today's market.

The most severe decline in the Chicago list occurred in Auburn Automobile which tumbled 8 points to a record low of 80 on transactions involving only a few hundred shares. Atlas Stores, which is traded in here as well as in New York, broke over 5 points on a single sale of 100 shares. The suspended firm had acted as bankers for the Atlas company. The break in the stock was followed by a reassuring statement from President H. M. Stein of the corporation.

Under Pressure.

Middle West Utilities, the old line leader of the list, was under pressure and was the most heavily dealt in stock on the board. The issue sold down more than 2 points, but it closed over a point above its low price of the year.

Other motor shares did not escape the selling which hit Auburn. Borg-Warner found a new bottom at 16½, then recovered to 18, down 2 for the day. Bendix sold at its low, then edged up an eighth. Reflecting the weakness in Auburn, Cord corporation broke through to 5, a fraction under its previous bottom quotation.

Radio stocks shared the general fate. U. S. Radio lost around 2; Zenith fell below 5 for the first time on record; Grigsby felt its way down to 6.

Declines among other representative shares were Castle, 6 points; Electric Household, 3; Swift International, 1½, and Libby McNeill, ⅞.

Trust Shares Easier.

Investment trust shares were easier. Burnham Trading sold at 2¼ at the close. Insull Utility was off 2¼, and Chicago corporation dropped a fraction.

The day was not without its glimmer of favorable dividend news, however.

Associated Telephone and Telegraph company announced the declaration of an extra of $1 on its class A stock. The payment will be continued if earnings warrant, it was stated. The stock regularly pays $4 annually. A similar extra was voted in July.

Warchel corporation directors passed the quarterly disbursement of 62½ cents on the preference shares which is due at this time. The company announced that it has disposed of its stock in the Ward-Love corporation to the General Water Treatment corporation in return for 33,600 shares of the latter firm's stock, together with a ten year option to buy an additional 33,600 shares at $20 a share.

MELLON REPLIES TO CRITICISM OF FINANCING

Washington, D. C., Oct. 9.—(AP)—Secretary Mellon said today the criticism of treasury financing voiced last night by Representative Byrns [D., Tenn.] was due to a "complete misunderstanding of the situation."

Byrns, ranking Democrat on the house appropriations committee charged that the administration was "attempting to create a fictitious surplus" in the treasury "by withdrawing from the sinking fund sums largely required for the reduction of public debt."

Mellon said the accusation was rather surprising in so experienced and intelligent a member of the house of representatives who would hardly at any time other than the month preceding elections display such a convenient ignorance of treasury financing."

Explaining the charge apparently was based on the fact that only $65,000,000 was applied to debt retirement from the sinking fund during the first quarter of the present fiscal year as compared with $236,846,000 for the same period last year, Mellon said the explanation was "simple enough."

REPORT BIG GAIN IN PARAMOUNT PUBLIX INCOME

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Oct. 9.—A 39 per cent increase in earnings for the first nine months of 1930 in comparison with the same period of 1929 was reported today by the Paramount Publix corporation.

The big movie company estimates its consolidated net profits, including earnings of subsidiary companies, after all charges and taxes for the nine months ending Sept. 27, 1930, to be $13,541,000, which amounts to $4.59 per share on 2,948,397 shares outstanding. This earning is 29 per cent ahead of last year, and constitutes a record.

For the three months ending Sept. 27, 1930, the corporation reports net earnings, after all charges and taxes, of $5,100,000, which amounts to $1.60 a share on 3,180,636 shares outstanding during the quarter. This is 11 per cent ahead of the third quarter of 1929, likewise a new record.

GRAIN MARKETS BREAK SHARPLY TOWARD FINISH

Wheat, Corn Both Close Lower.

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

Grain markets showed a tendency yesterday to break away from the depressing influence of the drastic decline in Wall street. Prices averaged higher in the early trading, only to break sharply toward the last due to the unsettling influence created by the continued recession in values in the east, and forced liquidation by an eastern house which announced its insolvency. This tendency was not confined to grains, but was also apparent in cotton, coffee and sugar, while liquidation developed in butter and carried that commodity and eggs off to a new low for a number of years.

Wheat at the top showed as much as ¾c over the finish of the previous day in sympathy with strength in the Liverpool market, and held above the finish of Wednesday a good part of the day. It weakened toward the last to drop 2⅝@3c from the best figures and close within a fraction of the bottom with net losses of 1⅝@1¾c on the old crop months and 2¾c lower on the July. December finished at 77⅛@77⅝c; March, 80⅝@80⅞ to 81¼c; May, 83⅜@83⅝c, and July, 84⅝c.

Wheat Receives Support.

Trade in wheat was not large early, with fair support from strong commission houses in evidence, while on the break holders of bids and shorts were on the buying side. Stop loss selling was offset to a large extent by scale order buying by commission houses, and the break was utterly lacking in the dramatic features which were so much in evidence a short while ago. Cash interests sold December and bought May at 6⅛@6¾c difference.

At the inside figures wheat prices were within ¾@1⅛c of the lowest level of the season and 6⅞@7⅝c below the high point of last week. While the export demand showed improvement during the day the sales were estimated at only 500,000 bu, mainly Manitobas. Europe as a whole showed little disposition to buy heavily. This is attributed in part to the liberal clearances from Russia, whose shipments during the week were 4,352,000 bu.

Affects Winnipeg Early.

Wet weather in the Canadian northwest, which may delay threshing and the movement of wheat, had some effect on Winnipeg early, but the latter eased with Chicago and finished 1⅛@ 1⅜c lower. Liverpool was unchanged to ⅝d higher on cold weather in Argentina and short covering. Buenos Aires dropped 1⅜c for the day. February in the latter closed at 73½c.

Milling demand for cash wheat remains fair with local handlers selling 28,000 bu, but there was nothing heard of foreign demand and the basis on

Difficult to Get Co-ops to Co-operate: Scrutator

BY SCRUTATOR.

Huge difficulties continue to face federal agencies which are charged with the task of putting all the farmers of the country into co-operative organizations big enough to market agricultural products on a profitable scale.

The hope of accomplishment naturally would lie with the growers who already coöperatively minded. It is the disposition of some of these, who have their own ways of doing business rather than those which are suggested from time by the federal farm board, that forms a nucleus for the trouble. Mrs. C. O. Brink, who manages the Idaho-Oregon Turkey Growers' association, has been in Chicago several days with a story about why her people don't want to sink their individual affairs with those of other groups. They don't like the setup offered to them for an association of turkey producers over the whole northwest; they don't like the by-laws or the management offered them, and see no necessity to borrow the government's money to store turkeys when they can sell them in their native mountain valley and collect cash.

Women Start Association.

The Idaho-Oregon association is no child. It was formed in 1923 with fourteen women as members. They were getting low prices for their turkeys, sometimes only 15 or 17 cents a pound. Their first assembled and carload should for 34 cents. Now they are shipping 125 carloads a year and have been averaging around 40 cents a pound. At that price 125 carloads are worth a million dollars.

According to Mrs. Brink, the members of the association pay $1 a year dues and total charges against the turkeys are only a half cent a pound. The birds, farm dressed, are assembled in Idaho towns, buyers are notified, and the fowl are sold there under sealed bids.

"We never had to consign our turkeys and there was no difficulty about financing the association," she said. "But when I attended a conference which was the first step toward the organization of all the people raising turkeys in the northwest I found that the whole tendency was to put on a big overhead.

"They said they were going to take off a quarter of a cent a pound for a certain sinking fund and have the privilege of taking off up to $25 a car for another purpose. Then for the handling charge, selling charge, and salary of a manager at Salt Lake City they would take off whatever was necessary."

Refuse to Join.

In addition, the 2,760 members of this already successful organization would have to place their destinies for a ten year period in the hands of a group managing the turkey business of nine states. They refused to go in, Mrs. Brink said, and now only four of the nine states are signed to the northwest project. This group, under the aegis of the farm board, is preparing to ally itself with a coöperative in Idaho, a rival to Mrs. Brinks' association.

This difficulty in getting coöperatives to see why they should merge with others has cropped up in live stock, in grain, and in cherries. About half the coöperatively sold live stock is marketed through an association that to all intents and purposes is a competitor of the one that has borrowing power from the federal farm board. Reports have it that the cherry men in Wisconsin don't want to surrender their freedom for the loans, which they don't need, and that they will find themselves competing with a government financed rival in Michigan.

Good resolutions

It is a truism that good resolutions born in adversity often come to naught when the circumstances that called them forth no longer exist.

The course of the security markets in the past year has no doubt led many investors to certain conclusions regarding the investment of their money. It is quite clear that the purchase of common stocks on margin does not constitute investment. It is equally obvious that an investment account which rests on borrowed money is not in a sound position. It is comparatively easy to appreciate now that bonds and selected preferred stocks have definite investment virtues.

The point of view so frequently expressed in the days of the bull market that income from securities was a negligible consideration has given way in large part to the more traditional attitude that the conservation of capital and the realization of a reasonable return on it are the chief functions of investment.

The continued weakness of stocks brings closer the time when they will reach a point from which movement on the up side may be expected to begin. With heightened business activity, there will be a revival of interest in common stocks, and as the upward phase of the cycle develops the experiences of the past will become less vivid as a guide to action.

There is a way for the investor to make sure that the passing enthusiasms of the moment will not affect his investment perspective. That way is through the formulation of a balanced investment program. A strong investment house with an interest in all the forms of investment—bonds, short term notes, preferred and common stocks and investment trust securities—can assist effectively in this work and cooperate in carrying it on.

STOCK MARKET DIPS TO LOWEST LEVELS OF YEAR

Large Brokerage House Is Suspended.

stitute it in the United States District court by three women creditors, charging claims totaling $8,500.

The petition was filed against the firm as a whole and against the partners as individuals. It requested Federal Judge William Bondy to appoint the Irving Trust company as receiver.

The three women are Miss Iris I. Swift of New York, who claims $7,218 as equity in her brokerage account; Mrs. Lillian A. Kielsrath of Hoboken, who claims $359 in credit balance, and Mrs. Eleanore Wencker of Brooklyn, who claims $800 in credit balance. The women are represented by W. Jeffrey James, attorney.

Counsel Optimistic.

In the absence of J. M. Hoyt, senior member of the firm, no statement could be made by Prince & Whitely partners. Eugene L. Garey, of Garey, Brierley & Beatty, counsel for the firm, however, assured anxious inquirers that the difficulties of Prince & Whitely appeared to be merely temporary and that there probably will be no loss to creditors. He stated that a reorganization is being worked out. The present members of the firm have no relation to the founders of the name, merely using the old firm name.

The market had opened weak and active leaders and groups had been under severe pressure from the outset. With the announcement of the suspension of Prince & Whitely it rested literally to "lose its head." By blocks of some of the highest priced securities of the list were dumped in one after another and prices broke rapidly in all directions.

Firm's Stocks Drop.

Stocks in which the suspended firm was known to be largely interested, including Hahn Department stores, Edmonton, Atlas stores, National Dairy Products, L. A. Young Spring and Wire, Brockway Motors, and Auburn, were especially weak and most of them speedily found new price bottoms. Hahn sold off 5¼ to a new low, National Dairy Products 3½, Atlas 4¾, Young 14, and Brockway 2¾.

The weakness spread to the curb, where the shares of the Prince & Whitely Trading corporation, sponsored by the suspended concern, were sold out for an attack that drove the common down 7 points and the preferred 14 points below last night's closing, and to the bond list where both American obligations dropped from 2 to 17 points.

The share market steadied and rallied a bit in the last hour, but revived selling just before the close carried the leading active issues back to their low levels of the day and some of them on beyond.

Leaders Drop Sharply.

Steel closed at 146⅝, off 4¾ points on the day; American Can at 114¾, off 4½; Consolidated Gas at 95⅛, off 7½; Eastman Kodak at 187, off 7½; General Electric at 55, off 3⅝; New York Central at 141½, off 5¼; Standard Oil of New Jersey at 56⅛, off 2⅞, and General Motors at 36⅜, off an equal point.

Some of the more striking net losses of the day included American Waterworks, off 8¾; Auburn Auto, off 8¾; Columbian Carbon, 7¼; International Paper, 9½; Peoples Gas, 10; Young Spring and Wire, 14; Worthington Pump, 9; Foster Wheeler, 7½, and Federal Mining and Smelting preferred, 26½.

Among the better known of the series of stocks to bump new price bottoms during the day, in addition to those already named, were Allied Chemical and Die, American and Foreign Power, American Telegraph and Telephone, Baltimore and Ohio, Bethlehem Steel, Brooklyn Union Gas, National Cash Register, Montgomery Ward, Johns Manville, International Harvester, Standard Gas, Warner Brothers, and International Nickel.

Grim Fight on Steel.

The fight over Steel developed into a battle royal, the likes of which the street has not seen in many a day. For days the street has anxiously watched the action of the old leader as it stubbornly refused to retreat to its former low level, and the first hour today will be remembered as one of the dramatic chapters in the history of the street. Crowds around the ticker in Wall street brokerage houses witnessed the fight which ended in the dipping of Steel below 150.

It was the 25,000 share order which turned the tide and incidentally made room exchange history. The next sale after this was 1,000 shares at 149⅝. Then the next few sales Steel sold at 149⅜, and then at 148¾, where it began to wobble for a fresh flop that was to land it at its minimum for the day, 146.

Richard Whitney, president of the stock exchange, who is generally regarded as a Morgan broker, was then pushed as a Morgan broker, was then reported to be taking substantial blocks of Steel around $150, and the tide was on the floor rose to 150¾. His buys were reported to be as large as 100 shares. Mr. Whitney was believed generally to have been the salvage of the market last November, the stubborn support of Steel, according to report, having helped to turn the tide of the market.

Rallies Are Feeble.

With only feeble rallies interrupting its course, the market continued its decline until well into the afternoon, when bull leaders succeeded in definitely turning the tide only to see their efforts nullified by the next selling outburst of the final hour. The ramifications and repercussions of Prince & Whitely suspension, the first since the collapse of the bull market last year, were considered more important than any of the previous ones, even including that of J. A. Sisto & Co., an investment and brokerage firm with international connections which was suspended Sept. 30. Other brokerage failures since the bull last year included Woody & Co. in June 19, Mandeville & Chaffee of Providence on Nov. 11, and Robert & Co. of Cincinnati, Dec. 31. Piperno & Co., a curb house, was suspended last July.

Over Half Century Old.

Established in 1874, when Daniel Drew, Jay Gould and Commodore Vanderbilt occupied the speculative limelight, Prince & Whitely had built up an extensive brokerage and banking business and had taken an important part in industrial financing. Its headquarters were at 25 Broad street. The firm celebrated its fiftieth anniversary in 1928.

The firm's floor members are G. Lisle Forman and Morrison B. Orr. Other partners, besides Mr. Hoyt, are Otto Antonsen, Felix T. Hughes, J. H. Stark, L. S. Critchell and O. B. Van Sant.

The firm acted as bankers for the Atlas Stores corporation, but H. M. Stein, president of the latter, in a statement, said the corporation was not affected by the suspension of Prince & Whitely.

"Directors of the Atlas Stores corporation are scheduled to have a special meteing before the end of the week, at which the regular cash dividend will be declared," he said.

"The sales of the corporation have been consistently higher this year than last and the sales for September, 1930, were in excess of those for September, 1929. Day by day in October the same situation appears—namely, increased sales over 1929."

Lew Hahn, president of Hahn Department stores, another of the companies in which Prince & Whitely was interested, said that earnings so far this year were higher than last and that as of July 31 inventories showed a decrease of more than $3,000,000 from a year previous.

"Although at this date it is too early to predict 1930 profits," said Mr. Hahn, "because in department store operation a substantial proportion of sales and profits is made in the last quarter, it can be stated that net earnings to date as against actual earnings of last year before charges to reserve show a substantial improvement."

The Prince & Whitely Trading corporation, sponsored by the suspended firm, is an investment trust with assets of $25,000,000. Those familiar with the situation insisted that the suspension should be without adverse effect on Prince & Whitely Trading corporation. The latter was reported to have a portfolio comprising seasoned issues of rails, industrials and utilities and the liquidating value of the trading corporation stock was placed at $3 to $3 a share. The trading corporation paid an initial dividend of 25 cents a share on the common this year, followed later by another payment of the same amount, and $3

Estimated receipts at Chicago today, 2,000 cattle, 20,000 hogs, and 20,000 sheep.

Best grades of cattle recovered midweek losses yesterday, the top 1,046 lb yearlings going to $13.25, highest for that weight since early in June. Top hogs held firm at the recent advance, prime 280 lb butchers bringing $10.60, while other weights declined 10@25c. Top western lambs were unchanged at $9.00 and natives steady to 25c lower.

The few well finished butchers averaging 240@280 lbs on the market yesterday cleared quickly at strong prices, while the oversupply of 175@210 lb averages from the new crop was unloaded at sharply lower prices. The three larger houses handled a combined total of about 10,000, including 5,000 mostly light and light butchers bought here around $9.90 and slightly below.

The general average declined 15c at $9.70, but is still 80c above the low day of last week. About 6,000 hogs were still in the pens at the close, the low point of the day. Five western markets expect 43,000 today, against 37,100 last Friday.

Hog Futures Slow.

Trading in hog futures was very slow yesterday, but prices held mostly steady. Contracts for January light at $8.95 were within 5c of the highest for similar contracts in three weeks. December lights were bid $8.75 and were being offered at $8.75 at the finish. January mediums were bid $8.75 and heavy, $9.00. October mediums were bid $9.35 and offered at $9.70.

Uneveness featured the cattle market, top kinds holding a strong position, while others ruled weak to 25c lower, finishing slow at the reduction. Nearly 70 yearlings averaging 969@1,046 lbs brought $13.25, the peak, and 1,073 lb averages sold at $13.10.

The heaviest cattle offered yesterday averaged 1,634 lbs, and sold at $11.00. Butcher stock sold slowly at the previous day's reductions. Best calves advanced 25@50c, while cheaper grades sold steady to strong. Stockers and feeders unchanged.

Lamb Trade Weaker.

Although best grades of western range lambs held steady yesterday, the general market was weaker, with some sales as much as 15@25c lower at the close. Best natives dropped 25c at $9.00, which was also paid for top westerns.

Another large string of fed western shorn lambs sold at $8.25, the same price that was paid for similar kinds in mid-week. Yearling stock met good demand at stronger prices, prime 92 lb averages bringing $7.50 and 112 lb stock $7.25. Aged sheep sold steady. Feeding lambs met fair demand at steady prices.

Receipts at Chicago for today are estimated at 2,000 cattle, 20,000 hogs and 20,000 sheep, against 2,313 cattle, 13,183 hogs, and 18,308 sheep on the previous Friday and 1,179 cattle, 19,567 hogs and 8,410 sheep a year ago.

COME OUT TODAY AND PICK YOUR NEW HOME FROM 49 BRAND NEW 5 ROOM STEEL CONSTRUCTED, MODERN BRICK BUNGALOWS.

Model Bungalow at 339 W. 101ST-ST.
These bungalows are ready to move into now. Among the very attractive features are: Large living room across front with coved ceiling and side lights. Large, well proportioned dining room. Two nice, well lighted bedrooms. Bathroom with newest plumbing fixtures and color schemes, tile floor, built-in tub, including shower, pedestal wash stand and Venetian steel medicine cabinet. Well laid out kitchen with plenty of pantry space.
An unusually high attic, fully floored and containing six French windows. This attic is easily convertible into two bedrooms.
This house has plenty of closet space throughout and includes one cedar lined guest closet with full mirrored door.
The basement is extremely large and well lighted.
The building is heated with an oversized Fenimaular furnace and is equipped with a hot water tank and gas heater attachment.
We furnish you with two laundry tubs. The back porch is glazed and screened and also contains a swinging garden bench. The yard is fenced and graded and both front and rear yards are covered with thick dirt.
Screens and shades are furnished by us free.
Every improvement is already in. This includes sewer, water, gas, telephone, electric cement sidewalks, and asphalt streets. Sidewalks running from street to alley are also included.
This house, while worth a great deal more, is priced at only

$7,450

Garage, gas range, ice box, or linoleum at small additional cost.
If you select your home now you can pick out the fixtures according to your own tastes, also get your choice of wall papers, colors, etc.
These bungalows are well constructed and the materials and workmanship are apparent even to the casual observer.
They are located in a well built up, restricted community, near schools (both private and public), churches, stores of every kind, etc., and are as near as one block from street car and suburban transportation.
We invite you to come out immediately and see our model bungalow.
Homes are built in Cottage Grove, State, or Vincennes-av. car and transfer to 103d-st. car. Get off at Princeton-av. one block south Park-blvd., State, or Halsted-st. to 101st-st.

SIGNATURE ONLY LOANS

If you get one, two or more endorsers and you can borrow money at The Fair ON YOUR SIGNATURE ONLY.

We prefer to loan money to One Man or Woman steadily employed ON HIS OR HER SIGNATURE. Our records show that the greater part of our loans are SIGNATURE ONLY LOANS.

Service is such a departure from the usual method of making loans that people are amazed when it is explained to them.

Loans made from $10 to $300. Pay back any time and pay only for the money you have the use of. Our service is made for the borrower.

If the few who do not qualify for SIGNATURE ONLY LOAN we make SIGNATURE LOANS or LOANS WITH ONE ENDORSER.

Write us a call. You will appreciate our service and we will appreciate your business.
